Nixon Campaigns In Bay Cities, Asks For Scholarship Program

Would Salvage Talents Of American Youths

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Richard Nixon pushed his final California campaign up the east shores of San Francisco Bay today, lashing out at the "pied piper from Boston," and offering a program which would salvage the "talents of hundreds of thousands of boys and girls who should go to college and can't afford it."

Speaking in the courtyard of San Jose's crescent-shaped glass city hall, Nixon told a crowd estimated by Police Captain Edward Pracna at 20,000, that "the pied piper from Boston," had been "running around saying that we've been standing still."

With a sweep of his arm toward the five-story building circling behind him he asked: "Here in the second fastest growing city in the nation do you believe we have been standing still?" The crowd shouted "No."

SLIGHTLY DAMP

Looking over a colorful but slightly damp crowd including a Chinese high school drum corp in brilliant red and yellow uniforms, (the girls wearing dainty red slippers and the boys white keds) Japanese children in multi colored kimonos, Mexican youths in trim native costume, the Vice President referred to San Jose State College, Santa Clara, and Stanford University, and declared: "It is not true that we are second to the Soviet Union in education."

He warned his audience "not to use the Communist yardstick" in judging our education. The communists are turning out "scientific and engineering automatons" who are designed to be "just someone on an assembly line," he declared.

"CAN'T WASTE TALENT"

America realizes "there is more than gross materialism" in education and wants our students to develop in their own way" and to become a part of the community.

"But we can't waste the talent of boys and girls who should go to college," Nixon went on. "The way not to do it is the way suggested by my opponent, to turn everything over to the federal government."

Instead, the Vice President proposed scholarships for those not able to pay the government back, loans for those who will" and "give tax credit and tax deductions to parents

Kennedy Asserts Campaign Moving In His Direction

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy said today his visits to eight closely contested states in the last three days have convinced him the campaign tide is moving in his direction — partly because "economic issues are hitting harder now.

The Democratic presidential nominee made the statement as he began the home-stretch effort to nail down the state's vital 45 electoral votes.

At a Bronx County women's lunch, Kennedy pledged that if he is elected he will appoint a top-level White House aide—possibly a woman — to "represent the interests of the American consumer in all the activities of government."

'FIRST TASKS'

He said "one of the first tasks" of this official, a consumer counsel in the office of the president, would be "to help formulate economic policies which will keep a general rise in the price level from having a discriminating impact on consumer prices."

The candidate arrived here early this morning aboard his private plane from Chicago, where he made a nationally televised speech last night from the Chicago Stadium. The indoor hall was filled beyond its 26,000-seat capacity.

Television time ran out before Kennedy could get to the prepared conclusion of his speech, assailing Nixon as a man with "fear of the future."

OBVIOUS GIBE

But in an obvious gibe at Nixon he did say that "if a man cannot withstand the pressure of a presidential campaign or a fifth debate, he cannot withstand the pressures of the presidency."

Kennedy said that the first thing he had tried to do in the campaign was "to tell the truth to the American people, whether the truth was pleasant or not."

He said he also had tried "to set before the American people their unfinished agenda — the tasks which Franklin Roosevelt did not foresee in 1933—the tasks which Harry Truman could not complete by 1953—and the tasks on which in eight Republican years we never even started."

But above all, he said he had "tried in this campaign to address myself to the real issues confronting America."

Two Nabbed With Guns At Demo Rally

A second gun carrier was arrested when he tried to enter the stadium with a revolver in a paper bag.

A half-dozen policemen scuffled with the first man, Jaime Cruz Alejandro, 23, before he was disarmed and seized. "Kill him, kill him," shouted the crowd surging into the stadium.

Officers seized a 25-caliber pistol from him.

The Rev. Israel Dabney, 61, a minister, was stopped when he tried to enter the stadium with a 38-caliber revolver in a paper bag.

Novato Man Arrested On Assault Charge

Father Of Four Resists Arrest, Hospitalized

A 33 - year - old Novato father was arrested early today on suspicion of attempted rape of a 48-year-old married Hamilton Air Force Base secretary on the front lawn of her Novato home.

Marin County Sheriff's deputies said Joe A. York of 93 Grande Vista will be charged with assault with intent to rape, assault with intent to do bodily harm, and resisting arrest.

York was in San Rafael General Hospital today in fair condition with a head injury. He became unconscious after deputies took him to the hospital at 3:25 a.m. and was still unconscious at 8 a.m. A doctor, unable to rouse York, said he suspected he had been drinking something other than alcoholic beverages.

As a deputy attempted to handcuff York in his alleged victim's home, York struck the deputy with his fist and grabbed him, pushing him backwards.

The two men struggled and both landed on top of a table, knocking several dishes and other items to the floor. York was finally subdued and later taken to the hospital. Deputies said he seemed incoherent and

MMWD Aide Rips Letter On 'Neglect'

William R. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, today challenged a letter accusing the district directors of "extreme neglect" for refusing to endorse the fluoridation issue. He termed the three-page document as "out of line and uncalled for."

Seeger emphasized that the directors "were servants of the people" and it was their job to "act on the will of the people."

A copy of the letter, sent by the children's dental health committee of Marin County, came across Seeger's desk late yesterday he reported.

The letter accused the board member of "extreme neglect for not telling the voters that fluoridation is "completely safe."

Seeger said that even though

Mack Sennett Dies; Pioneer In Movies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mack Sennett, film pioneer who gave the world the Keystone Kops and the first film bathing beauties, died today at the Motion Picture Country Hospital in Woodland Hills. He was 80.

Once the biggest producer in the young motion picture industry, Sennett lived the last 10 years of his life in near poverty in a small apartment overlooking Hollywood Boulevard—the glamorous thoroughfare he helped make famous.

Master of the custard-pie school of comedy, Sennett was the discoverer of such stars as W. C. Fields, Bing Crosby, Charlie Chaplin, Fatty Arbuckle, Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery.

He specialized in the two-reel slapstick silents that paved the way for Cecil B. DeMille, Sam Goldwyn and Jesse Lasky, who became giants of drama.

Born in Denville, Canada in 1880, his real name was Mickall Sinnott.

He deserted the actor ranks to become a movie producer when he was unable to pay a

Light Showers Fall In Marin

Despite heavy cloudiness, the U.S. Weather Department predicted clearing late tonight and fair weather tomorrow.

Showers were forecast in central and mountain regions with possible isolated thunderstorms in Northern areas of the state, but all areas were expected to have fair weather tomorrow with little change in temperatures.

SERVICE SCHEDULED

A service of prayer from 12:10 to 12:30 p.m. will be held Tuesday, Election Day, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, announced Rev. John Riley, rector.

ENTERTAINERS—Tina Gnagy sings a folk song to the accompaniment of her husband Steve Gnagy near their apartment at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax. Gnagy is a graduate of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and his wife, Tina, whom he met in Portugal, obtained her doctorate from the University of Lisbon.

Marin Guitarist And Scholar Wife To Live In Las Vegas

By PAUL MILLER

A Marin gas station attendant who is also a semi-professional Flamenco guitarist will leave in about two weeks with his wife, a folk dancer, to live in Las Vegas.

What is this story doing on the church page?

It just so happens that Steve Gnagy, before he leaves California, will be ordained in Los Angeles as a minister in the Presbyterian Church, and that his wife, Tina, holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Lisbon and a degree in Christian Education from a Presbyterian seminary in Portugal.

Gnagy, a resident of Marin on and off for about three years, will take up duties as a pastor at the First Presbyterian Church in Las Vegas, New Mexico.

He graduated this spring from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo with a Bachelor's of Divinity degree, and since then the couple have been living temporarily in an apartment at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax.

Gnagy was granted a "working" Fellowship from the Board of Ecumenical (worldwide) Missions of the Presbyterian Church in 1957 for a year's study in Lisbon, Portugal, which broke up his study at the Marin seminary.

In Portugal he attended classes at the University of Lisbon as well as worked in Portuguese Presbyterian churches. But to say that this energetic, non-conforming, world-minded Christian will soon be a minister is not to tell all.

For Gnagy has been playing the guitar since 1948 and since his stay in the native land of his wife, has become a specialist in Flamenco music, next to what is called classical guitar, the most difficult discipline of the instrument.

When he was in Lisbon, he met Hina, a sparkling eyed, vivacious and lovely Portuguese lady named Justina Barata who was born in Moura in Southern Portugal near the Spanish border.

When they met, she was supervising Christian education programs in several churches in Lisbon. The land of romance and beauty was too much for both of them, and the couple were married at the end of Gnagy's stay there. He brought his bride to the United States and San Anselmo two years ago this month.

While in school here in Marin, and while he and his wife have been waiting for a church call, the couple have periodically played at Portuguese festivals, church programs, parties, and on a Spanish-speaking radio program in San Francisco. To make ends meet, Gnagy is also an attendant at W. R. Davis' Flying A Service station, 98 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Southern Baptists Plan Convention

Members and pastors of eight Marin County churches, as well as the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary choir and two seminary professors, will attend the 20th anniversary of the Southern Baptist Convention of California meeting Tuesday through Friday at Stockton.

Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral psychology at Golden Gate, will lead in the observance of the convention anniversary Wednesday and also serve as chairman of the program committee.

Dr. Gaines S. Dobbins, professor of church administration, will lead a short devotional period at each session on "The Witnessing Church." The choir, directed by Dr. Carlyle Bennett, will present special music on Thursday.

Rev. Wallace Hough Jr. pastor, First Baptist Church in San Rafael, will head the credentials committee of the convention.

More than 2,000 Baptists from California are expected to attend.

In Symphony Orchestra

Average Giver Gives Enough To Buy Smokes

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

According to a report issued this week by the National Council of Churches, the average American Protestant gave $69.13 to his church last year.

If the Average Protestant were a real, live human being, it might be worthwhile to lecture him for being so stingy toward his church. An annual contribution of $69.13 figures out to 19 cents a day, which is less than the price of a pack of cigarettes.

MYTHICAL FELLOW

But the Average Protestant is an altogether mythical fellow. He exists only on the scratch pads of church statisticians who divide total contributions by total membership.

In real life, instead of one "average" kind of Protestant, there are at least three distinct categories of church members, who vary widely in their attitudes toward giving.

At one extreme is the tipgiver. He is rather numerous, accounting for perhaps half of all the total membership claimed by the churches.

CHANGE IN POCKET

When he comes to church, which is an uncertain and spasmodic phenomenon, he drops into the collection plate whatever change he finds in his pocket. If he feels that he might be embarrassed by the clink of coins, he fishes a dollar bill from his wallet.

Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, an Episcopal clergyman in Washington, D.C., has suggested that this system of giving is tantamount to "giving God a tip for the spiritual food that has been served" at the worship service. Rev. Bowers doubts that God is gratified.

DUES PAYERS

The next largest group are the dues-payers. They give systematically to the church through an annual pledge or a weekly envelope system. But the amount of their contribution is not related to the size of their income.

They simply pick a nice round figure that sounds like a respectable sum to give to the church. Sometimes it's $2 a week; often it's $1 a week. They pay this sum as faithfully as they pay their country club dues (which are usually somewhat higher).

SOME TITHERS

Finally, there are tithers. They are a definite minority in most churches, but there are more of them than you may suspect. In fact, if there weren't a fair-sized core of them, the churches could not operate.

The tithers regularly give at least 10 per cent of their income to church and charity. They do not think there is anything sacred about the 10 per cent figure; to the extent that they have grasped the real spirit of tithing, they feel that they are probably being greedy in keeping for their own use 90 per cent of the material wealth which has come to them through the providence of God.

Christian Science

"Spiritual Enlightenment in daily living" will be the topic emphasized at Christian Science worship services in Marin County tomorrow with the account in Acts of the Bible of Paul's conversion and regeneration as one of the text.

Wagon Train's Ward Bond Dies In Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Ward Bond, star of the television program Wagon Train, died of a heart attack today.

Bond, who flew into Dallas yesterday, was scheduled to appear at a professional football game tomorrow. He was reported to have collapsed in a shower and died before a doctor could arrive.

A family friend said that when Bond, 57, collapsed in the shower he fell against the door and wedged himself in. An ambulance crew had to take the door from the shower at the Town House Motel to get him out.

Bond, a 200-pounder, lived most of his life in show business almost in spite of himself. He claimed he never sought stardom.

A graduate engineer from the University of Southern California, Bond broke into the acting business as a lark and as a way to pay his tuition.

"I graduated from USC in 1931 and worked in movies for five years making $500 a week before I quit trying to get a job as an engineer," he once told an interviewer.

"I finally realized that an engineer in the depression didn't make $500 a month. So I've been an actor ever since."

Bond appeared in more than 100 horse operas since 1928, playing heavies and sidekicks with such 10-gallon heroes of the past as Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Ken Maynard and Hoot Gibson.

He also appeared in dozens of other motion pictures. And up to 1956 it was always as a character actor.

Then something unexpected happened to him. He took the role as the wagon master in the television series Wagon Train in 1956 and he suddenly was a star. The show has been among the top three television programs the past three years.

'Man On Street' Sets Open House For Candidates

A traditional open house for political candidates will be held on Radio KTIM's "Man On The Street" program Monday at 12:30 p.m., at the corner of Fourth and B streets in San Rafael, according to manager Hugh Turner.

The custom, started by Turner several years ago as a pre-election day feature, offers the microphone to any legitimate candidate or representative of an organization favoring a ballot issue. All sides appearing are given a chance to state their views.

Campaign Charge

Thomas Boyd, chairman of the Everett Matzen campaign in Marin County, charged today that opponent William Bagley is using unfair tactics. Boyd stated that the Bagley campaigners were using unauthorized names as sponsors in their advertising.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Fight After Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The football game was rough but the fight afterwards was even rougher.

Three Galileo High School students were injured in a fight Friday after Galileo defeated Mission High School 6-0.

All four teen-agers were treated at Alemany Emergency Hospital and released.

Ex-Convict Taken

Fitzgerald, who broke out of prison here last Sunday with four other prisoners, surrendered with his companions to Yuba County deputy sheriffs last night at a roadblock seven miles east of Marysville.

His capture brought to a close one of the biggest hunts in Nevada County history.

Fitzgerald is accused of shooting George Bonn, 58, a San Francisco cook, and wounding Milton J. Young, 41, also of San Francisco, on a lonely road near Truckee Aug. 3.

Maestro Mourned

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Musicians, dancers and singers of the world's leading opera house, La Scala, today bade a sorrowing farewell to conductor Dimitri Mitropoulos, who died while conducting its orchestra.

The body of the maestro, resting in an oak coffin borne by musicians, left Milan by hearse for Lugano, Switzerland, where it will be cremated.

JOHNNY HORTON

Singer Killed

CAMERON, Tex. (UPI)—Johnny Horton, 35, the western-style singer who made the song "Battle of New Orleans" popular, was killed today in a grinding head-on collision on a railroad overpass.

Three persons, two of them passengers in the car Horton was driving, were injured.

The accident happened on U.S. 79, about 13 miles southwest of Cameron, near the community of Milano. It appeared Horton died on the way to the hospital in Cameron.

Red Kill Yank

SAIGON, Viet-Nam (UPI) — Communist terrorists today killed a U.S. operations mission official in a machine-gun ambush on a main road some 70 miles east of here.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said the Vietnamese driver of the American official's jeep also died in the attack.

The International Cooperation Administration identified the American victim as Dolph B. Owens, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., a public safety adviser.

His wife and two small daughters were en route to join Owens overseas when they learned of his death.

Connelly Released

A spokesman said Connelly left the institution in a private automobile after being checked through the prison control center about 9 a.m.

Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, an assistant attorney general in the Truman administration, were convicted of conspiring to prevent an income tax evasion suit from being pressed against a St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

Bomb Hurts Five

YOKOSUKA, Japan (UPI) — A U.S. Navy plane engaged in exercises with the Seventh Fleet accidentally dropped a bomb close to an American sea-going tug Friday, The Navy disclosed today. Five crewmen were injured.

3 Sought In Attack

Officers said one of her assailants raped her, another one threatened to kill her and the third threatened to rape her. All were in their 20s.

The attack occurred early yesterday morning while Mrs. Margaret Clinch McGann was en route to her home in Goleta.

Gls Held In Death

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —The U.S. Army said today it is holding two soldiers from California in custody after an armored personnel carrier ran wild in nearby Hanau yesterday and killed a German girl bicyclist.

The Army said the two men stole the carrier and drove it through the busy streets, striking a lamp post and killing Ingrid Kraushaar, 16.

An officer, pursuing the two men, apprehended the soldiers later, the Army said.

Stolen Books Found

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Two caches of books, including valuable works stolen from the Stanford University Library, were found yesterday in San Mateo County.

Meanwhile, the Federal Bureau of Investigation pressed its search for Mitchell J. Strucinski, ex-convict and former creative writing fellowship student at Stanford. He was believed connected with the theft.

A truck driver found 15 old books behind a supermarket here.

AF Advances Missile Data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force disclosed today that it has advanced by a full year the date for completing the first operational squadron equipped with Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The squadron, which will have 55 of the missiles in underground "silos" near Great Falls, Mont., is now scheduled to reach war readiness by July, 1962. The former date was July, 1963.

Three squadrons with a total of 165 missiles are to be based at Malmstrom Air Force Base near Great Falls.

Their missile sites will be within a radius of 115 miles of the base. The Air Force said no date has been set for completing the three squadrons.

Rep. Powell Wife Asks For Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—Pianist Hazel Scott, 40, said Thursday she has asked for a divorce from Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., 51, Harlem congressman. She said her reasons are her own affair.

"However," she said, "a stalemate has been reached because, to date, Mr. Powell refuses to pay what I consider adequate support for his child (14-year-old Adam Clayton Powell III) and costs of the divorce."

Powell, who is winding up a tour for the Democratic presidential ticket, declined to comment on Miss Scott's statement.

Fire Board Meeting

Tiburon Fire Protection District commissioners will discuss the general ordinance on rules and regulations for burning within the district at their meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon Boulevard main fire station, according to commission secretary Kelly J. Wheeler.

Sandoval Says Police Pushed Him Around

Jaime Sandoval, 29, former San Rafael male nurse accused of lewd conduct with a Millbrae boy, yesterday charged that Millbrae police of knocking him down the stairs of his apartment.

Sandoval is a key figure in the mysterious deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas of Millbrae. Douglas committed suicide in Marin County last month, eight days after his wife vanished in Puerto Rico while on a trip there with Sandoval.

Sandoval and his attorney, Nathan Cohn, appeared in Redwood City court yesterday and complained that Police Chief Larry Pickett had roughed up Sandoval.

In San Mateo County, he is now charged with lewd conduct toward the two sons of the late Douglases. The boys are 11 and 13.

Car Windows Broken

Marin Boy Calls Home, Learns Dog Poisoned

Mrs. Marie Gee, a nurse, who resides on Aztec Avenue, said her son's dog became violently sick at 3 a.m. yesterday. She rushed the dog to a Fairfax veterinary hospital, but the dog died later.

An autopsy proved Tweedie was poisoned in small doses for about a week, Mrs. Gee said.

Mrs. Gee is offering a $100 reward for any information that might lead to the conviction of the poisoner of her son's dog. Tweedie "stayed in the house at night" and was loved by the neighbors, she said.

Johnnie, a student at the Boys Ranch, Amarillo, Texas, was badly upset, his mother said. Whenever Johnnie called or wrote home he always asked, "Mother, how's my dog?" Mrs. Gee said Johnnie will be coming home for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Gee asks that any information on the poisoning be sent to her at Box 144, Forest Knolls.

'Turkey' Shoot Planned Sunday

Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce members will sponsor a "turkey" shoot tomorrow, with chickens and hams for prizes.

Proceeds will go to the group's athletic fund, which backs water safety, youth fitness, hunter safety programs and the Novato softball field.

John Anderson is chairman for the shoot, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Dias Ranch near the Club Rio on Highway 101.

California and New York today have 60% of the narcotic addicts in the United States. California has one of the weakest systems of narcotics law enforcement. This is not the fault of our law enforcement officials in the field. Our criminal prosecution procedures have been tampered with and weakened by Appellate Court action and legislative inaction, to the extent that (prosecution is virtually impossible).

LBJ Supporters Wants Apology From Nixon

COMBINED AP & UPI

HOUSTON — Supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson today demanded that Vice President Richard M. Nixon make a public apology for the unruly mob that jostled and jeered the Democratic vice presidential candidate and mussed up his wife's hair.

Johnson and his wife got the rough treatment in Dallas, a GOP stronghold, as he entered the lobby of a hotel for a banquet speech. Afterwards, he flew here for an overnight stay.

In the midst of the mob of about 1,000 persons, made up mostly of businessmen and young girls, was Rep. Bruce Alger, Texas' only Republican congressman. He carried a sign that said: "LBJ sold out to Yankee socialists."

At Bloomington, Ill., Henry Cabot Lodge said today Sen. John F. Kennedy has made three statements on foreign affairs which would have "gravely endangered the national interest" if he had uttered them as president.

The Republican vice presidential nominee said the statements by Kennedy concerned Cuba, the U-2 spy plane incident and the islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

"Three times Sen. Kennedy has shot from the hip and three times he has retracted his statements," Lodge said in an address at the McLean County courthouse square.

"If Sen. Kennedy had made his Cuban statement as president," Lodge added, "the consequences would have been unpredictable and dangerous beyond description."

Kennedy Too Impetuous For Decision, Ike Says

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Eisenhower ended his campaign travels last night by picturing Sen. John F. Kennedy as too "rash" and "impetuous" to make war-or-peace decisions in the White House.

Eisenhower told a nationwide audience his eight years as chief executive had convinced him that vice president Richard M. Nixon was better prepared to combat the communists and preserve U. S. economic strength.

He said a Democratic victory at the polls next Tuesday would bring either skyrocketing federal taxes, higher prices or cheap dollars.

The president returned to Washington last night after deriding Kennedy as a "young genius" and questioning the Democratic candidate's judgement in hard-hitting speeches in Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Eisenhower rested up from the political wars today by traveling to his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat to spend the weekend.

"I'll always remember this as my last political trip," the president said as he left Pittsburgh airport. "It was wonderful."

Patrolman Hurt As Bike Hit Ridge

A Mill Valley California Highway Patrolman was slightly injured early last night when his motorcycle hit an unfinished ridge in the Terra Linda interchange construction project on Highway 101.

Donald Dowling, riding with his partner on 101, was pulling slowly off the highway to write down an all-points bulletin which had just come over his radio. The front wheel of Dowling's motorcycle slid off a ridge in the curbing. He fell over on his side, suffering minor bruises, for which he was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Another highway patrolman was fatally injured in San Francisco last night. Patrolman William Pitois of San Mateo, crashed with a car on the Bayshore Freeway while chasing a speeder. He was pronounced dead at Mission Emergency Hospital shortly afterward.

Preview Canceled At One-Man Show

The preview reception in connection with the opening of Thomas Leighton's one-man show will not be held tomorrow afternoon at Mill Valley's Artist Associates Gallery, according to Nevin Kempthorne, curator.

Because the artist has suffered a mild heart attack, the reception has been postponed until his recovery. The paintings may be seen, however, throughout November at the regular visitors' hours of 12 to 4:30 p.m. every day except Sunday.

Clubs Offer Free Rides To Polls

Free transportation for those unable to get out and vote next Tuesday is being offered by six of Marin County's service clubs as part of their drive to "Get Out The Vote."

Participating clubs are the Ross Valley, San Rafael and Novato Kiwanis Clubs, San Anselmo and San Rafael Rotary Clubs, and Mill Valley and San Anselmo Lions Clubs.

In addition to the transportation, the clubs are passing out 30,000 non-partisan circulars urging citizens to vote.

Belvedere Council Meets Monday

The Belvedere City Council will discuss the proposal to purchase property for the Cove Road sewerage pumping station at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Belvedere Community Hall, according to City Manager Britton Rey.

Councilmen will also view the Bay Area Rapid Transit District master plan for Marin County. Rey said that he planned to ask the council to approve purchase of a police car for the city, also.

The Soviet Union is concentrating on science, "but we are overall ahead in all fields," he said. "Even so, we've got to continue to move ahead."

To do this he proposed a "National Science Institute working with and through our colleges" as a means of assuring that America will lead the way."

Speaking on Federal spending Nixon said of Kennedy, "He's not going to spend his money, he's going to spend your money, 15 billion dollars of it," he answered. "Government spending without taxes to take care of it, as was done by President Truman can wreck our government," he went on. "It is breaking faith with the people who have saved their money."

"We must not let that happen again, and I will not let it happen again."

The major issue facing America is survival, Nixon declared.

"The question is shall we move forward with experience or use the White House as a training school for a man who has to get experience at the cost of the American people."

He said that he and Ambassador Lodge offered "proven leadership."

"We have faith in America because Americans believe in great ideas and rights that came to them from God."

"Greatness in a president will only be in as much as he represents the ideals of the American people," Nixon concluded.

Three Youths Claim Hurts In Brawl

Three youths were injured, one suffering a gash in his scalp, in a Marin City brawl early last night.

The trio told police that their car had broken down and they were trying to re-start it at a Marin City gas station when two youths came over and began offering unwanted advice on the repairs. One word led to another, they said, and a crowd began to form, largely consisting of the pair's buddies.

Who struck the first blow was unclear, but when the dust settled. Bob Davis, 15, of 178 Alta Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, was found lying on the street with a bad cut in his scalp. He told sheriff's deputies he'd been hit with a board.

Davis, taken to Marin General Hospital, received 10 stitches in his scalp, then was released.

With him was Paul Kordik, 16, of 11 Meadow Drive, Mill Valley; and Girard Corteau, 18, of 7 Tower Drive, Alto. They received minor cuts and bruises on their faces but were not taken to the hospital.

At her house he signaled the cab driver to leave, picked her up and carried her up her driveway. She wriggled away and he caught her again, finally forcing her to the ground outside her home. He slapped her one hard blow and threatened to kill her if she resisted, she said.

Meanwhile, the taxi driver had informed a deputy about York. As the latter ripped some of the victim's clothes off, they heard a car approach. York began to choke her and threatened to kill her if she screamed, she said.

The woman screamed feebly and was heard by the deputies, who ran to her assistance.

When he was arrested, York told deputies his four children were at home alone. His wife was at work. Arrangements were made with a family friend to care for the children.

York said he had had five or six drinks, deputies reported.

Man Tries To Tear Screen Off Window

An early morning prowler tried to tear the screen off a bedroom window in Novato Thursday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Mrs. John Lowry, 27, of 3 Simmons Court, told Deputy Sheriff William F. Johansen she saw a man in his twenties tearing the window screen. When she turned on the lights he jumped over a four-foot fence and vanished.

Seeger said that the communication was not typed on the committee's letterhead and that all letters in the past had been written on the "committee's stationery." Another peculiarity noticed by Seeger was that the letter was addressed to "Board of Governors" instead of "directors."

He said the district was holding the same neutral position on fluoridation that it has throughout the campaign and that the directors "can't take action until the next board meeting Wednesday," the day after the issue goes to the polls.

As for his personal views, Seeger said, "I am taking a neutral position following the policy of the board."

Marin voters will decide Tuesday if the MMWD's water supply should be fluoridated. The measure was defeated in June by 84 votes.

Light Classics Program Slated

A program of light classics and show tunes will be presented at the Marin Jewish Center at 8 p.m. today.

Featured will be the Trianon Ensemble, consisting of Abe Milstein, clarinet; Alice Dillon, harp; Daniel Shelasky, violin; Ceasare Claudio, cello, and Mary E. Kuhlmann, flute.

This musical program is being presented in conjunction with the seventh annual art exhibit now in progress at the center.

The musical presentation is open to the public without charge through the cooperation of Local 6 of the American Federation of Musicians.

$100 gambling debt. Instead the gamblers invested $1,000 in Sennett to establish a movie company. A trade mark of the Pennsylvania Railroad on a passing freight car gave him the name for his firm—the Keystone Film Co.

Bankers later supplied Sennett with new capital, although they grimaced at his movies which specialized in pie-throwing and actresses diving off cliffs.

Ambrose Druffy Rites Planned

Funeral services will be held Monday for Ambrose Duffy, who died at a local hospital yesterday after a long illness. A resident of San Rafael, he was 84 years old.

Before his retirement, Duffy was a caretaker for Ross estates. He was a native of Iowa coming to California 16 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Clara, at the family home, 36 Ross Street, and two sons, Robert P. Zeien of Novato and Lyle Latell of Los Angeles County.

The funeral cortege will leave the Harry Wiliams Mortuary in San Rafael at 9 a.m. Monday and proceed to St. Rafael's Church where a high requiem mass will be sung at 9:30 a.m. The Rosary will be recited at the mortuary at 8 p.m. Interment will be at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Thomas Dinucci Rites Monday

Funeral services will be held for Thomas A. Dinucci, 67, father of Mrs. Louis L. Paolini, of San Anselmo, Monday in San Francisco.

Dinucci, who owned and operated the Belmont Florist shop in San Francisco for 45 years, died in a local hospital Thursday after a long illness. He was a native of Sonoma County.

He was a member of Polk Van Ness Civic Council and past president of the Upper Fillmore Merchants Assn.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Paolini who resides at 94 Del Norte Avenue, he is survived by his wife, Erminia Dinucci, five brothers, Richard, Romeo, Henry, Frank and Joseph Dinucci, two sisters, Vera Alberigi and Naoma Pool and four grandchildren, Timothy, Louis, Susan and Ronald Paolini.

A Requiem Mass will be sung at St. Dominic's Church, Steiner and Bush Streets, San Francisco, at 9 a.m. Monday. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Gray's, Divisadero Street at Post. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

Bay Architect Dies In Hospital

George Din, an Oakland architect, died suddenly today in a local hospital. He was 36.

An employee of Henry Hill, a San Francisco architectural firm, he had been working on a Mill Valley home Tuesday when he suffered an attack of an unknown illness.

He is survived by his wife, Esther, and two small children.

Nikita Back In Capital To Greet Red Leaders

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev headed the welcoming at Vnukova Airport today to greet Chinese Communist leader Liu Shao-chi, arriving to celebrate the 43d anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution next week.

It was the Soviet Premier's first public appearance in about 10 days.

His appearance cut the ground from under wild rumors in the West that he had been deposed. These rumors never gained any credence among Western diplomats in Moscow.

Soviet officials had merely laughed off the rumors which spread from Vienna yesterday. In Bonn, Vienna, New York and elsewhere Russian agencies had termed the rumors nonsense.

Liu is the formal head of the Chinese Communist state and Peiping's leading ideologist after Mao Tze-tung.

Janos Kadar, the Hungarian party leader, and President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia were among the first to arrive.

Also en route is a delegation of 15 Cuban workers.

Patent Rise Is Slow

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — The large scale research boom hasn't greatly increased patent applications, according to the U.S. assistant commissioner of patents.

While research efforts are up 6 to 12 times over the past couple of decades, patent applications have risen only by one-sixth.

Russ Unload Mystery Crates In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — About 700 Russian "technicians" have set up camp near Santiago's airport and are unloading a large number of huge crates of unknown content, it was reported today.

Travelers coming here from the eastern provincial capital said the Russians are sleeping in exhibition halls at the fairgrounds. They said the Russians are roaming Santiago's streets, freely stating they have just arrived from the Soviet Union, but brushing off queries as to what kind of technicians they are.

Sixty of Oriente University's 113 professors were purged this week including almost the entire faculty of the law school "because their manner of thinking does not coincide with the people's revolution needs."

Several Czech and Hungarian professors have appeared as guest lecturers in the engineering school.

DeGaulle Plan Draws Fire

PARIS (AP) — Angry outcries from leftist and rightist extremists today greeted President Charles de Gaulle's threat to take emergency powers and call a national referendum on a new course for Algeria.

In a nationwide radio and television address last night de Gaulle declared his policy in Algeria, now in its seventh year of war with nationalist rebels, "no longer leads to an Algeria governed by metropolitan France, but an Algerian Algeria."

In the end, he said, "responsibility for Algerian affairs, at every level, will be assumed by Algerians" and the country will have "its own government."

STOLEN, RECOVERED

Teacher Socked Away Fortune In Securities

BURLINGAME (AP) — Four men are tucked away in jail today in connection with the burglary of $545,000 of the little old lady's securities. But investigators are marvelling at how the retired school teacher managed to tuck away so much money.

Mrs. Ruth H. Landrum, grey-haired, pert and sharp-eyed, says: "I came from a different era—the era of thrift when you could quietly put your money away and start saving. The income tax didn't take it all then."

REPORTED $30 THEFT

Mrs. Landrum was burglarized Aug. 4 but reported only that $30 in cash was taken. Burlingame police said she did not mention the $545,000 in negotiable stocks and bonds, which she had been keeping in a closet.

She had just moved to Burlingame from Stockton, she said, and "went down to a bank right away — but they didn't have the right size of safety deposit box. So I took the securities back home and put them in a closet."

Four days later she told police she was also missing more than half a million dollars worth of stock. The FBI was called in and, thanks to a tip, nabbed four men with all the securities Wednesday night.

FOUR CHARGED

Charged with possessing and receiving stolen property were Jack Love, 34; Eldon Williams, 39; Joseph Noisat Jr., 34; and Wesley Fingers, 39—all of San Francisco.

Mrs. Landrum said she and her husband lived on his salary for more than 30 years and used all of her money earned as a Stockton teacher for blue chip and sleeper stocks. Her husband died in 1943.

"Some of her best buys were made 20 years ago, when nobody ever heard of the stocks," said an FBI man who helped recover the securities.

"If you'll excuse me," she said, "I really have things to do." And she shooed reporters out of her apartment. She did say, however, that she's buying the building.

Congo Leader Plans To Take Case To U.N.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu is scheduled to fly to New York tomorrow to protest against United Nations interference in Congolese internal affairs to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, sources close to Kasavubu said today.

The sources said the president was expected to meet with Hammarskjold next week, and also would protest personally against the U.N. leader's failure to recognize the high commissioners set up to run the nation.

They said Kasavubu also would protest against Hammarskjold's criticism about the return of Belgian technicians to the Congo.

U.N. authorities here have not given the commissioners recognition although they cooperate with them daily. A U.N. spokesman said yesterday that "we deal with whoever is in the chair."

A contingent of Tunisian U.N. troops moved into the rebellious south of Kasai province and reports reaching here said that Baluba tribesmen were withdrawing into the jungle.

Homes Previewed At Marin Bay

By HARRY CRAFT

Last night some 600 guests of Chinn Ho, financier and sportsman from Honolulu, and Louis R. Perini, international construction firm executive, gathered for the opening preview of the first stage in their joint Marin Bay project.

An elaborate celebration complete with orchid leis and Hawaiian music was held in the lounge of the newly completed Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, nucleus of the 2,233-acre recreational and residential development which is planned to spread over a period of 10 to 15 years in its full making.

Today, the country club with its golf, dining and lounging facilities was opened to the public.

The location of this recent entry into Marin County's scheme of picturesque living is in the Elysian hills and valleys of the historic McNear Ranch bordering San Pablo Bay and including China Camp, long a subject for capture on vellum and canvas.

The Peacock Gap and Country Club comprises roughly 185 acres and will be surrounded by many of the 208 home sites in the initial phase of residential planning. Grading and shaping have preserved natural contours of the land, affording both view and privacy.

Power and telephone lines will go underground. A number of the lots ranging in size from one-half acre to more than two acres have already been sold; construction on homes is expected to commence shortly.

Although the Peacock Gap and Country Club and the Marin Bay properties are within the city limits of San Rafael, the ultimate development of the area will encompass a veritable community in itself. Schools, churches, apartment houses and a resort hotel are part of the planning. Selected wooded areas in the higher elevations will be given over to multi-acre homesites, a riding club and stables.

The north shore facing San Pablo Bay is marked out for shopping centers, a yacht club, rod and gun club, restaurants, marina homesites and public yacht harbor. Several exclusive shops are contemplated.

The newly erected clubhouse which will be the center of activities in the area for some time to come was the result of close timing and co-ordination among the building crafts. It progressed from ground breaking to last night's ribbon cutting ceremonies in little more than eight weeks and workmen put away their tools a scant half hour before the first arrival of guests.

Lounge, cocktail bar and restaurant facilities are now available to the general public everyday except Mondays, as well as the nine holes now ready for playing in the planned 18-hole golf course. Remainder of the course probably will not be ready until next spring when the club will be converted to private membership.

While the roadway from San Pedro Road to the clubhouse is substantially surfaced there is still work to be done on the parking area and in landscaping. Plans call for a 600-capacity banquet hall for construction in early 1961.

Eventually, golfing and social memberships will be divided between residents within the development and associates living outside.

Overall management of the entire project is under Edward Lee, vice president of Latipac, Inc. and right hand of Chinn Ho, its president. Clubhouse and golf course is supervised by Roland Hess, former manager of the Monterey Golf and Country Club; property and homesite division is headed by Ben Alward, sales manager.

The office and display pavilion is located on Point San Pedro Road at the entrance of the golf and country club.

Treasurer's Auditor Appointed For County

Kenneth Charles Finn, 38, of Fairfax, credit manager for General Tire and Rubber Co. in Burlingame, will start work Monday as treasurer's auditor in the county tax collector's office.

Tax collector-Treasurer M. F. Donohue announced the appointment yesterday. Finn succeeds Leo Vaughn, who was promoted to assistant tax collector-treasurer. Finn will draw $530 per month.

He lives with his wife and four children at 260 Bolinas Road in Fairfax. His experience includes three years as auditor with Bank of America in San Francisco.

Finn was among the top five who passed an examination for the job of treasurer's auditor. Donohue said Finn was not the top man in the examination "but I picked him because I thought he was the best man, on the basis of experience and qualifications."

The man who got the best score in the examination was Eugene Trenam, who is working as deputy county clerk. Tenam conceded that it is the tax collector's prerogative to choose one of the top five.

"However, I feel I should have at least had the courtesy of an interview," Trenam declared. He said he feels that a person who is in county employment already should be given at least an equal chance for examination and interview as non-employees of the county.

Trenam has been working for the county clerk since April of 1959, and has about 25 years of banking experience.

The tax collector also announced the appointment of Mrs Jean Krysiak as senior account clerk at $383 per month. Mrs. Krysiak, who worked for Bank of America for nine years, succeeds, Joseph Ross, who was promoted to a new job in the auditor's office.

Pair Curious Over Theft Gets 10 Days

Two San Francisco men, arrested near the scene of a ringing burglary alarm in San Anselmo Wednesday morning, drew 10 days jail each in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas sentenced Richard Eugene McCluskie and Roy Robert Roach for vagrancy. McCluskie was also convicted of speeding on his motorcycle, with Roach as passenger.

Both men have past criminal records, including narcotics violations. San Anselmo police converged on the Owl Drug Store at 21 San Anselmo Avenue early Wednesday morning in answer to a burglary alarm. They found glass shattered. When McCluskie and Roach rode past the scene twice, police arrested the pair. The cyclists said they had visited a friend in Fairfax and became confused in returning toward San Francisco.

Judge At Finch Trial Says Murder Committed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jurors are still divided, but the judge has told them in a taut and turbulent session of the Finch trial that he believes a murder was committed and he doesn't believe the defendants.

As they opened their 17th day of deliberation at the second trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff today, the jurors had these electrifying developments behind them:

1. Superior Court Judge LeRoy Dawson, interrupting deliberations yesterday, called in the jury and said: "The explanation given by the defendant Finch as to the circumstances surrounding the firing of the fatal shot to me does not sound reasonable in any of its aspects. And it appears to me to have been concocted by him in an attempt to justify what is shown by the evidence, in my opinion, to be the wilful and deliberate taking of a human life"—that of the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean Finch.

2. Defense attorney Grant B. Cooper twice jumped from his chair to object to the judge's statement—accusing him of invading the jury's province—and was twice cited by Dawson for contempt.

The defendants sobbed at the counsel table upon hearing the judge's statement.

Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, his ex-mistress, are accused of killing Mrs. Finch to avoid a costly divorce settlement. Finch testified that he and Carole went to see Mrs. Finch to talk about divorce and that she was shot accidentally in a struggle over the gun she had pulled.

The judge rejected this story and said the one told by the prosecution was more reasonable.

Dawson emphasized the jury was not bound to abide by his views. But he said he was entitled to comment under the law and the state constitution.

Applications For Absentee Ballots Rise

The total number of absentee voter applications rose to 4,436 yesterday, with the addition of 368 voters who can vote only for president and vice president.

County Clerk George S. Jones explained that the 368 represent Marin residents who have not lived in the state long enough to vote for local and state offices and propositions. However, they did turn in affidavits of registration last September to qualify for voting for the president and vice president only.

Those who have applied under this category have through Monday to come to the county clerk's office to vote. Since they cannot vote in the precincts, the only way they can cast ballots is by absentee vote.

The number of absentee applications for next Tuesday's election is the biggest in Marin history.

Dick Nixon's Popularity In His Home State Has Never Been Greater!

Since boyhood, Dick Nixon has been a favorite native son. His Whittier neighbors remember him as the prompt and courteous delivery boy from his father's store. His classmates remember him as their successful candidate for student body president . . . his teachers as a self-reliant, conscientious student with a remarkable capacity for hard work. Family friends know well the close family spirit and religious background that have sustained Dick Nixon as he made his own way in a career that is an inspiration to every young American.

This warm and enthusiastic support that Dick Nixon has engendered in his fellow Californians . . . and the complete confidence they place in him as a leader, have been dramatically expressed by formation of NIXON IN '60 Clubs in every county in the state—in hundreds of towns and cities. It was demonstrated beyond question in this year's Primary Election when California Republicans—outnumbered in total registration—gave Dick Nixon a smashing vote total that completely overshadowed Democrat Governor Edmund G. Brown.

Day in and day out, the affection and confidence the people place in Dick Nixon is expressed repeatedly in the public statements of individual Californians in all walks of life . . . and in the editorials of newspapers in all parts of the state.

THE PRESS SALUTES NIXON

SAN DIEGO UNION
The United States Presidency goes to the man who fights hardest for the right to move into the White House, who convinces the American people he is right for the job. Richard Nixon is well equipped to wage such a battle.

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER
Our opinion (of Nixon) was expressed some time ago by Shakespeare . . . "Courage mounteth with occasion." Yes, and stature, too. There were many occasions to test Mr. Nixon's courage and he didn't walk away from one.

DINUBA SENTINEL
Regardless of one's political ties, any thinking individual will readily admit that few, if any vice presidents have taken such an active part in this country's affairs as Richard Nixon . . . he has demonstrated his capabilities and now stands out as the Republican Party's most qualified candidate for President.

SACRAMENTO UNION
Richard Nixon talks . . . the kind of straight-from-the-shoulder talk that most Americans have been waiting to hear from American leadership for years.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE

FULLERTON NEWS TRIBUNE
We're admittedly partial to a native son, but we believe . . . that if any Republican can lead his party to success, Richard Nixon is the man.

ST. HELENA STAR
Richard Nixon is by all odds, the best fitted to be President . . . a personality which transcends party lines so completely, that to us, it seems certain he will be elected.

RICHMOND INDEPENDENT

THE PEOPLE SALUTE NIXON

THOMAS P. PIKE, San Marino, President Stanford University Board of Trustees: "Richard Nixon is the only man on the political scene fitted to sustain leadership in the free world."

PAUL R. WILLIAMS, Noted Los Angeles Architect: "The Negro people of his state know Dick Nixon as a friend and a man of dedication and integrity."

MRS. VIRGINIA SAVELL, La Canada, President, Young Republicans of California: "The youth of California, who perhaps have the greatest single stake in their country's future, have always been in the vanguard of Dick Nixon's supporters . . ."

MORRIS WEISBERGER, Secretary-Treasurer, Sailors Union of the Pacific: "Richard Nixon is a strong, decisive leader who is persuasive in dealing with persons who hold differing views and he has won the respect of both management and labor because of that. He has our unqualified support."

STANLEY MCCAFFREY, Berkeley, former Vice President, University of California: "It has been my privilege to know Dick Nixon virtually his entire life and I regard him as a man of intelligence and fine personal qualities . . . a man whom fellow Americans can trust, in whom they can take pride and place their absolute confidence."

JOHN P. VUKASIN, JR., Oakland attorney: "Richard Nixon is the most qualified and best trained man for President."

JOHN W. HAGGERTY, Los Angeles insurance executive: "No one in the nation today can match Dick Nixon's training for the Presidency . . . we're backing Nixon all the way."

LEMOINE BLANCHARD, Los Angeles City Councilman: "The election of Dick Nixon as our next President is vitally important to the welfare of America and to the people of California."

JOSEPH MARTIN, JR., President, San Francisco Public Utilities Commission: "Vice President Nixon is by far the outstanding national leader qualified by training and experience to serve as President."

FORMER PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER: "If everyone in the city of Washington possessed the high level of courage, probity and patriotism of Richard Nixon, this would be a far better nation."

PEGGY HORTON, Los Angeles: "I will be twenty-one this June, at which time I plan to become a registered Republican . . . Ever since Mr. Nixon became vice president, I have wanted to see him become President."

HAROLD J. POWERS, Former Lieutenant Governor: "Nixon is a great candidate and a great American. I have always favored him and will throw all my weight behind him."

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER, Mayor of San Francisco: "California Republicans take great pride in supporting a fellow Californian and a man trained for the office of the President of the United States."

CARROLL W. PARCHER, Publisher, Glendale News Press: "I have never seen a campaign favoring a man for high office starting with more genuine enthusiasm or with more authentic grass-roots support."

WILLIAM F. LEISER, Noted San Francisco sports columnist: "I admire Dick Nixon as the only American ever to best Khrushchev . . . and especially on his home grounds. Like a true All American athlete, Nixon fights cleanly, intelligently, and with all his strength. He'll win any big one — as he did against Khrushchev — with a smile."

'GIFT' BUILDS LAW SCHOOL

What was termed "the largest gift ever given the University of San Francisco" will make this new law school building possible. Construction of the one-million-dollar building, to be located at the corner of Shrader and Fulton streets, is scheduled to begin about May 1, 1961. Francis Richard Walsh of Kentfield is dean of the USF Law School. Donors of the undisclosed sum of money were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kendrick.

County Counsel Makes County $100 Richer

County Counsel Leland H. Jordan yesterday handed over to Marin County $100 his office had earned for it.

The money came from Charlotte M. O'Connor of San Francisco, secretary in attorney Melvin Belli's law firm.

It was sent in the name of William O. Weissich, former Marin district attorney. But Weissich endorsed the check and gave it to Jordan since it was to cover legal fees for defense of Weissich in his former official capacity, but Weissich hadn't spent anything. He had been defended without charge.

Miss O'Connor sued Weissich for libel on a basis of false accusation that she'd helped actor Sterling Hayden take his four sons on a South Seas cruise against court order.

When Weissich had discovered Miss O'Connor wasn't on the schooner Wanderer Tahiti-bound he dismissed the complaint, but she alleged her reputation had been hurt.

Marin Superior Court found otherwise and in dismissing the action charged Miss O'Connor $12.50 court fees plus $100 for cost of the Weissich defense.

Jordan indicated that he thought the court valued his services a little on the low side, but nonetheless "it's nice to know I've made some money for the county."

So he lost no time in sending the check on to the auditor's office.

Marin Yacht Club Plan Put Before Engineers

A "long-range plan for the next three years" has been placed before the Army Corps of Engineers by the Marin Yacht Club on San Pedro Road, East San Rafael.

It requests a permit to dredge, fill and construct additional facilities for small boats at Goose Neck Bend on San Rafael Creek but is more extensive than the club is in position to carry out at once, according to Commodore Robert T. Evju.

"We have in mind expanding facilities initially by only about 10 to 20 new boat berths," said Evju. "I wish we could say we have a big high-winding project under way but it can't be done in full for a while to come."

The permit application calls for dredging and enlarging the club's existing harbor basin within Goose Neck Bend and with dredged material there is to be constructed a causeway across the channel and a parking area adjoining the creek. The causeway is to give access to the parking area.

Finger piers to accommodate approximately 170 small craft are called for by the application.

A temporary-submerged pipeline across the creek would be installed near the existing entrance to the yacht harbor, laid along the bottom of the waterway at a minimum depth of six feet below mean lower low water. This is to convey surplus dredged material from the harbor to a disposal site on the south side of the creek.

Commodore Evju said the pipe will be an early requirement of the work.

Any objections must be submitted in triplicate to the U.S. Army Engineer District office at 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco, no later than Nov. 20.

Brusatori Heads Dystrophy Drive

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin County Superior Court has accepted the position of honorary chairman of the 1960 Muscular Dystrophy Drive, it was announced today by Marin chapter President Louis Crottogini.

Campaign chairman H. M. Locke of San Anselmo has set $8,000 as the goal for 1960. The date for the annual "march against muscular dystrophy" has been set for Dec. 4. Recruitment of 800 volunteers is now underway, Locke said.

Funds are needed to support the patient service program in Marin as well as the international program of research, Locke reported.

New Library Hours

Beginning Nov. 7 the new hours of the Marin City branch library will be Monday from 5 to 8 p.m. and Friday from 2 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Bertha Solomon is branch librarian.

Tam Forms New Study Committees

Two new study committees have been appointed in Tamalpais Union High School District.

A mathematics curriculum committee is studying new developments in mathematics instruction, and an advisory study committee is considering revision of sabbatical leave policy.

The advisory study committee, formed at request of the board of trustees, is composed of Robert Prather, district coordinator of child welfare and attendance; Mrs. Harriett Crabb, girls' assistant principal at Drake; George Pohlmann of Tamalpais; Robert Mautner of Redwood, Mardys Whiteman of Drake, and Torrey.

Tiburon Chamber Interested In Association

The Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce will invite representatives from the Mill Valley and Sausalito Chambers of Commerce to discuss formation of an Associated Chambers of Commerce at its noon luncheon meeting Tuesday at Tiburon Tommy's Pier 41 restaurant on Main Street.

Nominating committee co-chairmen, Stuart Burt and Fred G. Zelinsky, will present the slate of officers for 1961, according to president Robert A. Sterling.

Also on the agenda is a report on the proposed parking authority district by committee chairman Felix M. Warburg.

Taking Ag Course

Thomas Hoertkorn, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School in 1958 and a former student at College of Marin has enrolled in the agricultural business management program at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoertkorn, 27 El Cerrito Avenue, San Anselmo.

San Rafael To Discuss Developing General Plan

The possibility of developing a general plan for San Rafael will be discussed at the San Rafael City Council meeting 8 p.m. Monday in the city hall.

The plan, which would include a study of streets and highways, parks and recreation and zoning was recommended by City Manager Dan E. Andersen. He said the federal urban renewal program may provide half the money needed for such a plan.

San Rafael is now paying $15,000 for a traffic plan being developed by Daniel Coleman of San Francisco and $32,000 for a park and recreation masterplan being drawn up by planning consultant Kenneth R. Anderson.

The city manager and Coleman met with Elton Andrews, director of the state planning office this week to discuss how these two plans could be merged in a complete general plan for the city, with the federal government splitting the cost. Andersen will make his report to the city council on Monday.

Three public hearings will be held Monday night. They include the codification of the city ordinances, and the annexation of three small uninhabited parcels adjacent to Highway 101 in Terra Linda, and a one acre uninhabited parcel in the industrial area of San Rafael near DuBois Street.

City Clerk W. L. Morgan will report to the council on the number of signatures obtained on the petitions for annexing the Terra Linda community. A public hearing on annexation is expected to be set.

The public works department will report on the costs of improving Park Street from Mission Avenue to Belle Avenue and also the proposed assessment district requested by property owners along Francisco Boulevard from East Railroad Avenue to the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Other matters for consideration by the council will be the appeal of Dr. William Neal against a use permit granted for a 20-unit apartment house on Professional Center Parkway, whether to approve the use permit for a Mobil Oil gas station on the north side of Francisco Boulevard or buy the land for a future extension of Bellam Boulevard, approval of final map for putting in the last patch of paving along Manuel Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda and a request of City Treasurer A. J. (Angie) Soldavini to burn old records.

THIS GOOD LIFE

The good life is yours because you have earned it, and because you have learned to use the materials and services of a high living standard.

How did you learn about these things? Probably through advertising.

A newspaper is on strike, and business drops 7% in two weeks. In another town, a radio station goes on the air for the first time. Tempo along Main Street picks up, as more people shop for more things.

Advertising is, above all, communication. It tells you what is available, and makes you want to have it. Yes, advertising increases our desire for new and better things. America's record proves it is good to reach for a star. By reaching, we have provided the good life for practically everybody. Can any other nation say as much?

Tam Rallies To Top Drake, 20-18

Domino Scores Twice In See-Saw Contest

By GLENN BECKER

Sophomore halfback Warren Domino tallied two second-half touchdowns last night to lead Tamalpais to a see-saw 20-18 triumph over arch-rival Drake. Tam, overcoming a first-half rash of five fumbles, thus managed to remain in the running for the Marin Athletic League title. The Indians, 3-1 in the league, trail pace-setting Redwood, who was 3-0 prior to this afternoon's clash with Marin Catholic.

Domino's third and fourth quarter heroics were capped with the game-winning TD, a 56-yard ramble early in the final period to overcome a shortlived 18-13 lead of Drake. A tremendous hole was opened up at left tackle, and the big Injun speedster whistled into the Pirate secondary so fast the Buccaneers could not catch him. Halfback Pat Morgan, who tallied the first Tam TD, slashed for his second extra point of the evening, and the Indians had a 20-18 lead.

It didn't seem possible that, with about 10 minutes remaining in the game, the two explosive elevens had tossed their last thunderbolts. Despite eight fumbles during the game, both Tam and Drake had shown plenty of punch. Each scored the first time it had the ball.

TD PARADE

The Pirates started the touchdown parade after recovering their opening kickoff, an onside squib kick, which tactic was used twice successfully in Marin games last week. Rich Bottini raced three yards around left end for the score, which was set up by a 25-yard burst over center by Mike Bresnan. A kick for the conversion was blocked.

Tamalpais retaliated immediately, marching 56 yards in seven plays to square accounts with Drake again. Morgan skirted left end for 21 yards and the TD, but the conversion boot by Tam was blocked.

Late in the first quarter, the fumble-itis which afflicted both teams until the end of the half reared its slippery head. Drake gave the ball away twice, but the Pirates were completely outdone by Tam. The Indians, hitting new heights of futility, fumbled five times, four on successive offensive plays!

Tam went ahead for the first time when, midway through the third period, the Injuns drove 62 yards on the ball-carrying of Morgan and Domino. The latter contributed runs of 15, 17 on a big fourth down play, and 14 for the tally. Morgan carried for the conversion.

The Pirates were far from finished, however. They took the Tam kickoff and marched 70 yards to score. End Bill Collins rang up the TD with a 19-yard pass reception from quarterback Sam Johnson. That gave Drake the lead once again, but it only set the stage for Domino's game-winning effort.

As he did last week, Indian fullback-linebacker Norm Kreuter played an outstanding game, especially on defense. He was ably supported by defensive end Sandy English and tackles Pete Dornbach and Rick Snow. They were opposed by the fine efforts of Drake's end Gary Schlueter, tackle Bob Whelan, defensive back Doug Roix, and the big fullback Moriarty.

PIRATE CAPTURED — Drake Pirates' Sam Johnson was hauled down from behind by Tam's Paul Farren on this fourth quarter play. Johnson was returning a kickoff and picked up 12 yards before the Indian collared him.

Raiders May Lose 400 Gs In First Year

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Football League's Oakland franchise, one of the key outposts for the new circuit in its dollar battle with the established National League, is being shaken by internal rumblings amid reports the club will lose $400,000 this season.

Squabbling among owners of the Raiders, who dropped a 34-28 decision to Boston last night in one of two games on the AFL program, was further amplified when it was reported that general manager Chet Soda has threatened to move the franchise out of Oakland.

Soda, one of the eight co-owners of the AFL club which is in direct competition with the NFL San Francisco 49ers, said unless some final plans could be made for an Oakland stadium "we might have to think of moving elsewhere."

Another co-owner, Robert Osborne—also a member of the Oakland City Council—castigated his partners by terming some members of the group "cry babies who don't like losing money that they had known and anticipated they were going to lose."

CHARGERS WIN

While the Raiders were losing at Boston, the Los Angeles Chargers defeated the New Titans 21-7 and took over the Western Division lead with a 5-3 record, a half-game in front of Denver.

The Broncos get a chance to pull even when they meet Eastern Division-leading Houston (5-2) in a game tomorrow at Denver. Dallas is at Buffalo to round out the weekend schedule.

Halfback Paul Lowe sped 62 yards for a second-period touchdown that gave the Chargers a commanding 14-0 lead over the Titans (4-5) after Howie Ferguson plunged for the first Los Angeles score. Quarterback Al Dorow, chased by a hard-charging line, hit Dewel Bohling with a 19-yard pass in the third quarter for New York's only score.

By PAUL MILLER

A capacity crowd at San Rafael Stadium last night witnessed a spectacular and closely fought football game in which the San Rafael Bulldogs were defeated by hard-running Novato High, 14 to 13.

Both clubs, highly spirited and set on victory, were at a 7-7 deadlock at the half time with the Hornets getting their 14 points in the third period and San Rafael recording a final TD in the fourth quarter. The Bulldogs missed a second PAT in a incomplete pass play to give the Hornets their slight margin of victory.

San Rafael made a spectacular bid in a passing drive during the final 32 seconds of play with five passing plays off the arm of quarterback Jack Sovereign. The first three attempts from San Rafael's 34 to the Novato 17 were sucessful, but the Hornets cracked down to hold ground there until the clock died.

Novato was the authoritative team in the first period, allowing the Bulldogs to snap the ball only three times. The Hornets came up with their first digits at the end of that quarter after recovering a San Rafael fumble on the Novato 31 and in short drives, plus a 29-yard pass play boost, ended up on the Bulldog two. Halfback Graig Bond ran the leather over and big tackle John Cook, whose big toe can be credited with the victory, completed the conversion to make it 7 to 0.

The pass play that gave Novato's 12-play push its real boost was from quarterback Don Scribner to Lu Haas from Novato's 39-yard line.

San Rafael had just received the kickoff when the second quarter began and the Red and White "K-Nines" felt it was their turn to dominate a quarter. In nine plays and 42 yards the score was 7-7. And after the TD San Rafael allowed the Hornets only eight plays until the half.

Billy Roberts, who ate up a lot of milage around Novato ends last night, scored the first Bulldog touchdown from a yard out after he had carried the ball for about a four-yard average in the nine-down series. Quarterback Sovereign threw a connector to end Randy Petrini, who had sticky fingers all evening, to make the PAT.

The remainer of the quarter was fought mostly on the ground with Novato on the defensive. Twenty-two seconds before the half, Hornet Scribner flipped a sailer out near the San Rafael 48-yard marker where the ball was grabbed by hardworking Roberts to be run back to the Novato 30. San Rafael could not move from beyond the Novato five before intermission.

A long and colorful halftime included several fistfights and the restraining of a football player from diving into the stands and entering the fray at the outset of the third period.

San Rafael received the kickoff to begin that quarter, but in three speedy plays Novato had the ball and in two more, another touchdown. The exchange came when the Bulldogs attempted a pass from their own 40. The ball was pulled down by a white persey with 70 on it which rumbled like a piece of heavy equipment for the county road department to the Bulldog nine-yard line. Now that Lu Haas had set it up, light-footed Scribner danced it over his right guard for the TD after fullback Bill Henderson had edged it in to the six.

On the next play, whether he was aware of its importance or not kicking tackle John Cook established the winning one-point margin as the ball went through the big H.

San Rafael, in the third period had a fairly good opportunity to score. They were inside Novato's three-yard line for three plays, and inside the 17 for seven trys. Second string quarterback Roy Whittaker, Roberts, and finally Sovereign failed to crack the white wall in the center of the Novato line built by granite defenders Cook and Art Cherry. Novato took charge after the fourth down and drove out to the six from where they punted.

In about the last four minutes of the tilt the Novato white wall was again put to the test. San Rafael got near it when Petrini made a heroic catch on Novato's 20-yard line and carried to where he was knocked out of bounds at the three. Sovereign had thrown the pass from the Novato 43.

The Bulldog quarterback still thought he could crack the great white wall. He hit it from three yards out for no gain. He smashed it again and got to the six-inch line. The next play was fourth and last chance. Novato had already held once that evening and it looked like it was going to be a repeater, but Soveriegn called down by a white jersey a repeater, but Sovereign calltook a hand-off from Sovereign and tore through a narrow, but sufficient, right tackle hole to conquer the white wall and put the score at 14-13.

Novato coach Marlin Olsen and his club were swamped by fans at the end of the fight. Olsen gave much of the credit for the victory to halfback Bond who led the Hornet rush-in attack by quick starts and shifty, fast running drives.

"It was a great game is about all I can say right now!" yelled the coach over the cheering fans.

McKeever On The Mend, To Root For Team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mike McKeever, recovering from a brain operation at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, will be rooting today from his sickbed for a Southern California victory over Washington.

The Trojan's team physician, Dr. Thomas Cline, said the All-America candidate guard would be allowed to have a radio in his room today to listen to the crucial Athletic Association of Western Universities game, which may decide what team will represent the west in the Rose Bowl.

The USC varsity has vowed to win the game for McKeever, who was kicked in the head in the Stanford game and underwent brain surgery to remove a blood clot Tuesday night. Doctors found a second blood clot of indeterminate age when they operated.

The student senate at USC adopted a resolution dedicating the game to Mike, whose twin brother, Marlin, is an all-America candidate at end.

Mike's family, fiancee and a few close friends have been allowed to visit him at the hospital, but Dr. Cline ordered the youth to do as little talking as possible.

Mrs. Sumpter Wins Novato Tourney

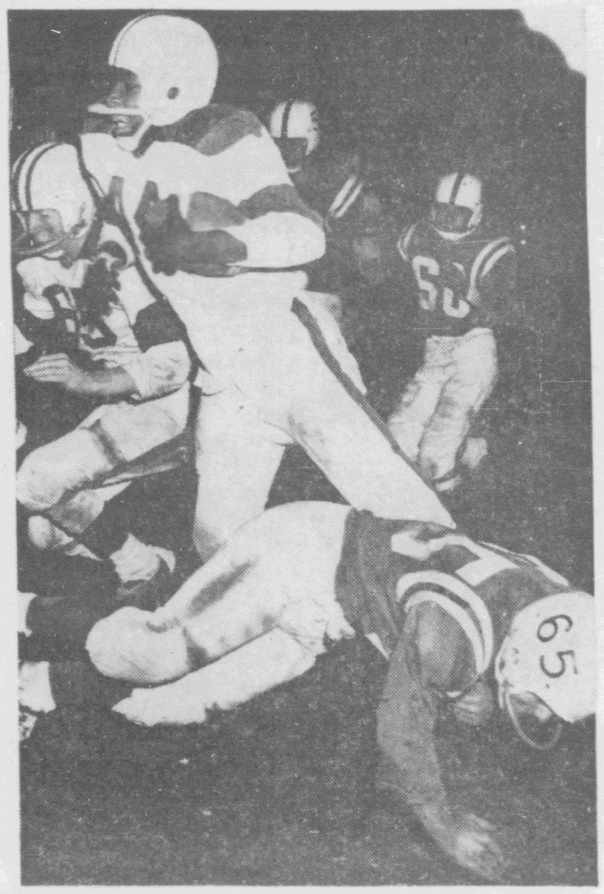
Seymour Elected M. V. Tennis Prexy

Philip Seymour was elected to succeed Melvin Klyce as president of the Mill Valley Tennis Club this week at the annual meeting of the club's general membership.

Other officers will be Lloyd Postel, vice president; James Reeve, secretary; and Philip T. Smith, treasurer.

Two new directors chosen were John K. Bloom and James Stephenson, and two re-elected were Klyce and Smith. Stephenson will also serve as membership chairman and Bloom as house and grounds chairman.



INDIAN STAR — Tam's Warren Domino is pictured making 17-yard gain on crucial first down play in third quarter. Tripping him up is Drake's Lou Ramsay (65).

Meadow Club Gals Defeats Presidio

Meadow Club's women's golf team defeated the Presidio Golf Club by 51 points this week in the second of their home and home series to even up the standings at one win each.

Seventy-four women, 37 from each club, participated in the match vs. par tournament. Following are class leaders:

G.G. Fields Show How You Can Lose Money Faster

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Saturday's shorts:

Golden Gate Fields introduced "racing every 20 minutes" to its fans this week. A nine-race card was run off in less than three and one-half hours. To the wagering public it was wonderful—a change to lose your money that much faster, and still get home in time for dinner. . .

AND SPEAKING of race tracks, we see that Diners' Club cards now are good for admission to some race tracks. When they get these credit cards to become good at the pari-mutuel windows — that will be the day! . . .

IT'S OBVIOUS that the Oakland Raiders are going to be in business in the American Football League next year — but where, nobody knows. There is talk of moving the franchise to Seattle, to Portland or maybe San Diego. President Chet Soda keeps busy denying one rumor after another—and always ends up with a "but . . ." which leaves the situation in doubt from one day to the next. . .

SPEAKING OF "20 minute racing" at Golden Gate Fields, the idea isn't exactly new. They've had the same thing at Phoenix, Ariz., for years. . .

ALVIN DARK, new manager of the San Francisco Giants, is noted as one of the finest golfers in professional baseball. He won the players' tournament three times in Florida. But he should keep in mind what happened to Lefty O'Doul when he managed the old San Francisco Seals. Lefty was fired because he "played too much golf." ★★★

Charley Powell Hurt In Game Against Patriots

BOSTON (AP)—Defensive end Charley Powell suffered bruises and possible cracks to his ribs last night in the Oakland Raiders 34-28 loss to the Boston Patriots. Powell was to undergo X-rays when the Raiders return to Oakland today.

49ers Favored By TD Over Lions

San Francisco 49ers, not boasting over a 3-3 record but still retaining visions of a Western Division National Football League pennant, are one-touchdown favorites to defeat the Detroit Lions in their Kezar Stadium battle tomorrow.

Lucky to win their first encounter with the Lions, 14-10, the 49ers this time will rely on young John Brodie to do the quarterbacking chores. Veteran Y. A. Tittle is on the injury list, but it was Brodie who brought San Francisco from behind to beat the Lions the last time they tangled in the motor city.

Coach Red Hickey announces that he'll also use sprint ace Ray Norton this time. Norton, who reported to San Francisco after the Olympic Games, is supposed to have the signals down now and will be ready for action—if needed.

However, he won't get a starting berth. Along with Brodie will be Hugh McElhenny, R. C. Owens and J. D. Smith. Veteran fullback Joe Perry also will see action. And it is possible that Abe Woodson, who goes full time on defense, also may do some ball packing on the offensive side.

Jim Ninowski will do the signal-calling for the Lions along with Dan Lewis, Howard "Hopalong" Casady and Nick Pietrosante in the backfield.

The Lions have won only one game this year—whipping the Baltimore Colts, world champions. They usually run up a lot of yardage, but have had trouble getting the ball across the scoring line.

Kick-off time is 1:30 p.m. and about 45,000 fans are expected to watch the battle.

'Crucials' Headline Pro Grid Tomorrow

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Giants, at a make-or-break juncture in the national Football League race, stake their hopes for an upset over the Cleveland Browns tomorrow on the return of Charlie Conerly and an old formula of pass, kick and dig-in-on-defense.

Coincidentally, the champion Baltimore Colts also reach a critical game in their quest of a third straight NFL championship when they play the Western Division-leading Green Bay Packers.

The Giants' situation appears more serious, however. They are 7-point underdogs in an away-from-home game while the Colts are favored by 9 at home.

49ERS FAVORED

Here is the "line" on the other NFL games Sunday:

Philadelphia Eagles favored by 6½ points at home against Pittsburgh Steelers; Los Angeles Rams 10½ over Cowboys at Dallas; San Francisco 49ers 6½ at home over Detroit Lions; St. Louis Cardinals 6½ over visiting Washington Redskins.

The American Football League also has a standout game pitting the Houston Oilers, Eastern Division leaders, against the Denver Broncos, who share first place in the Western Division. Houston is favored by 1 point for the game at Denver. The Dallas Texans were the choice by 2 points against the Bills at Buffalo.

Cleveland has not beaten the Giants in their five latest meetings, including a 1958 playoff for the Eastern Division title. During that stretch the Giants' defense held the Browns to a total of only 40 points. Linebacker Sam Huff did an especially good job of checking Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, the league's leading rusher.

Whether the New York defense can do it again is questionable. For one thing, quarterback Milt Plum gives the Browns better passing than they have had. He has completed 74.3 per cent of his passes and has not had one intercepted.

Brown still leads the league in rushing and Bobby Mitchell has developed into one of the best breakaway runners in pro football.

The Giants should get a lift from the presence of 39-year-old Conerly, who has been out practically the whole season with a sore elbow, and the return of punter Don Chandler, who averaged 46.6 yards per kick last year.

Giants Clout Japan Stars

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Righthander Jack Sanford pitched the San Francisco Giants to a 9-1 victory over the Japan All-Stars today before 20,000 American and Japanese baseball fans.

Sanford allowed seven scattered hits and fanned three Japanese batters in going the route. It was Sanford's first win in three Japanese appearances. He was backed by 14 hits, including two homers and a triple that netted the Giants seven of their nine runs.

The Giants now have six wins against three losses and one tie in their 16-game barnstorming tour.

The Giants exploded for seven runs on six hits in the first inning. A triple by Willie McCovey with the bases full and a homer by Andre Rodgers with two on accounted for six of the runs. Orlando Cepeda's single drove in the other. Eddie Bressoud hit the other Giant homer in the ninth. It was his first round-tripper of the tour.

The Japanese run came in the eighth on two walks, a single and a passed ball by catcher Bob Schmidt.

THE CHAMP—Betsy Rawls (above), leading professional women's golf money winner in 1952 and 1959, will appear at the Indian Valley Golf Club next Tuesday to play an exhibition match and conduct a clinic. The golfing feature will begin at 11:30 a.m. and is free to the public. Miss Rawls and a number of local golf champions will play a special nine-hole match and the clinic will conclude the day. Women golfers are invited to play a morning round free of charge and compare their scores, with the aid of handicap, against Miss Rawls'. The golf champ has won 39 championships for more than $100,000 in prize money since 1951.

Hub Woman Scores 2nd Hole In One

Mrs. John McGee of San Anselmo this week scored her second hole-in-one within a year at the Meadow Club golf course.

Mrs. McGee aced the 151-yard fifth hole with a four-iron. Among witnesses was Mrs. Gordon Wood.

Mrs. McGee shot her first hole in one last November.

BOSTON WINS 34-28

Raider Story: So Near, Yet So Far

BOSTON (AP) — Halfback Tony Teresa of the Oakland Raiders put it perfectly. "So near," he said, "yet so far."

His words could barely be heard amid the disgusted shouts, kicked lockers and hurled equipment in the Oakland dressing room last night after the Boston Patriots beat the Raiders 34-28.

Two Oakland fumbles and an errant pass that was intercepted by Boston gave the Patriots 17 points and a 20-7 halftime lead. The Raiders roared back with three second-half touchdowns but they had given away too much to a Patriot team they had beaten in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

A pair of fine runs, by Teresa and little Jack Larscheid, gave the Raiders late chances to pull out the victory—but they couldn't punch over that last vital touchdown.

Larscheid ran a third-quarter kickoff 72 yards to the Patriot 23 but the Oakland offense bogged down. In the fourth period Teresa broke loose for 40 yards to the Boston 6—but the Raiders were frustrated again.

"If I had only kept going straight," Teresa moaned later, "I probably could have outrun the Boston guy and gone in. But instead I cut. That's the story of this game—so near, yet so far."

Boston, losingest team in the American Football League prior to the game, now is 3-5. Oakland, third in the AFL's Western Division is 4-5.

Quarterback Butch Songin delighted the 8,446 fans with 16 completions in 36 passes for 264 yards and three touchdowns. Dick Christy ran for 60 yards and caught five Songin passes for 124 more.

But it was a heartbreaking loss for the Raiders after a superb performance by Teresa. The halfback from San Jose State scored three touchdowns, racked up 91 yards in 14 carries and was a ball of fire all night. It was his fumble, however, that gave the Patriots the ball on the Oakland 20 and set up the first of Gino Cappelletti's two field goals.

In addition to Teresa's three touchdowns, of 1, 3 and 20 yards, Tom Flores tallied on an 8-yard scamper. Larry Barnes converted after each Raider TD.

The Raiders returned to Oakland today.

Cal Softball Champs Arrive In Formosa

TAIPEI (AP)—The Lionettes of Orange, Calif., rated one of the best women's softball teams in the world, arrived in Taipei today for a series of games in Formosa.

The Lionettes have won the World Women's Softball Championship five of the 11 times the tournament has been held.

The visitors clash with a Chinese girls team Sunday and are scheduled to play other games at three of Formosa's leading cities, Kaohsiung, Tainan and Taichung.

CONNOLLY

I guess it is all for the best, the way things have turned out for the S. F. Giants, because there is a big chance Alvin Dark, the new manager, will not be an "assistant manager" to owner Horace Stoneham as many think.

What I mean is that contrary to some reports Alvin is not a "yes man" at all, but a fellow who thinks and acts for himself under any and all circumstances.

I realize that each and every one of you has a varied approach to the main theme — how will the Giants do in 1961?

For some unexplainable reason the Giant setup has provoked a brawl as to who is to blame, the managers of the ball club or its owner, Stoneham.

There may be more yells in the night because of Dark's appointment as head man. I understand some of the disappointed are now planning a flank attack on Stoneham.

But as I see it Dark may not attract any extra fans who want a show-boat manager, but when they see how his ball club performs they might come to think of him as a man of many moods and many understanding traits.

DURING OUR press chat the other day, Dark revealed that he isn't an all-out hit and run manager, nor is he a fellow who always plays for one run. He definitely stated the inning, the opposing team, the guy at bat, his speed and agility, have to be taken into consideration before he will hang up the sign.

"I like to play percentage baseball," Dark explained, "but sometimes it is against the odds to do so early in the game. That is why the long ball has played such an important part in the new era of baseball."

As every Giant fan knows, Orlando Cepeda is a fugitive from a fly ball. He has a terror of batted balls that fall from above, so before Dark moves Willie McCovey back into the Giant infield, he may do some experimenting with the Wild Bull of Puerto Rico.

"IF IT IS O.K. with you fellows," Dark said by way of explaining himself, "I'd prefer to be silent on my plans concerning the players now on the Giant roster. So many decisions have to be made on the scene at spring training, that I'm a bit gun shy on exposing or revealing my inner thoughts. All I can say is that when I go over details with the management and we exchange ideas, there may be sales or trades, but they should be made with the overall picture in mind and not simply due to the play or failure of players last season."

So you can figure one thing is certain on Dark's managerial debut. He wants it to be a solid one and not a wishy washy thing like so many other changes have been with the club since it came to San Francisco.

IF WE LOSE the Giants as a magnet to draw the fans, our sports picture in northern California will place us as another hick community that doesn't want anything but winners.

After three years of sitting and waiting and watching the Giants fumble and stumble, I'd say right now they are better off material wise than they've been since coming here.

And if Alvin Dark can merit the praise of those eastern writers like Art Daley and Jimmy Cannon, who really know their baseball, I'm stringing along the same way.

GRID STAR—Richard Weil (above), former Redwood High School star, now a freshman at Oberlin College in Ohio, has been playing guard on the offensive unit, and linebacker on defense. He came up with his best performance last Saturday as a defensive end.

Hall Of Famer Dies

TORRANCE (UPI) — Bobby Wallace, 87, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame and a former big league manager, died yesterday in a convalescent home.

Wallace broke into big time baseball in 1894 and was a standout shortstop. He established a major league record for most chances handled successfully in a single game and once managed the old St. Louis Browns.

Corinthian's Mid-Winter Series Starts Tomorrow

By ALFRED MATSON

The Corinthian Yacht Club's mid-winter series gets under way with a full program of racing on the docket tomorrow. After the initial event there will be four more regattas in the series—Nov. 27, Dec. 11, Jan. 8 and Feb. 5.

All races start and finish off the host clubhouse with the first contingent, Acorns and Pacific Clippers, heeding the starter's gun at 11:30 a.m.

Due to unpredictable wind conditions at this time of the year, often a dead calm but near gales are a possibility, as well, the courses for each class or division is not issued until five minutes prior to that particular start.

Participants will be informed through the flying of the proper signal pennant and display of a numbered panel on the porch rail adjacent to the flag pole.

Winter racing, now entering its ninth season, has attracted new recruits with each program. To date over 150 yachtsmen have registered their boats with the race committee and more latecomers are expected. So, with reasonable breaks from the weatherman, fleets of 175 or better will engage in combat during the winter months ahead.

THE ONE time pride and joy of Humphrey Bogart, the big racing yawl Santana, is now on her way up the coast to further swell the amazing roster of gold platers registered in the Cruising Club. The Santana was purchased by veteran yachtsman Wally Nickell of the San Francisco Yacht Club.

Sportsmen For Clem Miller

P. O. BOX 825, FORT BRAGG, CALIFORNIA

Dear Fellow Sportsman:

The Nov. 8 election is important to all Redwood Empire sportsmen. Our Congressman, Clem Miller, is up for re-election. We believe he is the best friend our sportsmen have ever had in Washington. Clem learns about our problems and does something about them. Here are a few examples:

1. His sponsorship last year of the Marine Game Fish Research Act, which Congress PASSED.

2. His ORGANIZING AND CONDUCTING of the Conference on Northern California Fishing Problems, at Marin Rod & Gun Club last November. Fishery scientists, fishermen, state and federal fish and game officials from four states spelled out the urgent need for basic research to save our North Coast salmon and steelhead while we still have them to save.

3. His battle (armed with facts learned at the Marin conference) this year for funds to get going on the research authorized in the 1959 act. Result: $150,000 appropriated; WORK BEGUN.

4. His current FOLLOW-THROUGH efforts to have the Pacific Coast field station for this new research work located in Northern California.

5. His co-sponsorship of legislation to step up vital stream pollution control work. PASSED by Congress, vetoed by White House.

6. His leadership in congressional insistence that the Navy clear up San Francisco Bay pollution. Appropriation made; WORK UNDERWAY.

Clem Miller gets things done for the sportsman. But there's always unfinished business in Congress. For example, there's the "Save our Shorelines" bill — No. 1 goal of the Izaak Walton League.

We hope you will agree that we should KEEP OUR WORKING CONGRESSMAN ON THE JOB in Washington by re-electing Congressman Clem Miller November 8th.

Sincerely,
Ray E. Welsh

Race Between McCarthy And Geller Decade's Tenure Challenged In Senate

John F. McCarthy, San Rafael Republican, has been Marin's state senator since 1950. The 13th senatorial district is contiguous with the county.

Challenging McCarthy's reelection is Charles M. Geller, San Anselmo electrician, who resigned as secretary of the Marin County Building Trades Council to make the race. Geller's only previous public office was as a member of the Marin County Board of Freeholders which drafted a proposed county charter that failed of passage in 1958.

Both incumbent McCarthy and Geller are particularly acquainted with Marin's largest industry — home building: McCarthy as a contractor and Geller as an electrician and an official of construction unions.

McCarthy, who in the cross-filing days had captured both parties' nominations in the June primary, sought to repeat that performance this year with a write-in campaign on the Democratic ticket. Although the attempt failed, he captured 5,210 Democratic votes to 7,630 for Geller. A second Democratic candidate who appeared on the ballot, Max Miller, received 4,123. Miller has since endorsed Geller.

No Marin candidate has a kind word for Proposition 15, which would redistrict the State Senate and deprive Marin of a senator all its own. But most outspoken of all against the measure has been McCarthy.

At one time he threatened that if Southern Californians succeeded in putting a redistricting proposal on the ballot, he would retaliate by organizing a Northern California campaign to defeat the state water bond issue (Proposition 1), badly needed by Southern California. He abandoned this plan, however.

McCarthy is the author of bills for the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge and for creation of the Golden Gate Authority, among others.

Geller has attacked McCarthy's voting record on various measures.

The 36-year-old McCarthy is a native Californian. He completed his education at University of San Francisco and Healds' Engineering College.

As a contractor, he has been associated in various residential development projects in Marin County.

Geller, his wife, Patricia and their two younger daughters reside at 99 Redwood Road, San Anselmo. The eldest daughter is married and lives in Sacramento.

Geller was born in Portland, Ore. He moved around much in childhood and youth, attending schools in Oregon, California and Texas. Today is his 51st birthday.

Although the board of freeholders was Geller's only elective office, he has served on the Marin County Postwar Planning Committee, the Marin Contra Costa Citizens Committee for the San Rafael Bridge, the original Bay Area Rapid Transit Committee and the Citizens Building Code Committee. He has been active in the Cancer Society, Heart Assn. and Marin Mineral Society. He has conducted world politics discussion groups, financed by the Ford Foundation and sponsored by University of California Extension, in Marin and San Francisco.

College Adult Program Has 2,222 Students

A total of 2,222 students are now enrolled in the College of Marin adult education program, it was announced by Dr. Samuel N. LeCount, adult education director.

Of these, 1,913 are enrolled in the general program as opposed to 1,759 last year. In the apprentice program are 217, an increase of four over the 1959 enrollment. Parent education students have increased by nine, with 92 registered at the present time.

The number of those enrolled in more than one class totals 298, bringing the overall classroom enrollment to 2,520. At the same time last year only 249 students took more than one class.

Fees from the program this year amounted to $8,752.

Concert Planned At Olney Hall

The Marin Madrigale and the Terra Linda Blockflute Players will present a concert of music for voices and recorders at 8:30 p.m., Nov. 11, at Olney Hall, College of Marin.

The Marin Madrigale is directed by Barry Mineah, and the Terra Linda Blockflute Players are under the direction of Leo Christiansen.

Refreshments will be served on stage during intermission. All proceeds go to the Marin County YWCA.

Novelist Snow To Speak At 3-R School

Sir Charles P. Snow, British novelist, critic and professor, will speak to English teachers of Marin County on Nov. 14 on "Contemporary Trends in Literature in Russia, Great Britain and the United States."

Sir Charles, who is regents' professor of English at University of California this year, will speak at the 3-R School in San Rafael. English teachers in public and private schools of the county have been invited.

Snow's works of fiction include the seven-novel cycle called "Strangers and Brothers," of which "The Affair" is the latest unit.

Investigation Yields Key To Burglaries

Because a deputy sheriff nabbed two boys as they were attempting to take a bicycle from in front of Oliver Hartzell School, two San Anselmo home burglaries and the looting of a locked car were cleared up yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Lightfoot caught the boys yesterday in the school yard, in San Rafael Meadows just outside the San Rafael city limits. Learning the pair were runaways from Sunny Hills Presbyterian Orphanage in San Anselmo, he took them to the San Anselmo police station.

As Juvenile Officer Chester Orr of the Hub City force was questioning them, one of the boys drew from his pocket an expensive gold watch, which Orr recognized as identical with one reported stolen from the home of M. R. Convis at 14 Alderney Rd., San Anselmo, on Halloween.

Under questioning, the two boys implicated two other Sunny Hills boys. Among them, reported Officer Orr, the four—three 13-year-olds and a 12-year-old — admitted break-ins of the Convis home, the home of Mrs. T. J. O'Mara at 266 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, and the locked car of Benjamin Braun, parked in front of his home at 44 Oakland Avenue, San Anselmo.

From the Convis home, the boys stole the watch, jewelry, cigarettes, fountain pens and cigarette lighters. From the O'Mara home on the afternoon of Oct. 26, they took fireworks and an electric lantern. From Braun's car yesterday, they got 10 quarters.

DuPuis Will Close Campaign Monday

Congressional candidate Fred G. DuPuis will close his bid for the Redwood Empire's seat in the House of Representatives on Monday with a "prop stop" tour of the entire First District and motorcades in each of its seven counties.

Accompanied by his wife, Marybelle, and traveling by airplane, the Republican candidate will go from his home in Tiburon to the Petaluma airport for a 7 a.m. takeoff. From Petaluma, he will fly to Napa, then to Lakeport, Ukiah, Fort Bragg, Crescent City, Arcata and Eureka.

DuPuis and his wife will stay overnight in Eureka, making four live television appearances on stations KIEM-TV and KVIQ-TV, and fly home to Marin on Tuesday morning to cast their ballots.

Jewish Center Plans Party For Children

An all-day outing and roller skating party for children from 6 to 12 years will be sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This is the first in the fall season of school vacation programs offered by the center. This and future vacation programs will be limited to center members only.

DONNA BARI ZANDER PLANS A WEDDING IN FEBRUARY

A wedding in February is planned. With her marriage Donna will relinquish her membership in The Spinsters.

Donna is a graduate of Dominican High School and Dominican College. She has a sister, Lorna Ann Zander, who was graduated from Pine Manor Junior College, Welleseley, Mass.

Don is the son of Mrs. Dennis J. Kelleher of San Francisco and the late Mr. Kelleher. He is the brother of Joan Patricia Kelleher who lives in New York City. Don is a graduate of St. Ignatius High School and attended San Francisco City College and University of San Francisco. He is a member of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

San Anselmo's Presbyterian Guild Plans Thank Offering

The annual thank offering luncheon and program of the First Presbyterian Women's Guild of San Anselmo will take place on Thursday, Nov. 10. Luncheon will be served at noon by the Bertha Cumming's Circle.

The World Service Dept. will put on a program of praise, meditation, and sharing. Mrs. Paul Bodine, chairman, will carry out her program with the theme, "That she who knows, cares, and she who cares, shares."

Through the 1960 thank offering the United Presbyterian women share in answering the calls "From Where Cometh My Help?" Through the Board of National Missions will come help to the young people in areas of particular stress and need in the south and southwestern sections of the United States. They will offer financial support to Educational Counseling Service. Through the Board of Christian Education this offering will help implement Operation Youth of 1960. There will also be improvements made in the library facilities at Rocky Mountain College in the Montana-Wyoming area.

Through the commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations this offering will bring help and healing in Korea. The new medical center at Severance Hospital will be equipped. Slides will be shown to illustrate the work being done in these areas.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

It'll Be All Glitter At The Jewel Ball

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Jewel Ball tonight at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco will be the most glamorous of all the glamorous events staged by the San Francisco Junior Auxiliary of the Stanford Convalescent Home. Rare jewels will flash against a lavish background of gold and red. Objets d'art add to the richness of the decor. And lovely members in ballerina length jewel toned gowns will display the rare gems.

One of the "jewel girls" is Mrs. Albert T. Domergue of Sausalito. Barbara's gown for modeling is pink peau de soie and ruby red velvet. However, when she and her husband, Captain Domergue, arrive at the hotel with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shannon of the Reedlands and the George Fays of Mill Valley, who are having cocktails with them at home first, she will be wearing a white lace sheath with a flying panel at the back. Mrs. Shannon has chosen a Hulitar model of champagne satin. Captain Domergue, who is in the Merchant Marine and just back from the Orient, is now on a three months vacation.

Mrs. Nadine Purdy is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunn, the Dan Samons, Mr. and Mrs. Max Thalen, the Kenneth Dorkings and Walter Freitas. The Dorkings, former residents of San Rafael, who now are living in Lafayette, are hoping to return to Marin soon. The Theodore Schoonmakers will have as their guests the Kenneth Hulmes and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stevens.

At the table of the Ray Hoffmans will be Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Daneri and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hodes. Among others at the dinner dance will be Messrs. and Mesdames H. Bruce Bernard, George Fay, Jerome Adams, Peter Fisher, John Robinson, Charles McPherson and A. E. Castle.

The Hoffmans recently returned from Europe, Virginia, with the children, Ray and Lynn, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Hansen of Aptos, went to the continent in June. The husbands joined them for the Olympic Games in Rome and then the children and Mrs. Hansen returned home. Ray and Virginia remained to see Paris and visit Ireland.

DAME MARGOT FONTEYN, prima ballerina of the Royal Ballet of Britain, which last night opened a 10-day engagement at the San Francisco Opera House, will be guest of honor at the dinner Sen. and Mrs. John F. McCarthy are giving tonight at their Fairhills home. Arriving with Dame Margot will be Micheal Soames, also of the Sadler Well's Ballet. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. James Knox. Rita Knox and the famous British dancer have been close friends ever since they attended a ballet school in the Philippines.

Of course, the McCarthys and Rita and Jim attended last night's performance. Other first nighters were Mr. and Mrs. William O. Weissich of San Rafael and the Lee Bledsoes of Sleepy Hollow.

A WEEKEND at Borrego, near San Diego, was enjoyed last week by a group of Marinites who flew south with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paganini of Ross and stayed at their place at Borrego. In the Paganinis' party were John O'Connell, who played in the pro-amateur golf tournament, and his wife, the Andrew Halleys and Ed Mahoneys.

A WEEK ago tonight Mr. and Mrs. William Evers of San Francisco entertained at a dance in the barn at the Ross place of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Evers. Decorations included many cobwebs. Weird sounds added to the spookiness of the Halloween event. An orchestra played for the dancing and many games made the evening merry. Guests in costume, climbed a ladder to the "dance floor."

MOVING TO HAWAII are the William Armors and their sons, Richard, 16, and Gary, 13. Mr. Armor who is an associate of the John Carl Warnecke architectural firm of San Francisco, which designed the new capitol building in Honolulu in cooperation with local planners, is already in the islands. Mrs. Armor and the boys will join him about Thanksgiving time. The Armors are considering leasing their San Rafael home.

DINNER PARTIES this time of year are mostly small and informal. Tonight the Herbert Crockers of San Rafael will be hosts at one. The Ed Detricks of Kentfield will be dinner hosts a week from tonight.

A SURPRISE at the luncheon given by Mrs. Leon Smith and Mrs. H. Wallace Hickman at the Meadow Club on Tuesday for members of their committee for the Northgate Group's traditional cocktail party in December, was the presentation of a birthday cake. The cake lighter by one candle was placed before Mrs. Rowland Chapman and the luncheon became a birthday fete.

A VACATION is being enjoyed in Honolulu by the George Gellers for three weeks. They are headquartering at the Reef Hotel. On return to San Rafael they will move to their now home in Harbor Estates. There they will await the arrival of their son, Eli. He went to Europe in April and after extensive travels there went to Israel. He is now en route home.

FASHIONS WITH A VIEW is the intriguing name for the series of luncheons plus style shows to be presented at Ondine's in Sausalito by Marion Bellamy. The first of the luncheon events will be on Thursday and will continue every Thursday with the exception of Thanksgiving Day. For next week's luncheon, guests are coming from San Francisco aboard the Pursuit, one of the fastest boats on the bay. Among those attending will be Mrs. George Russell, wife of the commandant of the 12th Naval District; Mrs. Malcolm Munger, whose husband, Captain Munger, is chief of staff of the district; Mrs. Winifred Chapin, whose husband is president of the National Naval Reserve Association and Mrs. H. B. Holbrook. Admiral Holbrook is executive director of the association. The men are attending the Naval Reserve convention to be held in San Francisco Nov. 15 to 19.

Marion says the latest clothes will be modeled with Marin and San Francisco stores and shops alternating.

PERIPATETIC Sausalitans are returning home in time to cast their votes. Mrs. Thomas B. Wiper has returned from Europe. Dr. Wiper preceded her home. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spring are enroute back from Africa. The Earl Thompsons ended their European travels last week with their neighbors, Vic and Irene Wollman, getting together in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Barkdull are home from a three weeks stay in Spain and Portugal—countries they had not visited on other trips. And from the other side of the world, Miss Else Honigbaum has returned from a trip to the Orient.

Bernheims Have Girl

A fourth generation has been added to prominent Marin families with the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bernheim of Belvedere. The baby, who was born at Children's Hospital, San Francisco on Oct. 29, weighed 6 pounds, 5 ounces and has been named Brenda. Mrs. Bernheim, the former Linda Fromhagen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fromhagen and the granddaughter of Mrs. H. R. Schreiber, all of Sausalito. Brenda's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jules Bernheim of San Francisco.

Two Brothers Are At Sea On A Yacht

Two young Kentfield brothers are enjoying adventures which make them the envy of their classmates. The boys, Hugh Wallace, a senior at Redwood High School, who is almost 18 and William (Bill) Wallace, 12, a seventh grader at Kentfield school, aboard the yacht Tomboy, are now in Kingston, Jamaica, and will sail from there through the Panama Canal to Acapulco. The owner of the yacht, Juan March, and his wife live there. Dr. William B. Wallace took his sons to Miami where they boarded the yacht and then he flew home.

Hugh wrote to his parents from Port-au-Prince in Haiti telling of an adventure which took place the night before they put into the harbor: "It was abou 9:30 at night, all was quiet and peaceful and dark. Suddenly I thought I heard a rhythmic splash and whispering of voices. I got out the spotlight and shone it over the side of Tomboy and saw a boat filled to the gunwales with soldiers armed to the teeth with automatic rifles and one a B.A.R. type. Thank Heaven, Juan speaks French as none of the boarding force of Haitians spoke one word of either Spanish or English. We were all searched individually and the boat was searched too. It seems we were suspected of "gun running" or transporting contraband. Finally we were ordered to go to the village. This was just about too much because the Haitians were yelling in French, Ernesto in Spanish and Juan was trying to explain the danger of running at night without depth-finder (it had gone "out of whack" that day) so near the land. But again Thank Heaven, there were 15 fathoms of water all the way."

Hugh and Bill both told of a slight collision at sea, when the Tomboy was struck and its bowsprit knocked off by a work boat.

Hugh has done some skin diving and the boys trolled, catching a baracuda and a tuna which they gave to the natives of Haiti.

Just before the Tomboy arrived in Port Antonino Jamaica, she ran aground. Bill said "Within three minutes there were three rowboats at our bow. We tried everything but finally had to hire them for $2. a head ($10) to get us off.

A passenger on the boat was J. Linton Rigg, an author, who has written "Sailing in the Bahamas," considered one of the best books for sailors. He is an American citizen and lives in Georgetown.

During her husband's absence, Mrs. March with her small daughter, Jennie, is staying at the San Francisco home of her mother, Mrs. J. Brendan Brady. Dr. and Mrs. Wallace may fly to Acapulco to meet the Tomboy.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1605, Guy Fawkes, hired by conspirators against English King James the first and Parliament, was seized as he was about to blow up the House of Lords.

In 1733, a German immigrant to the United States, John Peter Zenger, began to publish a newspaper, opposed to the autocratic rule of the royal governor of New York, William Cosby.

In 1855, five-time socialist candidate for the presidency, Eugene V. Debs was born in Terre Haute, Ind.

Playground Crushes Are Common Among Kindergarten Youngsters

P.R. "Several doctors told my sister that she never could become a mother. On their ad- she and her husband adopted a baby. Now she is pregnant. The same thing has happened to other women. Can you tell me why?"

Reply. As you say, many of the sterile women who adopt babies later have children of their own. No one knows for sure why. The commonest theory is that taking care of a baby satisfies a woman's basic instincts. Life becomes happier and more meaningful. Strains are relaxed and physical as well as psychological changes follow. With them comes fertility.

R.L.A. "My girl is 5. She told me a boy in her kindergarten had kissed her, and I complained to the teacher. Then I learned that my daughter had chased him all over the playground. Her friends held him while she did the kissing. What is wrong with my girl?"

Reply. Probably nothing. Many little girls have crushes on boys, and chase them. Many little boys don't mind being caught. I'd suggest that the kindergarten playground be supervised a bit more closely. The kissing should be prevented.

Mrs. V.G. "I'm worried about nursing my baby, which will arrive any day. Until my pregnancy I was very flat-chested. Does this mean I'll not have enough milk?"

Reply. Many flat-chested mothers nurse their babies successfully. Some pediatricians feel they're more apt to produce good milk than women with large bosoms. Be sure to talk with your doctor.

Some mothers prefer to feed their wee ones from a bottle. This may deprive the baby emotionally. There are many exceptions, of course, but from the mental health viewpoint breast-feeding usually is better.

Atomic Aide Rules Out Planning Children During X-Ray Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A state official concerned with atomic energy problems announced today he would urge people undergoing X-ray examination to avoid conceiving children immediately afterward.

Any person in the reproductive period of life who receives X-rays to the body's midsection takes a chance of producing offspring with some genetic change, and the change more often than not can be an unfavorable one, he said. Such defects might not show up for generations but they conceivably could include susceptibility to leukemia or infection and mental or physical deformities.

This position was taken by Alexander Grendon, coordinator of atomic energy development and radiation protection, after consultation with Dr. Herman J. Miller, noted authority on the genetic effects of radiation, and other experts in that field.

Grendon is in a newly created position on the staff of Gov. Brown. He is a retired army colonel who served in the chemical corps and the artillery. More recently he studied bio-physics at the University of California.

"Dr. Muller freely approved the idea when I asked him if it would be advisable," Grendon said in an interview today. "So I am going to advise individuals exposed to X-rays to avoid conception for a month or two anyway.

"Even if they hold off for a week they will reduce somewhat the chances of producing offspring with genetic changes. Two weeks is better; a month better yet, and two months is best.

"This does not apply to dental or chest X-rays, which produce little or no hazard. And I would not advise a person to refuse a needed X-ray for the sake of fertility. If a doctor says an X-ray is needed, the individual should accept this as paramount."

Grendon said he would include this advice in the content of his future speeches and hopes to publish and distribute a bulletin on the subject. He said he planned to ask funds in the next biennial budget for wider dissenination of public information on radiation protection generally.

Grendon said Dr. Hardin Jones, University of California medical physicist, and Dr. Everett Dempster, a professor of genetics on thes Berkeley campus, had endorsed his position generally.

Dr. Muller, Nobel prize winner from the University of Indiana, recently addressed a genetics symposium here under the sponsorship of the Kaiser Foundation. He referred to X-rays as "a bull in the china shop of genetics."

Grendon attended the symposium and consulted Dr. Muller there.

Theory On Lung Cancer Attacked By Scientists

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A series of scientific experiments have attacked a conspicuous weakness in the theory that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer. The experiments showed how smoking might be a cause.

Air passages from nose to the depths of the lungs are lined with ciliated cells. These cells vibrate—they beat. They form dancing surfaces, as it were, and foreign substances are bounced along in one direction—outward. This is how the body keeps the air passages clean.

Therefore, if the tars of cigarette smoke do contain cancer-causing substances, how could they accumulate in the ling cells of lungs? You'd think the bouncing ciliated cells would prevent that. Dr. John J. Ballenger of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., attacked the question.

He scraped ciliated cells out of the throats of young children. These were not likely to have been contaminated by unnatural living. These cells he cultured in a nutritional solution in sealed but transparent chambers, since ciliated cells are sensitive to variations in humidity.

He then bubbled cigarette smoke through these chambers. The smoke of only two cigarettes was enough to stop the rotational movement of the aggregate of ciliated cells within five to 28 minutes, he reported to the New England Journal of Medicine. These results he got from 12 consecutive experiments.

Ballenger drew conclusions which are bound to be attacked by some colleagues because there was no proof that ciliated cells in laboratory solution behave precisely the way ciliated cells behave in the body when moistened by natural body fluids.

That proof would be extremely hard if not impossible to come by because of the difficulty of experimenting with ciliated cells while they are still serving an organism and its organs. Previous detached experiments were with those of rats and other laboratory animals.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

BEAUTIFUL GREENBRAE

INVITES YOU TO SEE THE ARISTOCRAT

NEWEST FURNISHED DISPLAY HOME

290 Eliseo Drive. Open Every Day 10:30 to 5:30

FURNISHED BY CASA MARIN OF SAN RAFAEL
Designed by R. R. Zahm, AIA Built by Schultz Bldg. Co.
3 bedrooms, 2 baths, loads of closet space, G.E. kitchen, beamed ceilings in living room, dining room and kitchen, window walls open to a wide deck—and to a marvelously wide and charming panoramic view. With an outstanding exterior design, this is truly an "aristocrat" among homes.

$25,850 to $42,500

LOTS LOTS LOTS

Greenbrae lots are planned and laid out so that their homes—designed for each specific site—are able to take the greatest advantage of their special features of sunshine, shelter or view. You can choose your own builder and build whenever you are ready.

$5,500 — Bay View—74x104 ft. with an already graded building site and a view of the S. F. Bay. Located just three blocks from the elementary school. You will search long and far before you find a lot that can compare with this at anything like the price.

$7,500 — 80-ft. frontage with a large oak tree in front. Located two blocks from Greenbrae school. Already graded, ready for building. You just can't miss on this.

Students Ready For Spirit Week

San Rafael High School students will kickoff the first Spirit Week in the school's history Monday.

Packed in the five-day program, which marks the end of the football season, are a football game, parade, dance and alumni reunion.

Here is the schedule:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, noon rallies will be held with students dressed in red and white and school corridors draped in crepe paper streamers. Ribbons urging "Be a Bulldog" will be sold by the rally committee.

Thursday is Homecoming Day and a final rally will be held from 3 to 3:30 p.m. in the gym. At 6:15 p.m., the Homecoming Day Parade will start in front of the high school on High Street.

Parade lineup consists of five floats carrying the Homecoming Queen candidates, service clubs, combined freshman-sophomore class officers and one toting the junior-senior class officers; 30 cars filled with students, a fire truck and clown, horses and riders, the majorettes, Plaid Pipers girl's drill team and the high school band led by director Melvin Stanley.

Units will march north on High Street, west on Mission Avenue, south on Mary Street, west on Fourth Street, north on B Street and return to the high school on Mission Avenue.

Circling the field once, the units will assemble to view the announcement and coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

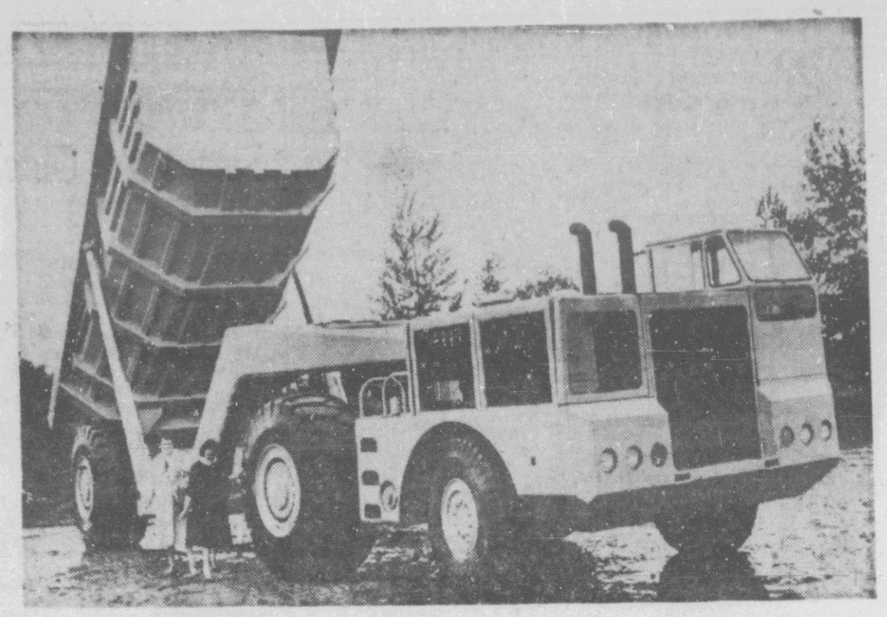
Five candidates have been selected by the members of the football squad who also will elect the queen. The girls, all seniors, are Pamela Stettler of 417 First Street, Victoria Olson of 8 Eva Street, Barbara Woodhurst of 15 Echo Place, Pamela West of 205 Spring Grove Avenue and Ruth Fagundez of 309 G Street.

At 7:30 p.m., the San Rafael Bulldogs play their last game of the season against the Wildcats of Marin Catholic High School.

Following the game, an alumni reunion—the second to be held at the high school in 20 years—will be staged in the gymnasium. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided at the reception.

The homecoming queen will reign over the game and the Homecoming Dance to be held Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the high school gym. Bob Olney of San Rafael and his band will provide the music.

Pamela Stettler and Victoria Olson, the school's two yell leaders, were in charge of organizing San Rafael High's first spirit week.



WORLD'S BIGGEST DUMP TRUCK?

What is probably the biggest dump truck in the world dwarfs Margaret Nelson and Emma Pearl, secretarial workers for the Peters Co. at Portland, Ore. The company built this big truck for use in moving earth in the mining of copper ore in Montana. (UPI Telephoto)

SECOND TIME IN '60

Hospital Bond Issue Is On Tuesday Ballot

Financing of a new Marin county hospital and farm in Lucas Valley by $2,250,000 bond issue will be voted on Tuesday for the seeond time within a half-year.

Members of the County board of supervisors decided on a November vote last spring, then felt that arguments for this method were so strong that voters would approve in June without much preliminary "education."

They were about 1,000 votes wrong. With a two-thirds approval required, the measure on June 7 won 25,334 supporters at the polls but 15,025 votes inopposition were enough to defeat it .

Eventually it is intended to provide capacity of 315 beds though initially a 175-bed one-story structure is planned. The design is of residential type including space and facilities for a vigorous rehabilitation program.

An important feature of the light and airy structure is that it will be earthquake-proof. By contrast, the present cream-colored two-story structure mostly dating back to 1913, could not withstand a severe shake. Sixty to 70 persons, elderly and not in good health and unable to move quickly, are housed in the hospital.

The state has condemned the present building and its continued operation is as shaky as its physical structure. Upon the supervisors rests the obligation to repair it adequately or move the residents into a structure meeting the rigid requirements for a hospital.

To the supervisors it is not arguable that a new county hospital building isn't needed, or that any plan of providing it can compare with a bond issue for economy.

They deny claims that the present buildings are in good condition, pointing out they were condemned was made by the State Bureau of Hospitals and by Harold M. Engle, structural engineer engaged for independent survey by the supervisors.

As to per-square-foot costs, they insist that opponents wish to compare dissimilar things and that a hospital is far more than an ordinary residence.

The basic plan calls for construction around a central core for initial care of 175. This could be expanded later to 315 beds with the same central service area containing kitchen, laundry and laboratories.

As to the cost of financing, studies undertaken at the supervisors' request show general obligation bonds offer by far the most economical procedure.

If lease-option were employed through issuance of bonds by a non-profit corporation with the county becoming full owner only after 20 years, the interest cost would be much higher.

Pay-as-you-go, with immediate start of construction and costs paid out of current tax revenue, would mean a 20 per cent boost in county tax bills for the next two years—a 50-cent addition on each $100 assessed value.

County Auditor Leon A. de Lisle has estimated that general obligation bonds can be financed at an interest rate of seven cents, which would decrease over the years to about two cents toward the end of the 20-year life of the bonds.

Cost of retiring the bonds under a less arrangement would be much higher. Independent reports to the supervisors have given 5½ per cent as the minimum interest rate on such bonds. The City of San Anselmo is now financing a firehouse by lease-purchase, with an interest rate of 5¾ per cent, plus special fees.

Another factor has to do with state approval of facilities.

Marin County now scrapes by on sufferance. State law requires that the county provide adequate facilities to care for the indigent sick and aged. The present facilities are not deemed adequate by the state.

For each patient, provided it runs a licensed hospital, Marin County receives part of the old-age survivors pay. But the system of federal and state payback to county for patients cared for at the hospital and farm puts an obligation to the county to provide facilities approved by the state.

Six Exchange Finalists Approved

Six Redwood High School students have been selected as semi-finalists for American Field Service candidacy. They are Barbara Burne, Martin Denicke, John Katz, Nora Nininger, Allison Tracy and Diana Whitney.

Of the semi-finalists, one or more will be chosen by A.F.S. headquarters in New York to be an exchange student or a summer resident abroad.

The six were selected on the basis of participation in panel discussions, impromptu speeches, responses to questions and personal interviews.

Selecting the candidates was a panel of judges including members of the A.F.S. committee; several businessmen; Robert Mautner, language teacher; Mrs. Emma Wulzen, dean of girls, and three students, Ned Griffith, Butch Brear and Penn Hammond.

Griffith, one of the students assisting in the selection, was an A.F.S. representative from Redwood last year when he went to Finland.

A-Shelters Suggested At Roadways

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The men who build the streets and freeways in California have suggested that the state begin putting radiation shelters under new or existing city streets.

Pat Wixted, business manager for the Engineering and Grading Contractors Assn., estimated that a typical under-street shelter would protect 750 persons and cost $50,000, or $66 per person. He said that family backyard shelters cost up to $2,000.

Wixted offered the suggestion yesterday to the California shelter committee, composed of officials from various state departments and charged by Gov. Edmund G. Brown with proposing legislation for a state shelter program.

Wixted said that the under-street shelters would be better than private types because "people in large groups would have a better chance to survive."

McCarthy To Seek Funds For Airport

State Sen. John F. McCarthy said today he will seek state funds for development of county airport facilities at Novato if the county's master plan is approved by federal and state agencies.

The master plan, which has been submitted by County Administrator, D. A. Jensen to the Federal Aviation Agency, calls for a development of 130 acres, with runways, terminal, hangars and buildings for use by private aircraft.

Sausalito's Annual Ball To Be Nov. 12

The eighth annual firemen's and policemen's ball will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., Nov. 12 at the IDESST Hall in Sausalito.

Co-chairman Ralph K. Pedersen said tickets have been sent to Sausalitans. Police officer John Lunt is the other co-chairman. Music will be by Johnny Blake's band.

San Francisco enjoys Fluoridation's Benefits

WHY SHOULDN'T MARIN?

San Franciscans are blessed with healthier teeth because they have been drinking fluoridated water for 8 years. Specialists in children's dentistry report much less decay in their patients, and a complete absence of cases of massive tooth decay in children such as occurred a few years ago. Even many adults in San Francisco report that they have had no new tooth decay develop since fluoridation. (The U. S. Army fluoridates its water for adults benefit).

San Francisco's experience with fluoridation also serves to prove the complete falsehood of all contentions in the scare campaign conducted by fluoridation's opponents in Marin. For example . . .

- Have you seen any cases of horribly mottled teeth in San Francisco—like those shown in the scare sheets circulated in Marin? Of course not!
- Is San Francisco's plumbing being corroded away by fluoridation? Mr. Medbury, water engineer for the City of San Francisco Water Department has stated: "fluoridation has shown absolutely no effect on the water system in the City of San Francisco after seven years" (at time of this statement).
- Are older people suffering more disease and dying sooner in San Francisco? The insurance companies don't think so. The rates on health and life insurance are the same as in Marin.
- Are the trees and flowers harmed by fluoridation as implied in some of the anti-fluoridation advertising? Just take a walk in Golden Gate Park. Or look atthe gardens in the better kept homes in San Francisco.

SO WHICH SIDE SHOULD YOU BELIEVE?

San Francisco's experience right next door to us proves the flagrant falsehood of the so-called "facts" now being circulated in Marin by the anti-fluoridation group.

The endorsements of the American Medical Association and American Dental Association in favor of fluoridation are the strongest assurance of fluoridation's safety and effectiveness that any thinking citizen could ask.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

McCarthy Has Proven He Deserves To Be Re-Elected

Marin County has for 10 years had one of the most effective legislators in the State Senate.

John F. McCarthy has, since his freshman days in the upper house, been able to represent Marin County and its residents with understanding and ability.

He has grown in stature from that novice of 10 years ago to the most powerful Republican in the State Capitol today. He is leader of the minority party on the Senate Floor. He is vice chairman of the powerful Senate Rules Committee. He has the respect and cooperation of his fellow legislators oi both parties in both the Senate and Assembly.

More than that he is an active and energetic representative. His activities are widespread from such major accomplishments as the authorship of legislation creating the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge, to a continuing battle to reduce tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge; from sponsorship of a method of coordinating transportation facilities throughout the Bay Area to legislation by which the state will build an underwater tube from Oakland to San Francisco for rapid transit, if and when we approve a system.

These are only a few of his many accomplishments. He has been in the forefront of those seeking effective conservation, hunting and fishing, and recreational legislation. His billboard regulation campaign, with which we did not agree 100 per cent, has brought him statewide recognition.

He has been one of the battlers for economies in government and fought Gov. Edmund G. Brown's tax increases, which proved so much too high they brought in 120 million or so dollars more than the state needed last year.

McCarthy has been responsive to the requests of the people of Marin. He has been able to carry on their business and represent them well in the State Capitol. He certainly deserves to be returned for another four years.

We recommend that you vote for John F. McCarthy for Senator on Tuesday.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Terry Wade of Greenbrae for his election as governor of the statewide YMCA's Model Legislature next February. Speaking on education, Terry won votes over Mike Hofmayer of Palo Alto, who discussed lowering the voting age to 18. Twenty six Y units, with one vote each, caucused and voted. Terry didn't get his needed 14 votes until well down the roll call, but wound up with 18.

A BRICKBAT: To the genius who so uniformly manages to operate San Rafael traffic lights on a strictly non-synchronized basis.

A BOUQUET to the oil companies if, as reported, they're now allowing gasoline price cuts to let Marin County service stations compete on equal terms with San Francisco, incidentally bringing more gas tax refund money for Marin roads.

A BRICKBAT: To whoever was responsible for poisoning two dogs of a Sausalito family.

A BOUQUET: To the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency for granting improved terms to buyers of new private homes in Marin City.

BOUQUETS to the two Hamilton Air Force Base Airmen, Joseph D. Hamilton and Robert G. Butcher, for their alertness, courage and determination in spotting an escaped San Quentin convict, following him in a high speed automobile race, and capturing him after he tried to escape on foot. We hope the Air Force suitably recognizes their service to the people of Marin.

A BRICKBAT to the world's meanest thief, who stole $500 in cash from a benefit being held for a woman whose husband was lost at sea last month. Happily, the thief failed to get nearly $4,000 in checks.

BOUQUETS to the Ross Police Department and the Marin County Sheriff's Office for finally nabbing the long-sought "pillow case burglars" and letting us all get some sleep again.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

LOSES TWO YEARS WORK

The results of two painstaking years of photographic study were stolen from the car of an architecture student. And it happened just before he was to sail from New York for his home in Vienna.

The loss of his 3,000 color photos particularly depressed him because they represented 24 months of carefully planned camera work in all parts of this country. Trekking through 50,000 miles in 40 states, he had gathered an unusual collection of pictures of American structures, from adobe huts to skyscrapers.

We can only imagine how crushing an experience this must have been for the diligent student. It far outshadowed the loss of his other belongings.

Far worse, however, is the feeling that one has squandered a whole lifetime in pursuit of selfish possessions that must be left behind when the time comes to face the judgment of God.

(Matthew 6:20)

Grant me the vision and wisdom, O Lord, to prepare by a well-spent life for an eternity with You.

ILLUMINATED SOJOURN

IN 87TH CONGRESS

Miller, Engle Favored More Federal Power

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—Where do candidates for the 87th Congress stand on a central question of the 1960 compaign: should the responsibilities of the federal government be enlarged, maintained or diminished?

To provide a useful yardstick, Congressional Quarterly examined all 602 roll-call votes in the 86th Congress and selected 26 of these—14 in the Senate, 12 in the House—as tests of the members' positions on the question of a larger or smaller federal role.

The test votes touched on most of the major controversies over domestic policy that have seen Democrats pitted against Republicans, Congress against the Administration. Most, but not all, of the votes involved the question of federal expenditures.

AMONG THE TESTS were comparable roll calls in Senate and House concerning federal aid for housing and urban renewal, airport construction, depressed areas, school construction, and subsidies for lead and zinc producers and the fishing industry. Other votes involved the issue of federal-state relations in the handling of labor disputes and the protection of civil rights.

By adding up the scores of individual Senators and Representatives, it was found that the average Democrat in the 86th Congress supported a larger federal role (or opposed a smaller one) four times as often as the average Republican—74 per cent of the time against 19 per cent.

Conversely, the average Republican supported a smaller federal role (or opposed a larger one) more than three times as often as the average Democrat—78 per cent to 23 per cent.

REP. CLEMENT W. Miller (D) of Corte Madera, Calif., supported a larger federal role on 11 of the 12 test votes. He supported only one measure involving a smaller federal role. It proposed a price support alternative for wheat and feed grain producers and was defeated.

This gave Miller scores of 92 per cent in support of a larger federal government role and 8 per cent in support of a smaller one.

California senators have this record. Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R) supported a larger federal role on 7 of 14 test votes and a smaller federal role on five. This gave him scores of 50 per cent on a larger role and 36 per cent in support of a smaller.

Sen. Clair Engle (D) supported a larger role in 12 of the 14 votes and a smaller role in two, giving him 86 per cent for more mederal expansion and 14 per cent for less.

AMONG THE 66 DEMOCRATS seated in the Senate at adjournment, 48 supported a larger federal role on 11 or more of the 14 test votes; only three Democrats opposed a larger role on all of the tests. Among the 34 GOP senators, none supported a larger federal role on all of the votes, while five failed to do so even once.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) was among the 16 Democrats who supported a larger federal role on each of the 14 test votes.

In the House, 63 of the 280 Democrats supported a larger federal role on each of the 12 test votes, while 48 of the 152 Republicans just as consistently supported a smaller federal role.

Demo Chiefs Concede Marin, Workers Object

DAY

Election Day is Tuesday and, just between you and me, I'm tickled pink. I'm pooped. Being a candidate has nothing on trying to report an election.

As the final day approaches, the Kennedy-Johnson campaign headquarters came out with a county-by-county rundown on how their candidates would do.

Marin was one of four counties in the state "conceded" to Richard Nixon. The other three were San Diego, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara.

Four other counties, Lake, Monterey, San Mateo, and Santa Clara were put in the "very close" or "toss-up" category. Six counties didn't report and the rest were claimed for Jack Kennedy including the state by half a million to a million votes.

Of Marin County the report said:

"Traditionally Republican Marin is conceded to Nixon by the Kennedy-Johnson chairmen, who nonetheless predict substantial gains in Democratic strength. Marin voted for Eisenhower in 1956 by 33,792 to 17,301."

There are those Democratic workers, however, who don't agree with their chairmen. Some high up in the campaign are privately predicting Marin could split 50-50 for Nixon and Kennedy.

SPEAKING OF SCIENTIFIC predicting of elections, the three Ashley boys, Peter, Jeff and Ken, got a new Ouija board this week. Seeking to try it out, two of the boys sat down, placed their hands properly on the moving pointer, and asked who would win the election. The board spelled out N-I-X-O-N. Then another combination of the boys tried it. Same result. And the third pairing tried it. Still N-I-X-O-N.

Father Ross is an outspoken Republican and he bought the Ouija board.

ALTHOUGH IT SEEMS rather late to be mentioning such a thing, we had a letter from a Humboldt resident this week announcing himself as a write-in candidate for Congress from this district.

LeRoy St. Clair, of Alton, Calif., offers himself on a platform of "A money reform bill to prevent inflation and deflation and a pay as you go tax bill to end all taxes." Sounds good.

We hear from Mr. St. Clair, a Democrat, about once every two years — when he announces himself as a write-in candidate for Congress.

A COUPLE OF weeks ago, Sonoma Republicans put in a rush call for Price J. Hall of Larkspur, the flack for Republican Assembly candidate William Bagley, to help plan the county GOP's big fund-raising dinner last weekend.

Hall has had experience at that sort of thing. He's planned several Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners for the Democrats, of which he is one.

I'VE BEEN ASKED numerous times where the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey came from. The symbols were drawn by Thomas Nast, a cartoonist, who first used them in a series of political cartoons in the 1870s.

10 YEARS AGO

A condemnation suit to let Mill Valley proceed with straightening Miller Avenue was filed by City Atty. Thomas Nelson in superior court against the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and others, seeking to obtain land on which the freight station stood.

County road workmen graded the surface of the west grounds of the courthouse in San Rafael, preparing for paving as a parking lot.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Most Dangerous Impulses Revealed

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I came across a political advertisement in the Nov. 3 issue, which I find immensely interesting. "When in doubt, vote no," is says, and underneath: "The majority of the ballot measures will either cost you money or benefit someone other than yourself."

After I had recovered from the initial shock, and had asked myself all the obvious questions, such as "How can people living in the 20th century under a democratic form of government advocate criteria openly based on self-interest?" and other questions that I worded less politely, such as: "How have we managed to retain people with caveman mentalities in our society?" and "What can such people feel when they gaze in the mirror?"—after I had asked myself these questions I began to reflect on the libidinal appeal of the advertisement, and to consider how, when the chips (or rather the curtains of the voting booths) are down, this kind of consideration, even in our society, may be the one that decides the outcome.

How else can we explain our defeating so many recent school bond issues — didn't many of the voters assume that their children, whom the ballot measures were designed to benefit, were people other than themselves?

Perhaps, I told myself, in a sudden, desperate fit of optimism, the people who represent such beliefs (if one can credit such notions with having been arrived at by an intellectual process) are sent to us as a kind of warning, in much the way Nature warns us when we are sick by making us feel weak.

They reveal our most dangerous impulses to us at the precise moment when we can no longer afford them if we are to survive.

Nixon Shuts Out Kennedy In Early (Illegal) Marin Voting

Most of the columnists and national pollsters are reporting a definite trend toward John Kennedy.

But in Marin, County Clerk George Jones comes up with an unofficial "poll" that gives Kennedy no chance at all.

Seems that when the sample ballots were mailed out, some citizens got the mistaken notion that these were to be marked and mailed back. This week, four of these invalid sample ballots came trickling back in the mails. According to Jones, the result showed Richard Nixon—4; John Kennedy—0.

ROBERT W. ALLEN of Pt. Reyes is a reasonable man. When his wife got notice to serve as election officer, Allen said okay, he'd babysit. Then when he got a notice to serve too, he didn't blow up.

"I'd be happy to," wrote Allen to County Clerk Jones, "if you would come to babysit for me."

Jones, who has been out of practice for 50 years, said "no thanks" and excused Allen.

A STARTLING election prediction comes from astute political observer Bill White of Terra Linda.

"If Kennedy is elected," Bill announces solemnly, "I predict that in three days, all banks will be closed and troops will be marching up the streets!"

Let's see, election day is the 8th. Is it possible that all of that could happen by the 11th?

ABOUT THIS TIME next week, drunks and drunken drivers will probably be coming into court, blaming Kennedy or Nixon for their woes.

When the Yanks lost the World Series, one drunken driver stood before the judge and admitted he got stewed.

SPEAKING OF ALCOHOL, Marin now has an Alcoholics Anonymous 35 and Under Group.

Then there's the Saturday Night Group that meets in church, followed the morning after by a Breakfast Group that meets over coffee Sunday morning.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT is already infiltrating the county courthouse. The other day, a drunk caught in Sausalito was sentenced to 30 days in jail, to be served during weekends.

"Every weekend except Christmas," Judge Leonard Thomas added as an afterthought.

DID YOU NOTICE California Highway Patrolman Duncan Snell, in full uniform, paying a $1 parking tag in the traffic department the other day?

They presented a debate this week, announcing a "brand new program idea" of listeners telephoning questions to the panel.

KTIM's award-winning Sounding Board has been using the same format for eight years.

County Hospital Worst In State

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

No one knows better than we the need for improvement of our county hospital and farm facilities.

During the past 25 years, our ambulances have made numerous trips to and from nearly all county hospitals in California. These trips afforded us an excellent opportunity to compare how various counties take care of their les fortunate people — real people like you and I.

Without any doubt, Marin has one of the best county hospital sites and one of the worst county hospital facility in the state. It is only because of the fine work of the staff that the situation is not intolerable. If the facilities were better exposed to the citizens of Marin, they would have been corrected 20 years ago. Anyone making a tour through, NOT JUST TO, our county hospital cannot in good conscience vote against the bonds to correct this situation. We hope everyone votes Yes on Prop. A.

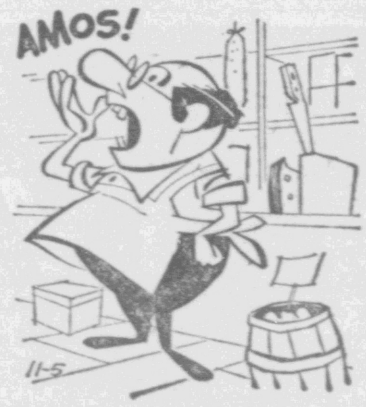
It's fun tracking back the origin of stories some scribes have the gall to claim they "originated." Here are two you may recognize, for instance, that Maxwell Droke spotted in a jokebook published in the 1870's:

1. Before the War Between the States, a Southern proprietor of a crossroads store called to his servant, "Amos, have you watered the whiskey?" "Yas, suh." "Sanded the sugar?" "Yas, suh." "Added dirt to the pepper?" "Yas, suh." "That's fine, Amos. Now you can come in to prayers."



2. A hat was passed around a certain congregation to provide a purse for the visiting minister. It came back absolutely empty. The visiting minister shook it mournfully, then raised his eyes to heaven and exclaimed, "I thank Thee, dear Lord, that I got my hat back from this congregation!"

Rory Baxter writes that a couple on his floor have worked out the ideal arrangement. One night a week he goes out with the boys—and the other six nights, she goes out with them.

Kitty Oppenheimer Of Station KTIM

At Early Age She Learned Value Of Serving Others

By DON KEOWN

And yet today she can look back upon an active and satisfying life with few regrets. For while she was denied the opportunity to enter the profession to which she had aspired, she has nevertheless been able to devote a great deal of her busy life to serving her fellow-mankind.

And even today in her job with Marin's civic-minded radio station, KTIM, and in her many outside interests and activities, she is continuing that tradition.

THE DESIRE to serve and help others, she says, is the result of the example set by and training received from her mother, for a number of years the kindly, patient, understanding matron at the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum on San Francisco's Divisidero Street between Grove and Hayes.

But Kitty Oppenheimer's story begins just at the turn of the century when she was born in San Francisco to parents who were also San Francisco-born, Charles and Lillian Green.

Her father, one of 11 children, owned the Columbia Cafe at 13 Powell Street. His establishment was located next door to the Columbia Theater, and, consequently, he had a close acquaintance with many of the leading theater people of the day.

KITTY REMEMBERS that it was a practice for the actors, actresses, directors, producers, etc., to gather in her father's restaurant for refreshments and good talk—in which he participated — after every performance.

"The old Tivoli Theater, which was then the hotbed of comic opera and where Paul Steindorf conducted the orchestra, was almost like home to me," Kitty says. "I not only attended often when a very small girl, but I was taken backstage to meet all the 'greats' in the casts."

One of her clearest memories from her earliest years is of a Christmas Eve when Hartman, whose great play was "The Toymaker," was a guest in the Green home. "He sat me on his lap and told me Christmas stories," she says.

Another intimate of Charles Green was Herman the Great, one of the top magicians of all-time. "He used to do special tricks for me and my cousin Howard," Kitty recalls.

Kitty was in every respect a child of San Francisco, being raised in the heart of the downtown district. The Greens and their only child made their home in those days in the Irving Hotel on Jones Street. And when Kitty first started to school it was at the Denman School for Girls (a public school, but restricted to girls only) only a couple of blocks from the hotel.

SHE ATTENDED classes there through the first and second grades, and then tragedy struck the Green family. Her father, a husky, handsome six-footer of robust health, was suddenly stricken with typhoid during an epidemic and hospitalized. He survived that attack, but, shortly after his return home, caught pneumonia and died.

Lillian Green, only 26, found herself a widow who had never worked outside the home and who had no training for any job other than housekeeping.

But the courageous young widow did have an interest that was to stand her in good stead—photography. Through this hobby she met Arnold Genthe, a famous photographer of the day who specialized in Chinatown scenes. He asked Mrs. Green if she would be interested in learning and working at the stipling of photographs. She agreed and went to work at the Genthe studio to support her child and herself.

But Mrs. Green had always been fascinated by the field of social service, although she had no professional training in such work. Her friends were aware of her interest. So one day one of those friends, the president of the board of directors of the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum, now known as Homeward Terrace, asked her to call on him for an interview concerning the vacant position of matron at the home.

Kitty remembers that she accompanied her mother to that interview.

"The man told mother that there was one thing — the matron couldn't keep her own child or children at the home," she recalls. "Mother said that in that case she was not interested in the job because she would not be separated from me. So the board president agreed that the rule could be waived."

MRS. GREEN landed the job. And for the next eight years she and Kitty were to make their home at the orphan asylum.

The asylum was home to 200 parentless children. Like Kitty and the children of the asylum superintendent, they all attended public schools in the vicinity of the institution.

"Mother loved her work with those children," Kitty says.

Mrs. Green and her daughter were at the asylum at the time the big earthquake and fire struck San Francisco those devastating blows of 1906.

Kitty remembers that the tremors caused extensive damage to the big three-story wooden building that was the orphanage's main structure. The children were moved to the one-story gymnasium, the boys sleeping in one half of the gym, the girls in the other, and the staff being housed on the stage.

Martial law was declared in San Francisco and there were soldiers camping on the grounds of the asylum.

"Neighbors of the orphanage kept their eyes on us," Kitty recalls. "They said they would move if we did. But we didn't. And so no one left their homes in our neighborhood."

THE MAIN orphanage building was repaired and the children moved back in. And life at the institution returned to normal.

Kitty remembers those early days as ones in which her mother placed special stress "on training me to give service to others."

"She used to take me to places where she thought I would learn that lesson," Kitty says.

For instance Mrs. Green took her young daughter to watch the proceedings of the first court to be set up in San Francisco especially for the handling of criminal cases in which women were defendants. Mrs. Green attended as representative of the San Francisco Council of Jewish Women. And often, on behalf of that organization, she extended a helping hand to women of the Jewish faith who had been unfortunate enough to become embroiled in trouble with the law.

It was in these years that ambition for a career in social service burned brightly within her.

"I wanted to be a social service worker, and I especially wanted to study at Hull House," she says.

But when Kitty was 15, her mother remarried. And Kitty quit high school "because I didn't think it was fair for my stepfather to have to pay for my continued education." The social worker career dreams were abandoned.

She enrolled at Heald's Business College and took a commercial course. Still only 15 or 16 she went to work on a part-time job with M. R. Fleischman and Co., a San Francisco manufacturing concern.

It was while working at the Fleichman office that she became reacquainted with a young executive of that firm. He was Mel Oppenheimer, a cousin of the Fleischmans. Nine years older than Kitty, he had known her when she was a little girl. But they had not seen each other for years.

When World War I came, Fleischman devoted a large portion of its manufacturing capacities to the war effort. And Mel was a busy man seeing that the output for Uncle Sam was at its maximum. Kitty devoted a considerable portion of her time to Red Cross work.

Later the Oppenheimers bought a home in San Francisco's Richmond District. It was then, after five years of marriage, that their first daughter, Joan, was born. And four years later a second daughter, Nona, arrived.

Nona is Mrs. Stephen Kaufmann of Strawberry here in Marin County, and also the mother of three — Donald, Janice and Peter.

During those early years of her marriage Kitty found time for volunteer social service work in San Francisco.

Prior to Joan's arrival, she used to take the street car to and from the San Bruno Settlement House where she conducted story hours for the children and was also in charge of the settlement house's library. It was a trip which took hours, but nevertheless an activity she enjoyed.

She was also a worker at the now defunct San Fran-

As a child, daughter Joan was in poor health. The Oppenheimers had made it a practice to spend their summers in Marin, living in a home they would rent for the three or four month period. Mel would then ride the ferry to and from work. The Oppenheimers had a strong attachment to San Francisco, but they also loved Marin. They were particularly fond of hiking or riding along its mountainous and wooded trails.

AND THUS IT did not come as too great a blow when their pediatrician advised them to move from San Francisco to sunnier Marin for the sake of Joan's health. The move was made in 1928.

The family first rented a house in Ross which was their home for seven years. Then they bought a place on Norwood Avenue where Kitty still makes her home.

Shortly after moving to Marin, Mel severed his connections with the Fleischman company and went into business for himself as a manufacturers' representative for several eastern firms. He maintained his office in San Francisco, and commuted to and from work.

The Oppenheimers lost little time in becoming active in Marin community and cultural life.

THEY CONTINUED the hikes on Marin trails that were such a joy to them. They were active in the Ross Valley Players, the Mountain Play Assn., and the Music Chest. Mel served as a Boy Scout leader. And during World War II both Mel and Kitty played active roles in civil defense and Red Cross work. Kitty wrote publicity for the Red Cross, specializing in the vital blood donor program.

She remembers how she and her husband used to work the "graveyard shift" operating the hospital canteen at Hamilton Air Force Base that greeted returning servicemen from overseas.

"Mel was always good with food," she says. "He liked to cook."

Talking with Kitty you soon get the idea that she feels that there were not many things at which her husband was not good. But that most of all, she feels he was a "good person."

"Mel was dynamic," Kitty says. "The kind of person who could get things done. And everyone who knew him liked and admired him."

Kitty's mother and stepfather had also moved to Ross. Her mother died in 1934. Her stepfather—"he was a wonderful person"—died only a short time ago.

Mel Oppenheimer died in 1945. It was a crushing blow to Kitty Oppenheimer. The love which had first been kindled when she was a teenage office worker at the Fleischman office and Mel a handsome young executive there had burned brighter and brighter through the years.

ALONG WITH her grief, Kitty Oppenheimer had much the same problem that her widowed mother had faced decades earlier—how to support herself.

"I hadn't worked at a job since my marriage," she recalls, "and I simply didn't have the tiniest idea as to what I was going to do. I had many interests, but none of which seemed to offer the slightest prospect of returning any remuneration."

In 1948 a telephone call to her home provided the answer to her problem. The pleasant voice on the other end of the line belonged to Hugh Turner, manager of radio station KTIM. He asked Kitty to stop by his office for a talk. A puzzled Kitty did so. And Hugh asked her if she would be interested in doing a radio show.

Turner recalls that "at the time we had a program going that consisted of recorded classical music. But we could see that we needed someone who would comment on the music and also interview personalities to step up interest in the show. We knew it would be hard to find a qualified person. But someone suggested 'a Mrs. Oppenheimer who lives over at Ross and is very active in the Marin Music Chest.' "

THE TELEPHONE call followed.

"I was flabbergasted because I had never previously undertaken anything remotely like broadcasting," Kitty recalls. She thought about Turner's offer. And then replied that she "might" be interested providing she were permitted to use the show to publicize her beloved Marin Music Chest.

"Mr. Turner laughed and said perhaps we might be able to work something out," she says.

But first there had to be an audition tape. At the time young Dave Ford, son of Marin's Ernie and Mary Ford, was doing a young people's program for KTIM and happened to be in the studio. So Hugh Turner told Kitty Oppenheimer to sit down and interview young Ford while their conversation was recorded on tape.

Afterwards the KTIM staff was invited into the studio to listen to the tape.

"It was so terrible that I wanted to fall through the floor," Kitty says.

But the studio staff verdict was otherwise. And thus one of Marin's best known radio personalities was born.

On her initial 15-minute show Kitty played semi-classical and classical recordings and commented on the music. It developed into a program called "Women's Page," which ran a half hour five days per week and won itself a sponsor. Along with the recordings there were interviews of visiting and Marin personalities.

Today's "Open House" interview show over which Kitty presides five days a week, 11 to 11:15 a.m., is an outgrowth of that program.

Her other show, "Sounding Board," now in its eighth year, is heard on Thursdays from 9 to 10 a.m. and is then repeated on Sundays. Marin and regional issues, on rare occasions national issues, are discussed by a panel. Frequently the topics are of a highly controversial nature. And tempers of participants have flared.

What does she do when this occurs?

"There isn't much that you can do," she admits. "You just try to remind the panelists in a diplomatic way that they should stick to the issue and leave personalities out of their discussions."

"Sounding Board" won for KTIM this year the Gold Medal Award as the top public service program by a non-metropolitan radio station in California.

DOES KITTY like her KTIM job? "I'm crazy about it," she says. And which of the two programs—"Sounding Board" or "Open House" — affords her the most enjoyment?

This, she admits, is a difficult question to answer because each show is rewarding in its own way.

"Sounding Board is a challenging program," she explains, "because presiding over a discussion of a hot issue can be a touchy job. You have to keep on your toes.

"On the other hand, Open House is more relaxed and informal.

"And on both shows I meet some very interesting people."

As with her desire to serve, her love for music—and for the theater, books and art as well—she traces to the influence and training of her mother.

"SHE STARTED taking me to art galleries, the theater, the opera, when I was very young," Kitty says. "And after my father died, at night, after a long day, she would read aloud to me from the classics, or we would listen to recordings of classical music."

Kitty still has at her home some original Caruso recordings, now extremely scarce.

"I remember when I was growing up that every Wednesday evening mother and I would go to the Martin Fleischman's (Uncle Martin, I called him) and listen to a string quartet composed of Mr. Fleischman, Dr. Lawrence Hoffman, Dr. Henry Harris and Leonard Waterman.

"These were things which have been part of my life—all my life."

It was not surprising, then, that Kitty Oppenheimer was a member of an original group of five who launched the Marin Music Chest program in 1932. She has been secretary of the organization almost from inception, has served as publicity director since 1932, and is also the Music Chest concert manager.

She has been an honorary member of the Ross Valley Players, of which she was one of the founders. She also wrote publicity for that troupe for a number of years. As mentioned previously, she is active in the Mountain Play Assn. She has a strong interest in Sunny Hills and belongs to its new entertainment guild. The Marin Art and Garden Center is another major interest. She is a member of the board of directors of the Marin Branch of the American Cancer Society.

She is also a member of the Zonta Club of Marin, an organization for executive and professional women.

BUT STRONG as is her interest in her work, in fine music, in the theater, and in worthwhile charitable causes, she admits that there is still plenty of time left over for still another overriding interest—her six grandchildren.

"I guess I'm like every other grandmother," she says. "I think my grandchildren are wonderful."

That's Kitty Oppenheimer. Never the professional social worker she once hoped to become. But a proud and loving grandmother, a well-known and popular radio personality, and a tireless worker on behalf of community cultural and civic causes. A woman who has known tragedy but who has come back to rededicate herself to the lesson that her mother taught her decades ago in San Francisco—that the happy person is the one who serves others.

MARIN MUSIC CHEST is a project dear to the heart of Kitty Oppenheimer. And since 1932 she has turned out the organization's publicity material. Here she is shown at the typewriter in her Ross home, doing just that.

STATION KTIM is proud of the gold medal award it received at the 1960 California State Fair for its "Marin Sounding Board" program. It was judged the best public service program by a non metropolitan radio station. Here KTIM manager Hugh Turner and Kitty Oppenheimer, who presides over the lively panel discussions, pose with the award.

Marin's Pioneers In Mercy

When San Rafael Emergency Corps Aided The Ailing

MISS EDYTHE FOSTER, seated left, co-organizer of the San Rafael Emergency Corps in 1904, tells some present-day hospital volunteers about the work of the emergency corps. With her are Mrs. Leiton J. Elder, standing, and Mrs. Lawrence P. McNear of the San Rafael General Hospital Women's Auxiliary. The auxiliary has made Miss Foster an honorary member in recognition of her many years of volunteer work. (Independent-Journal photo)

One day in 1904, Miss Edythe Foster and Mrs. J. C. Hoover stood at the corner of Fourth and B Streets in San Rafael, just outside the Hoover Candy Store, in friendly conversation.

They were startled when an express wagon passed carrying eight men, painfully injured in an accident at Lake Lagunitas. The men were lying on straw and bleeding badly.

RECALLING the incident recently, Miss Foster, still a San Rafael resident, said, "When we saw that wagon with its injured men, one of us, I don't remember which now, exclaimed, 'It's a disgrace that a city this size has no place to take injured people!' "

They decided to do something about it.

"We called a meeting for one evening after business hours at the Hoover Candy Store," Miss Foster says. "There was a good attendance, including business men and Dr. H. O. Howitt, Dr. William J. Wickman, and Dr. William Farrington Jones. We sat around the ice cream tables."

RESULT OF THE meeting was the San Rafael Emergency Corps, which for the next few years helped meet the need for a place to take Marin County's sick and injured —thanks to Miss Foster and Mrs. Hoover and their humanitarianism. As far as is known this was the earliest volunteer hospital organization in the county.

First business of the corps was to obtain equipment and supplies.

"But we had no money," says Miss Foster, "so we had to make some. There were football games, dances and cake sales to raise funds.

"We collected weekly donations, too, from many residents of San Rafael. Miss Miriam Hall, daughter of the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and I rode around town on our bicycles to collect 25 cents a week at different homes. On many a Sunday I stood at the steps of the churches with my hand out!"

Miss Foster doesn't remember how much money was raised, but the corps shortly had its first headquarters at the West End Sanitarium on Shaver Street. She recalls that one of their first cases was a man who was "nearly scalped."

Records of the corps have been lost, but files of the Marin Journal fill in some of the history of this colorful and hard-working organization.

A headline on Jan. 19, 1905, read: "New Officers Elected for Hospital Corps."

"The San Rafael Emergency Corps met at Hoover's Candy Store Tuesday night." the story related, "and elected officers for the coming year. They were George Page, president; George Boyd, vice pres-

IT WAS 56 YEARS ago when these two women witnessed an incident that caused them to start the ball to rolling from which later developed the San Rafael Emergency Corps. At left Miss Edythe Foster, as she appeared in those days. At right her co-organizer of the corps, Mrs. J. C. Hoover.

ident; Miss Foster, secretary, and Mrs. Hoover, treasurer.

The corps at that time had a membership of 108, according to the Journal story. Among those active in the organization was Senator E. B. Martinelli, father of Judge Jordan L. Martinelli.

The Journal commented, "The Emergency Hospital is now a reality and the sick, poor and injured can there find an immediate shelter."

The following Aug. 3, the Journal reported that an ambulance had been presented to the corps by Mrs. A. W. Foster (no relation to Edythe Foster) and that 16 emergency cases had been taken care of since organization of the corps about a year before.

On Sept. 14, 1905, a news story related that headquarters of the corps had been moved to Fifth and Petaluma (now Lincoln Avenue). This was the original location of Cottage Hospital (now San Rafael General) for which its founders, Drs. Howitt, Wickman and Jones, filed incorporation papers on Sept. 16 of the same year. The hospital moved to its present location at Mission and Nye in 1907.

The horse-drawn ambulance donated by Mrs. Foster made many trips to the hospital. One of these occurred when a young quarryman employed at the California City Rock Co. plant was injured by a heavy blast, according to the Journal files.

Miss Foster remembers that ambulance drivers and attendants were sent to San Francisco to be trained in the handling of patients. One of these young attendants was Mrs. Hoover's son, Frank of San Rafael. He recalls that San Rafael streets were unpaved and that it was quite a job sometimes getting over the rocks on Fourth Street.

The corps functioned for several years; and, when it became inactive, equipment and supplies on hand were given to Cottage Hospital. Miss Foster worked with the corps until 1910, when she left to travel in Europe.

For Miss Foster, work with the Emergency Corps helped to fulfill an ambition. She had always been interested in hospitals and nursing, and wanted to be a doctor or nurse but was prevented by ill health.

Instead, she has spent much of her life working as a volunteer. In addition to helping with the Emergency Corps, she rolled bandages during the Spanish-American War, worked as a volunteer at Stanford Hospital in San Francisco during World War 1, and was active in civilian defense in San Rafael during World War II.

Recognition for her volunteer work came recently from the Women's Auxiliary of San Rafael General Hospital, which made her an honorary member.

THE LARK

A Movie Theater That's Different

The people milling around the lobby, chatting and drinking steaming hot coffee while admiring the lovely paintings on the wall, didn't seem to mind waiting for the "second" show to start.

They were thoroughly enjoying themselves.

"It's like going to a party," said one man to the young lady with him.

"Yes," she agreed. "This certainly is different from any other motion picture theater I have ever been in."

Over at the "coffee bar" people were asking: "How much for a cup of coffee?" And the reply: "There is no charge."

An elderly lady timidly inquired if she might have a cup of tea, since she did not drink coffee. Her request was quickly filled.

This scene takes place every evening at Marin's "art theater," the management of which proudly proclaims it as the only movie of its kind in the entire North Bay Area.

First, it specializes in showing prize-winning films direct from the film festivals of Europe. Drama, comedy, and documentary—they are all included.

This has not always been the policy at The Lark. When the theater was first opened, about 20 years ago, the policy was the same as that of other Marin movie palaces — the showing of made-in-Hollywood films.

ABOUT 11 YEARS ago Blumenfeld Theaters established a new policy for The Lark. The intimate ilttle motion picture house — seating capacity 400—was converted into what is known as an "art theater."

Along with the foreign films, outstanding motion pictures made in this country, such as "Around the World in 80 Days" were shown. Painting and sculpture done by noted California artists living in Marin County were displayed in the lobby.

The art film-art exhibit policy continued in effect for about two years. Then The Lark resumed the showing of Hollywood movies and the art exhibits were discontinued.

After considerable thought and sampling of public opinion, the Blumenfeld organization decided to return to the "art theater" policy at The Lark.

The first two artists to exhibit after this "re-opening" were Erwin Manheim and Ray Strong. Other well-known

California artists who have exhibited at The Lark include George Otis, the late Herman Struck, Othello Michetti, Barbara Carpenter, Gwen Stone, Charles Howard Allen, and Joan Allen Foster.

But the management is careful to stipulate that the majority of films shown at The Lark are for "adults only." This is a general policy with art theaters.

The Lark draws its audiences from throughout the Bay Area — from San Francisco, the Peninsula, Vallejo, Santa Rosa, Oakland, Richmond, etc. And it has, of course, a loyal following throughout Marin.

Patrons of The Lark are invited to suggest films they would like to see. And whenever possible, such suggestions are carried out.

Recently The Lark installed a new screen which offers a brighter and clearer picture. New projection equipment for improved sound has also been installed.

Shirar was assistant manageer of the Warfield Theater in San Francisco before coming to Marin. Here he is assisted by Mrs. Rudy Nelson and Mrs. Dorothy Urquhart in the boxoffice, and by Rudy Nelson as the projectionist.

Rudy and Hazel Nelson have been with Blumenfeld Theaters for 19 years. He began working as the doorman when The Lark first opened. For a time he served as manager at The Gate where he learned to be a motion picture projector operator. And for the past 12 years he has served in that capacity at The Lark.

Hazel, his wife, managed The Lark during World War II and, afterwards, took over the duties of cashier. The Nelsons have four children, two boys and two girls, and live in Heather Gardens.

BUT IT IS a club which is always open for "new memberships."

Manager Shirar invites those interested in quality foreign films who have not yet become acquainted with The Lark to drop him a post card requesting that they be placed on the theater's mailing list which keeps regular patrons informed of upcoming attractions.

Or better yet, just drop in at The Lark one of these evenings and learn for yourself, first hand, just what it is that makes this Larkspur theater one of the most interesting and unusual movie houses on the entire West Coast.

MICHAEL SHIRAR, manager of The Lark, mounts a ladder to assist Arthur Bahr in hanging one of his paintings in the theater lobby. Artist Bahr lives in Murray Park and started studying art when he came to this state in 1949. He is a former pupil of noted California landscape painter Anton Dahl. Five of Bahr's paintings are now on display at the Larkspur theater.

FREE COFFEE, art in the lobby, and all the other innovations haven't replaced this longtime stalwart of the movie theater, the projectionist. Rudy Nelson, who has been with The Lark for 19 years, threads one of the theater's new projection machines. Two such machines were installed recently to give a clearer sound.

Rock Collecting—A Fascinating Hobby

It Appeals To Scores In Marin

By DAVINA KOSH

For centuries mankind has prowled the beaches, the deserts, the prairies, the mountains, in quest of unusual rocks.

But it is only within the past 20 or 25 years years that rock-hunting has become a major and organized activity among hobbyists. And in the past 10 years participation has increased tremendously.

Marin is no exception. With the Marin Mineral Society, founded in January of 1953, as the focus for such activity, scores of Marinites have joined the ranks of the "rock hounds" and now spend their weekends and vacations hunting rare stones. And their evenings polishing their finds.

THESE ROCK hounds include people of all walks of life—the professionals, clerical workers, students, retired people, housewives, business men. There is no age limit—8 to 80, more or less. In fact the hobby has a tendency to encompass the entire family, once one member is "infected" by the bug. Mother, father and all the kids soon become ardent enthusiasts all for the fascinating hobby. And the result is a family that is drawn closer together.

In Marin most but not all such hobbyists are active in the Marin Mineral Society which has a membership 105 strong and which is afiliated with the California Federation of Mineralogical Societies.

The society conducts monthly meetings, open to the public, at which guest experts speak or show kodachrome slides on subjects pertaining to geology, mineralogy and lapidary.

FIELD TRIPS are staged once a month through most of the year, with special overnight camping trips on three-day holiday weekends. These trips have taken the Marin rock hounds to such places as the Mother Lode areas abounding in minerals, crystals and petrified woods; to Clear Creek in San Benito County, famous for its jade; to Willow Creek below Big Sur for Monterey jade; to Fallon, Nev., and its vicinity for copper minerals and for petrified woods.

Closer trips to nearby hunting grounds have included the beaches of San Mateo County for fossil pebbles, Goat Rock at the mouth of the Russian River for pebbles ideal for "tumbling," to Marin's own Bolinas Beach for whale bone and agates, to Loma Alta above Lucas Valley for interesting chert materials, to Napa and adjoining counties for petrified woods, onyx, jaspers, obsidian, and crystals. Quicksilver mines have been visited for cinnabar minerals. And recently the fossil remains of prehistoric animals were hunted near Livermore.

These field trips are family outings, with the rock hounds taking their "pebble puppies" along. Disciplinary problems rarely develop with the youngsters. They are too busy with the fun and education involved. And they soon learn that the rock hammer is a tool to be used judiciously and with caution. And that rocks are interesting objects to be brought home and studied, not thrown at each other.

They learn that a "find" by one member is a cooperative experience to be shared by all among the group. Society officers note proudly that there is probably more "giving away" or sharing in their hobby than in any other. The adults are particularly eager to share their rocks with a youngster when they feel that their generosity will serve to start that boy or girl on a collection of his own. This in turn can easily point them toward future careers as mineralogists or geologists, or at least a lifetime interest in a satisfying, challenging and healthful hobby.

TECHNICALLY, the term "rock hound" is applicable only to the amateur interested in the vast field of geology and kindred studies. Not included is the accredited and professional geologist or mineralogist. He, too, goes into the field to collect rocks for study. But to him, usually it is a job, not a hobby. There are, however, cases of professionals who also look to rocks for their leisure-time interest and thus qualify as rock hounds as well as geologists.

This is not to say that the amateur rock hound is untutored in his subject. Many of them have studied geology courses. And occasionally a rock hound will continue that learning and his collections to a point that commands the respect of even our most eminent scientists.

As in many other hobbies, each rock hound has his own individual reasons for taking up this interest. Perhaps a friend who collects enticed him into the field. Or perhaps he remembered the rocks he had picked up years ago as a boy and hoarded in a shoebox. Or perhaps he saw a case of minerals on display at the Marin Art and Garden Fair and was fascinated by them.

Or perhaps he had secretly nursed since boyhood a desire to know more about rocks and other aspects of geology.

The beginner will often, particularly if he resides in Marin, take night courses in geology to better fit him to follow the terminology he hears at the mineral society meetings.

He may then, as has been the case with at least two members of the Marin Mineral Society, Leo Rosenhahn and Robert Phillips, both of San Anselmo, specialize entirely in the study of mineralogy, devoting all field trips and activities to mineral and crystal specimens, and furthering his knowledge by taking a night course at the College of Marin headed by Willis Pelletier.

NOR ARE MEN alone in having attained the status of high ranking amateurs in the field of mineralogy. For instance Mrs. Herbert Phillips of Mill Valley is well known in this field.

Another member may specialize in collecting petrified woods, or, as has occurred in some cases, even further specialize within this field and concentrate upon such woods from a specific period of prehistory. Ultimately this too can lead to academic study, to identification, and thus an amateur paleobotanist is born. Albert F. Kosh of San Rafael, one of the founders of the Marin society and a past president, has enjoyed this experience.

Through a method of thin-slicing, gluing to glass slides, projecting onto a screen, and studying cell structure, he has been able to identify for himself many of the petrified woods he has collected. He has lectured and shown his beautiful slides to many Bay Area societies as well as to the Marin group.

The identification of petrified woods is in itself a specialized study within the larger field of paleobotany. Many collect fern and other botanical fossils instead.

Paleontology, on the other hand, covers the vast and seemingly endless area of mammal fossils which also has a fascination for many a rock hound.

Collecting Indian artifacts is still another specialized interest within the general scope of the rock hobbyists.

But for the most part the rock hound will devote himself more generally to the collecting of rocks and minerals, and the ultimate cutting and polishing of those rocks which is known as lapidary. Because of this latter interest, College of Marin began developing both day and night classes in lapidary around 1954. Many Marin Mineral Society members have attended or are now attending. And most ultimately acquire their own lapidary equipment and set up their workshop in a garage, the basement, a kitchen nook or some other convenient place around the home. Some boast entire hobby rooms filled with their machinery for cutting, grinding and polishing rocks.

From lapidary emerges the art of jewelry-making. And it is to this end that most society members utilize their College of Marin courses. Many a Marinite has set aside a small area around his home where blow torches, etc., can safely be used in the making of jewelry.

The collecting of rocks has led to a new development called the "tumbler." And just about every mineral society member these days seems interested in a tumbling machine to polish the small rocks picked up on the beach and elsewhere.

THE ART OF mosaics is enjoying a revival today. And many a rock hound sooner or later will use certain materials he has collected in a mosaic table or wall placque, or a piece for the garden.

We have not yet even begun to exhaust the many branches and offshoots of rock collecting.

Still unmentioned are such specialists as those who collect only crystal or crystal formations, or, even within this field, those who collect only quartz crystals. Others might go in for copper or iron mineral formations only.

Many rock hounds have vast collections of geodes, which technically are formations within nodules of rocks. Some will be filled with sparkling crystals, others with "pictures" of beautifully formed rock. Very often these formations within the rock are used with stunning effect in jewelry-making. Other times, they are cut and polished only, and become rare treasures in abstract or realistic works of art.

IN THE JADE field alone there are enough variations to fill a lifetime of collecting—not only in the rough material, but the extension of this found in collecting antique jade carvings, etc.

Henry Reinicke of Mill Valley is an interesting example of the development of an amateur into the "professional knowledge" class. With his late wife, Carol, he was a long-time member of the San Francisco Gem and Mineral Society, and through the years he has specialized in jade. He has devoted much time and labor to the formation of the famous jade clock put together by the San Francisco society and which will ultimately be housed at the Academy of Science.

Reinicke, also a photographer of note, helped to form the Marin Mineral Society. And he has continued to work closely with both the Marin and S.F. units. He has also, along with Edward Johanson, conducted lapidary classes at the College of Marin.

Milo Bird, a past president, and his wife, Ruth, have both stressed the furthering of interest in rock hounding and geology among youth of the county. They have led groups of young people—Boy Scouts, etc.—on field trips. Bird, a recently retired Standard Oil engineer, was born at Angels Camp and was at one time a gold assayist. He has often lectured before the society on the technical aspects of mineralogy, glass-making, and Mother Lode history.

Then there are those who have worked closely with the Junior Museum of Marin. A partial list includes Bruce Barron and Malden (Pete) Lowman, both of San Rafael and both past presidents of the society. They have assisted in setting up temporary cases to display the collections of junior members of the society at the museum. The museum's initial rock collection consisted of donations from the Marin Mineral Society.

THE PRESENT leadership of the Marin society is headed by Ambrose Canziani of San Rafael, president, whose lapidary workshop was recently featured in the Marin Magazine. Edward Hindley of Kentfield is vice president, Erwin C. Paine Jr. of San Anselmo the treasurer, Mrs. Richard Holland of San Rafael the recording secretary, and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hawkins of San Rafael the corresponding secretary.

Directors of the Marin society are Charles M. Geller of San Anselmo, Wendell R. Arnold of San Rafael, John Schuck of Larkspur, Henry Reinecke of Mill Valley, Joseph Walker of San Anselmo, Earl E. Thompson of Mill Valley and Leo Rosenhahn of San Anselmo.

This has been only a partial list of the men and women who make up the membership of the Marin Mineral Society. But they are typical of these ardent hobbyists. Mention should certainly be made of four honorary members. They are Stephen C. Bruff of Novato, geologist at the College of Marin; Willis Pelletier of Mill Valley, teacher of mineralogy at the college's night school; Salem J. Rice of Mill Valley, geologist with the California State Bureau of Mines, and Dr. William B. Sanborn of San Francisco, formerly of Greenbrae, in charge of audio-visual education in San Francisco public schools.

It is all the more unusual that Marin should be such a hotbed of rock hound activity in view of the fact that the county is not generally considered to be a wealthy "mineral" area. With the exception of gravels, some quicksilver, and in past years, copper, Marin does not abound in unusual minerals.

HOWEVER, since 1937 when 36 known rocks and minerals were listed in this county, that roster has grown to a total of 96. True, some of those discovered were found only in traces. But a number of these discoveries must be attributed to the amateur rock hounds and their mentors.

For instance, back in 1958 the Smithsonian Institute of Washington D.C. accepted as a gift a choice slab of Marin green chert (laced with transparent carnelian) that Frank S. Rodgers of Tiburon, a diligent rock hound, had found. Smithsonian acceptance is a cause for considerable excitement in amateur mineralogy circles. For collectors, that is "the ultimate."

Marin has also gained some fame in mineral circles for the whale bone pebbles which are constantly being tossed back onto the beach by the ocean at Drake's Bay and Bolinas Beach. The source of these fossils is the cliffs of Drake's Bay where, during the Miocene some 10 or 20 million years ago, multitudes of whales or whale-like animals were buried strangely within a concentrated area.

Some beautiful yellow jaspers are found at Fort Baker and along the whole ocean shoreline. Fort Cronkhite is the source of minute carnelian pebbles, utilized chiefly by the mosaic artists and jewelry-makers. Many quartz crystals are found throughout the county. And there is a working quicksilver mine in the Chileno Valley.

THE TIBURON Peninsula is unique in its concentration of minerals. There one finds Dolomite, Olivine, Epidote, Actinilite, Albite, Hornblende, Garnet, Limonite, Lawsonite, etc. The original discovery of Lawsonite was made at Tiburon in 1895 by F. L. Ransome and named in honor of a Professor Lawson of the University of California.

Some years ago copper was mined on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais, and the old-time rock collectors still talk of asbestos deposits on the site of the present military installation near the top of the mountain.

Green cherts, too-often called jade by the unknowing, turn up in the county.

And some excellent blue jade has been discovered in a moderate sized deposit on the Vonson property near the Marin-Sonoma county line.

Still, in all truth, Marin is not a rich source of finds for the rock hounds. And it is their out-of-county field trips which provide them with their handsomest and most valued specimens.

If the Marinites must travel beyond their county for their finest hunting, they can nevertheless stay right at home for some of their biggest annual events. Annually the Marin Mineral Society holds a mineral show in conjunction with the Marin Art and Garden Fair. And while they attend a number of shows staged by other societies in other parts of the country, it is their own show which each year commands the biggest part of their own time and interest. Members of the Marin society have high hope that in the not too future they will be conducting an independent show in which leading California dealers can be included .

Another major annual event on the calendar of the Marin society is the picnic held each year on an August Sunday at the Bolinas Community Clubhouse. That big event is a combined field trip-outing-monthly meeting and social affair.

This year the Marinites had as their guests some 100 members of the Berkeley Gem and Mineral Society.

The very active Geller usually serves as picnic chairman. And the program includes a unique silent auction of rocks, minerals, and fossils, the sale of grab bags, and the operation of swap tables. Proceeds go into a building fund, for it is the dream of society members that they will some day have a building including a well-equipped lapidary shop available for all members.

It's all part of the wonderful world of rock collecting—a fascinating hobby that offers utility and beauty, therapy and education, relaxation and inspiration to its dedicated followers.

"Are Imported Fabrics Safe for Making Dresses?"

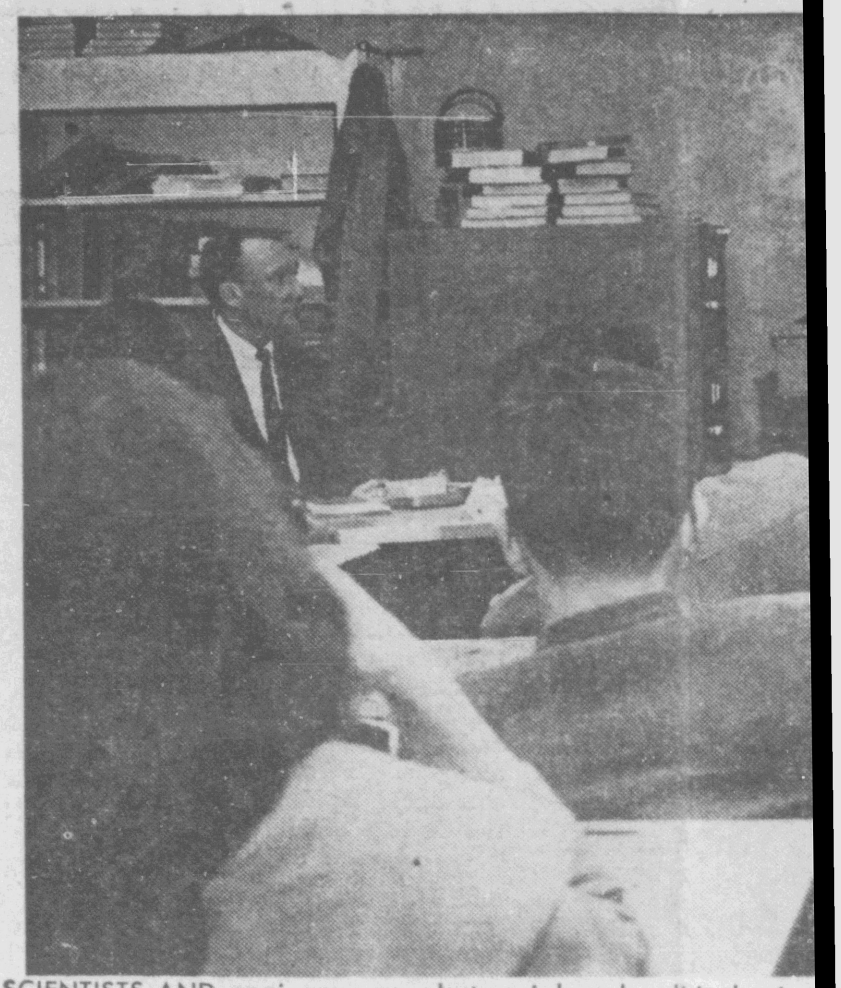
Some of the imported fabrics that are so popular now have the seeds of sorrow buried in them. They are luxurious in texture and fascinating in color and pattern . . . but! In many cases the colors are not fast. They "bleed" or "run" even when carefully dry cleaned. Other imported fabrics are not pre-shrunk and when made into a dress, the first washing or cleaning is the last.

Standards for fabrics in many foreign countries are not up to those of American manufacturers. However, that does not mean you cannot use foreign fabrics in the dress you want to make.

Test a small swatch of the material for water-fastness or ask your dry cleaner to test it. He'll test it with dry-cleaning solvent, too. And if the fabric has not been pre-shrunk, your dry cleaner can do that for you. Then you can go ahead and make a dress just as you wanted.

Remember, your professional dry cleaner is a skilled, trained fabric maintenance man. He'll be glad to help you if you call on him.

THE EDUCATORS responsible for the Tamalpais High School District curriculum agree that science cannot be neglected in a strong technological society such as ours. Such instruction is important, they say, both for the student who is college bound and for the student whose formal education will end with high school.



SCIENTISTS AND engineers, yes; but social and political scien too, say today's high school educators. They claim that actually

THE HOMEMAKING SKILLS are important to all girls, whether they be planning to attend college or not. But it is particularly vital for these girls who are going immediately into the home. Good homemaking is an aspect of good citizenship, too, Tamalpais High School District officials state.

American E
Time To T·

Taking stock of American education is becoming another national movement. A good time to take such stock is during American Education Week which opens tomorrow and continues through next week.

Some interested citizens in Marin County, for example, are not only actively taking stock, but are also trying to get other people interested in the inventory. A series of 40 coffee klatches has been organized so that specific education topics can be discussed by representatives of the Mill Valley schools and the Tamalpais Union High School District.

One of the most discussed aspects of American education is the comprehensive high school. Dr. James B. Conant, former Harvard president, has stated that the MATHEMATICS is no longer a subject for men only. The need for capabilities in math is growing in many, many directions. And so more and more girls are enrolling along with the boys in algebra, geometry, trig, calculus, etc. Tamalpais District educators say the opportunities for study in this vital field have been broadened, not restricted.

THE TRADES and crafts remain important in our mechanized society. Not as important, perhaps, as in an artisan society. But nevertheless, still important and worthy of the schools' attention and time.

What is the "comprehensive high school?" Superintendent Chester G. Carlisle of the Tam District insists that it is not just another piece of incomprehensible jargon. It is, he says, literally just what the word says.

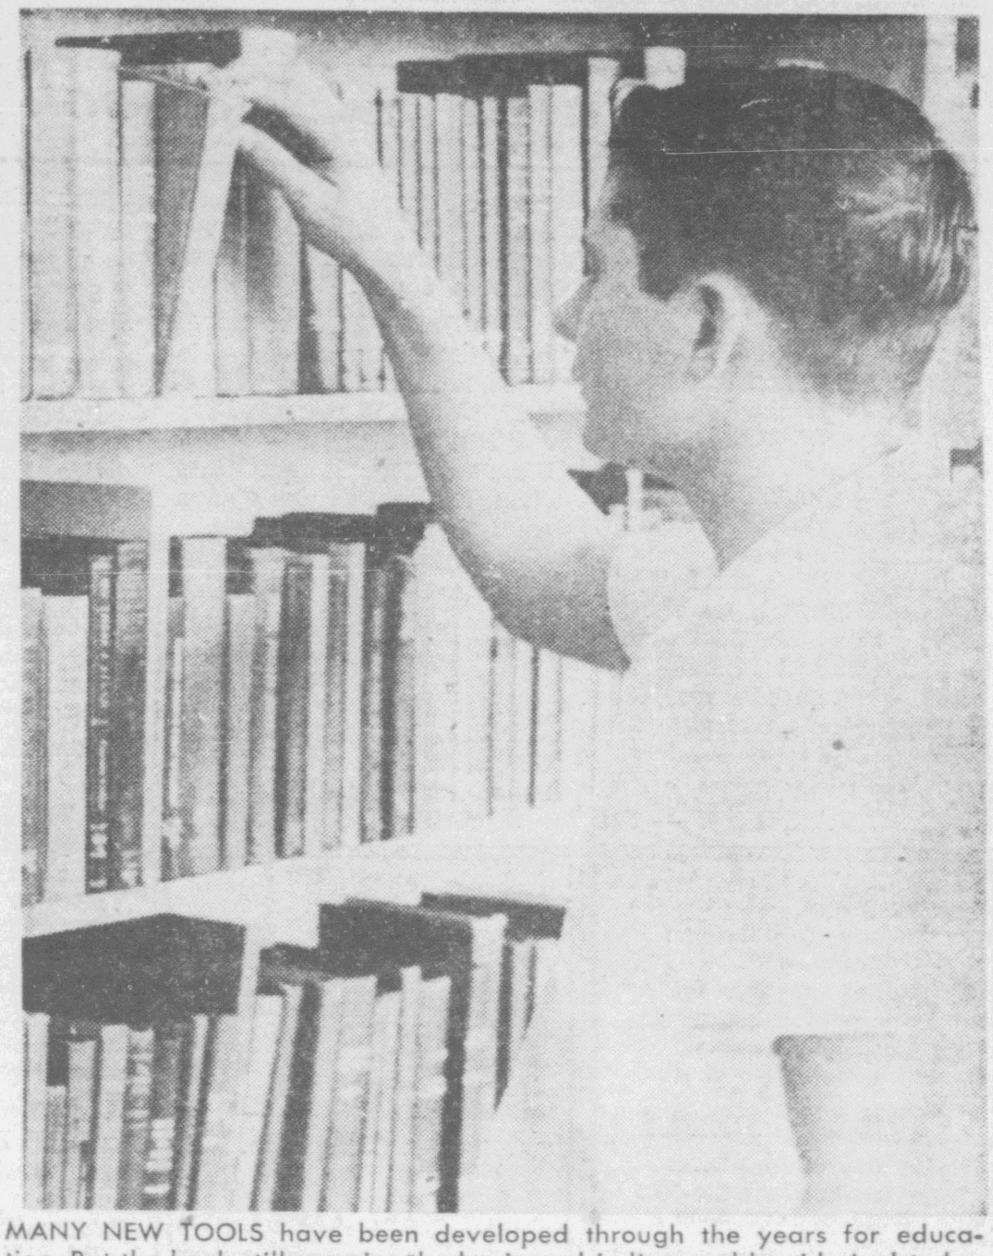
In keeping with the tenets of American democracy, the comprehensive high school attempts to make available educational opportunity to all children, he explains. The traditional academic program is only one phase of the modern high school.

The Tam District is Marin's largest high school district, covering Tamalpais High in Mill Valley, Drake High in San Anselmo and Redwood High in Larkspur.

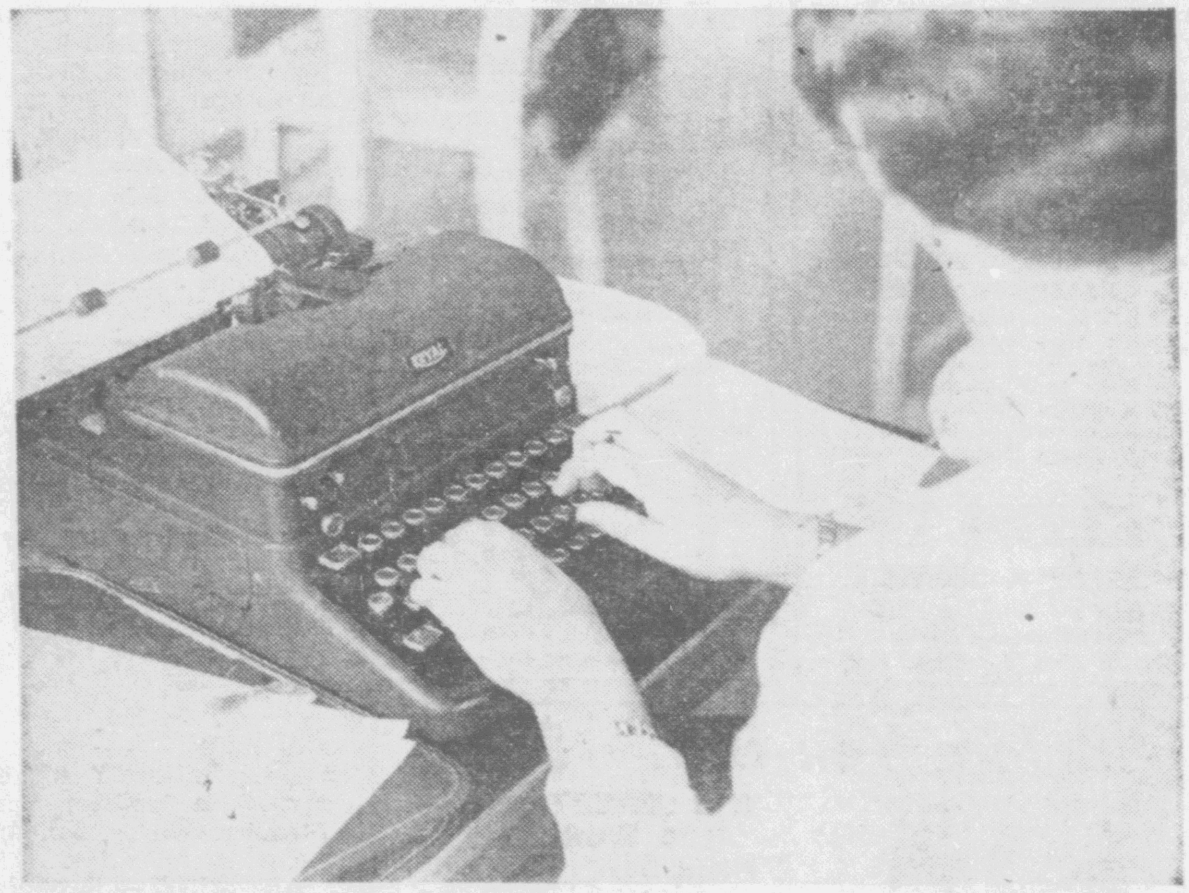
While the majority of the Tam District students, by virtue of socio-economic conditions, are college preparatory pupils, the schools are nevertheless comprehensive to the extent of demands and funds available, the superintendent notes.

Carlisle believes an understanding of the American high school leads to an understanding of American education in general and to American democracy.

Pictures on these pages indicate the variety of offerings in a comprehensive high school—the kind maintained in the Tam District, and should serve as a reminder that American Education Week is a good time to take stock of this and other aspects of the American school system.

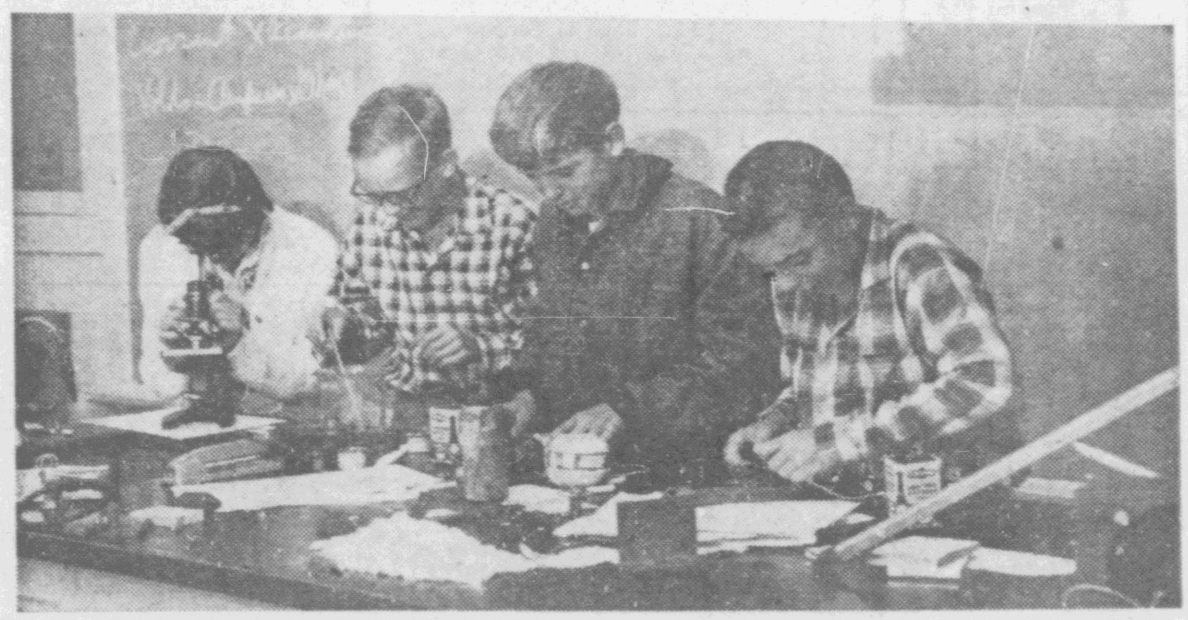


MANY NEW TOOLS have been developed through the years for education. But the book still remains the basic and indispensable aid. And today it plays the same vital role in the educating of our teen-agers that it played decades ago. Other tools just serve to supplement — not replace — the book.



LEARNING TO TYPE is practically an essential, especially for the girl student. She will use it for earning money, for getting through college, or just for everyday business. Boys, too, find typing a most helpful skill.

THE EXCITEMENT of the language, the adventures with words, the finding something on your own. These are every day aspects of a high school student's life. And the dictionary is an always reliable tool.



ELECTRONICS, baffling to most of us, is a field which excites young curiosity. Furthermore, it is a field which is becoming more and more a part of our everyday life.

Time Has Softened Presidential Year Discussions Of Politics

WE DON'T KNOW whether its the change in geography or the passing of time, but the pre-election atmosphere isn't at all like it was back in our younger days in Kansas.

There may be as much interest as ever in the contest for the nation's highest office. But that interest seems more general, less intense, less partisan.

By now just about everyone has his favorite. But just about everyone also has some misgivings about the candidate he has selected. And just about everyone finds some good things to say about the candidate he is going to vote against.

It didn't used to be that way—at least not back in the Midwest we knew.

You were for one candidate wholeheartedly, without reservation. And you were against the other man with the same total commitment.

And the weeks immediately before a presidential election were a period of chaos in which longtime friendships were disrupted by heated political disagreements on the streets, in the stores, in the pool halls which were the "social centers" for the male residents of Kansas towns of the time, and in the homes. Old acquaintances exchanged hot words and parted — and did not speak to each other again until weeks after the balloting when tempers had had time to simmer down.

It is interesting that in those days the contests for local and state offices or even for seats in Congress caused no such depth of feeling. The really hot arguments — occasionally blows—were triggered by the "discussions" of the respective merits of the presidential aspirants.

Today, we are certain, there are still those who take their politics seriously enough to let them intrude upon personal friendships. But they are far fewer.

It is significant that here in Marin the hottest arguments right now swirl, not around the respective merits of John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, but around whether the community water supply should be fluoridated.

Perhaps the reason for the fiercer loyalty which the presidential candidates of three or four decades back received from their followers could be found in the personalities of the candidates themselves.

Certainly in our small Kansas town of the 1930s there was no middle ground on FDR. A controversial figure everywhere, he was all the more so there.

One faction, generally the wheat farmers, shopkeepers, professional men, etc., hated him with an intensity that sometimes bordered on fanaticism. Roosevelt backers, largely from the ranks of the wage-earners and from the beneficiaries of New Deal welfare programs, were just as vehement in their support.

And so every election in which FDR carried the Democratic banner split the town into two bitterly warring factions.

We seem to remember that feelings were only a little less vehement in the Herbert Hoover-Al Smith race of 1928.

As we said, we don't know whether it is the passing of provincialism or the presence of less commanding and less controversial candidates that has softened political discussion. Perhaps it is a little of both. But regardless of the reason, we're just as glad the election year splits are no longer so wide and deep. Americans must and should have their political differences. But in the world of today they cannot afford the gaping political wounds and sores of yesteryear.

A Different View Of Water And Where We Can Get More

NEW WATER FOR A THIRSTY WORLD by Michael H. Salzman with foreword by Aldous Huxley, Science Foundation Press, 211 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Dick Steinheimer.

California author Michael H. Salzman fires every torpedo, shoots every shell and drops every depth charge in this powerful attack on conventional scientific practices in water supply development.

"New Water for a Thirsty World," with a foreword by Aldous Huxley, is a scholarly but readable challenge to men of science and engineering throughout the world to dare to accept the possibility that major basic supplies of water exist other than those derived from rainfall.

The book is part and parcel the investigation done by two scientists half a century apart in locating supplies of water within the earth's apparently unrelated to the rain-to-evaporation-to-rain cycle, upon which virtually all present water procurement endeavors hinge.

The earliest scientist who learned to search for "primary" or "natural" water was A. E. Nordenskiold of Sweden who in 1896 presented a paper on drilling for water in primary rocks. For his work he was to be nominated for the first Nobel Prize in Physics, but he died before the winner was named.

Exhibit two in Salzman's case is contemporary scientist Stephan Riess of California whose successes in finding water supplies in seemingly impossible sites has brought him international notice.

Briefly Salzman contends that vast quantities of water are being manufactured constantly within the crust of the earth by known chemical and physical forces, and that this "new" water is waiting only to be tapped in many parts of the world by engineers not so hidebound as to refuse to consider its existence.

ONLY IN SAN FRANCISCO by Herb Caen, Doubleday and Co., 275 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

No doubt the reason columnist Herb Caen writes so wittily and yet at the same time so movingly about his beloved San Francisco is that his affection for that city and its people is deep and sincere. There is nothing phony about the attachment.

We have always regarded him as one of the very best of the big city columnists. And we've enjoyed his books because they are, after all, largely collections of material gleaned from his better columns.

This new book, just out, is not quite our favorite Caen book. But that is hardly a knock. For while there do appear to be some parts that do not seem representative of Mr. San Francisco at his best, —generally those parts where he strays from his home base —it still remains undeniably a most entertaining book certain to afford great enjoyment to anyone who shares Caen's fascination with his favorite city. Marinites will take an added interest in their reading because of the frequent references made to places and personalities of our county.

Within the more or less continuing controversy over "modern" methods of education, the name most often praised and damned is that of John Dewey. Dewey is often bitterly attacked by those who blames him for every real fault or supposed fault of today's schools from psychological testing to basket weaving courses.

As with many great and original thinkers, Dewey suffers from his blind adherents and misinterpreters. His best defense is his own words. In this book, editor Ralph Winn has culled the pith from Dewey's works to bring out the meat of his arguments, the base on which his philosophy is laid.

Though this is not a new book, its continuing usefulness to scholars, teachers and those interested in education and philosophy keeps it fresh. Dewey, one of America's only native major philosophers and the "father" of modern education, deserves a hearing in his own words. One of the earliest to discover the importance of communications in human relations, Dewey gives new insights to both reader and writer.

Easy reading and conveniently cross indexed, this handy volume might be described as a sort of Dewey concordance. It is especially appropriate reading for American Education Week coming up next week.

"The Sandley Story" is the somewhat too personal tale of father and son railroaders who made good their ambition of owning and operating a small steam railroad line.

The author gives background and description of the 15-inch gage Riverside and Great Northern Railway built by Norman and Elmer Sandley at Wisconsin Dells Wis., for summer tourist operation.

Support for the book comes in the foreword by Sausalito author Frederic (Cap) Shaw who sees in the two-mile line the apotheosis of miniature livesteam railroading in the United States.

Recommendation: Good guide to the pitfalls and pleasures of miniature railroad building for those readers so brave (or foolish) as to contemplate the likes.

Marais and Miranda are internationally known for their African veldt songs. But their repertoire is much wider. And in this book they have included both words and music, with arrangements written especially for guitar accompaniment, of songs from a number of lands. Such African veldt songs as "Henrietta's Wedding" and "Pa Says, Ma Says" predominate, however.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Horses—A Subject Certain To Fascinate Youngsters

THE STORY OF HORSES by Dorothy Shuttlesworth, Garden City Books, 54 pages.

Doubleday and Company's Garden City division seems to have the knack of turning out books which are both entertaining and educational for the young readers. Certainly this one rings the bell in both respects.

The illustrations alone, beautifully done by Matthew Kalmenoff, are enough to insure a very delighted youngster.

There are horses of all kinds, from Shetland ponies to proud Arabians. After enjoying these colored pictures, the youngster will have no trouble in the future identifying horses as to breed.

The text, too, shows an expert's touch.

Miss Shuttleworth is most careful not to write down to her young readers. Yet her commentary is clear and easily understood.

She covers briefly the history of the horse from its prehistoric ancestors to the present. She discusses the features of these fine and handsome animals. She differentiates between the breeds. And she gives a great deal of other information which will fascinate the youngster, and also enlighten him.

"Horses have always been a keen interest of just about every American boy and girl. This book will help to satisfy their curiosity and also assist in installing a greater appreciation of our four-footed friends among the juvenile readers fortunate enough to receive and read it.

Strongly recommended.

STEREO NOTES

A Mahler Cantata: Mournful, Grimm

Editor's Note: Reviews of current recordings—especially the classics and jazz—as done by John Sunier, young stereo specialist and writer residing in Sausalito, will appear frequently in the "arts and entertainment" section of your Marin Magazine in the future.

By JOHN SUNIER

GUSTAV MAHLER: DAS KLAGENDE LIED — Vanguard VSD-2044 — In this Mahler year, not enough effort is being made to bring his music before the record-buying public in new stereo releases. Let us hope that some Mahler works that simply cry for stereophony, such as the Third Symphony, will be seen before the year is out.

However, here is an excellent performance of a lesser-known Mahler cantata, "The Lamenting Song," conducted by the son of Gustav's first cousin, Fritz Mahler. The soloists are Margaret Hoswell, soprano; Lili Chookasian, contralto; and Rudolf Petrak, tenor; with the Hartford Symphony Chorale and Orchestra. Miss Hoswell has appeared in leading roles with the San Francisco Opera.

Mahler used a tale by Grimm to write a ballad text in folk style for the cantata. An older brother treacherously kills a younger, who has won the hand of a queen, and takes the queen as his own wife. Then a shepherd finds a hollow bone and carves it into a flute, which turns out to be the dead man's and magically recounts the story of the tragic killing.

Published and performed at the turn of the century, the work is in two parts, the second almost operatic in conception. The over-all mood of the cantata is mournful and Grimm.

Vanguard's stereo spreads the orchestra out in depth, with the soloists some distance from the microphones but understandable if you are following the libretto.

SHELLY MANN AND HIS MEN AT THE BLACK HAWK, VOL. 2—Contemporary S7578—is the second of four volumes recorded "live" at San Francisco's jazz headquarters during September of 1959.

The rest of the group, in addition to Shelly's drums, consists of Joe Gordon, trumpet; Richie Kamuca, tenor sax; Victor Feldman, piano; and Monty Budwig, bass.

The live continuity is strengthened by typical tuning-up and moving-around sounds between numbers, and by Shelly's announcement at the end of the final number on the stereodisc, "We're just taking a short intermission now." Presumably you have to get all four records unless you want to be left with an oddly unfinished feeling.

The solo playing of both Gordon and Kamuca is very good, although conventional. When Shelly formed this new group, it was with the thought of allowing the players much more free blowing with no limit except their own capacity to improvise. This is shown by the length of the tracks—only two to one side — and Charlie Mariano's "Vamp's Blues" taking up the entire second side for 20 minutes.

Shelly has won more popularity and musician's polls than any other drummer. He enjoys introducing a lot of extended original jazz compositions by other people. As a musical drummer, he shares with Chico Hamilton a distaste for "Fourth-of-July" drum solos, preferring to add texture to the band and give the horns support.

The stereo sound gives the session a real "in-person" feeling, including the distraction of an off-stage right telephone. The Black Hawk audience is surprisingly quiet.

JEANETTE MILLER
First story sells

Young Drake Grad Sells Short Story

A 1959 graduate of Drake High has sold a short story, the first she ever submitted for publication, to Seventeen magazine, according to word received by teacher Albert (Cappy) Lavin at Drake.

Jeanette Miller, 18, a sophomore at San Francisco State College, received $300 for a story, "A Brother, a Beach and a Baby," based on an incident which happened at a Marin County beach.

Her mother, Mrs. John W. Miller, of 36 Hawthorne Street, San Anselmo, said the editors of Seventeen urged Jeanette to write additional material for their magazine.

Currently a sophomore at San Francisco State College, where she is majoring in creative writing, Jeanette studied her first year of college at College of Marin. At Drake she was a member of the Jolly Roger newspaper staff, specializing in feature stories. She also wrote for Insight, Drake's literary magazine.

Exact publication date has not yet been announced, her mother said.

Marinite's Photographs Receive Recognition In Eastern Salons

By JOYCE HOLMSTAD

The two photographs extended that recognition are "Norwegian Daybreak" and "Vatican Priest," and are the work of Brooks Dutt of 530 Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax.

Dutt is a history teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

He took the pictures while he and his wife were on a two-months tour of Europe this past summer.

Dutt has been seriously interested in photography for the past seven years. He is a member of the Ross Valley Camera Club and the Photographic Society of America.

Weaver's Skills On Exhibit

These are proud times for one group of Marin craftsmen.

The county has a strong representation in the Contemporary Handweavers of California exhibition of textiles currently under way at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco.

A portion of the seventh annual exhibition is devoted to 13 interiors put together by decorators and architects especially selected by the participating weavers. The interiors naturally stress the use of handwoven fabrics.

MARIN'S Florence Huber, of Kentfield, is responsible for a little girl's room and patio that has already won much favorable comment. (See photo on this page). She has made clever use of the garden patio so as to give the adjoining child's room a more spacious effect.

Says the Marin designer of her display: "I have endeavored to stress my philosophy that decorating is the creating of backgrounds for people and that the room must function to serve the needs of those using it.

"This room would be used both for quiet study and for a child's playtime. A bulletin board shows to advantage current activities and interests, and there is storage for the hobby of the moment. The wall treatment of Suma Weave which is a straw woven with linen is most practical—pins don't show, it cleans easily, and is both insulation and soundproofing. Colors, which range from a brassy yellow to a bright orange, would suit the average sub-teen-ager. Textures are rather rough, to lend interest to an otherwise very simple room."

ONE OF THE best-known names among Boy Area weavers, Mrs. Kamma Zethraus of Kentfield, did the rug, floor cushion and tapestry for the little girl's room.

Her interest in weaving dates back to 1923 when she became a close friend of Valborg Gravender, an authority in the field who later started a weaving school in San Francisco. And it was there Mrs. Zethraus received her first instruction in weaving.

Mrs. Zethraus organized the Red Cross weaving program for Hamilton Field during World War II, and her skill at the craft has won her a number of the nation's biggest awards in the craft.

A second Marin weaver who has contributed to one of the decorator interiors is Rosalind Ray Watkins of San Anselmo. She is responsible for a rug used in a ski cabin room designed by Campbell and Wong.

Like Mrs. Zethraus, Mrs. Watkins has had training in Sweden as well as in the U.S. She has been an interior designer herself, as well as a teacher of design and weaving. And it was while attending the Institute of Design in Chicago in 1940 that she first became interested in weaving, part of the school's curriculum.

THIS ROOM FOR a small girl was designed by Florence Huber of Kentfield and is one of 13 interiors stressing handwoven fabrics included in the current Contemporary Weavers of California exhibition at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco. The room is planned both for the child's playtime and study periods. A bulletin board and hobby storage space are among the features. Wall treatment of Suma Weave, straw woven with linen, serves both to insulate and to soundproof and is easily cleaned. Colors range from brassy yellow to bright orange, pleasing to the average sub-teen-ager. Textures are rough to lend interest to an otherwise simple room.

Right now she is concentrating on rug design as an expression of a general interest "in the creative approach to the crafts, but with emphasis upon quality as well as the artistic."

Another section of the exhibition, housed in a separate gallery of the De Young Museum, consists of a display of juried materials. Marinites represented there are Mrs. Myra Falch of Corte Madera and Mrs. Beatrice Bernardi of Sausalito.

Marin residents have through Dec. 4 to visit the museum and see the work of their talented fellow Marinites and of other handweavers and designers from throughout the Bay Area.

SOME OF THE other special attractions include the use of a screen for which jute has been interwoven with aluminum wire to provide a weatherproof patio embellishment in rich colors, and a revival of the ancient Egyptian craft of combining embroidery and weaving techniques as seen in the seven-panel screen used in a tea room setting.

All in all, 45 members of the Contemporary Handweavers of California are included in the show.

Those visiting the exhibition are bound to come away with the feeling that the weaver is as much an artist as a craftsman. And with increased appreciation of the great talent of Marin's fine weavers and of the beauty of their products.

Landscapers Work Their Magic

THIS INVITING front entrance way leads to the garden of the V. P. Trembley home at Belvedere. The entrance screen and gate are of bleached redwood. Plantings include creeping strawberry, Mexican mock orange and day lilies.

AN INTERESTING change in texture has been achieved at the Tembley home at 8 Tamalpais Circle, Belvedere, with this concrete retaining wall combined with exposed aggregate concrete steps. Eckbo, Dean and Williams were the landscape architects, and Cagwin and Dorward the landscape contractors.

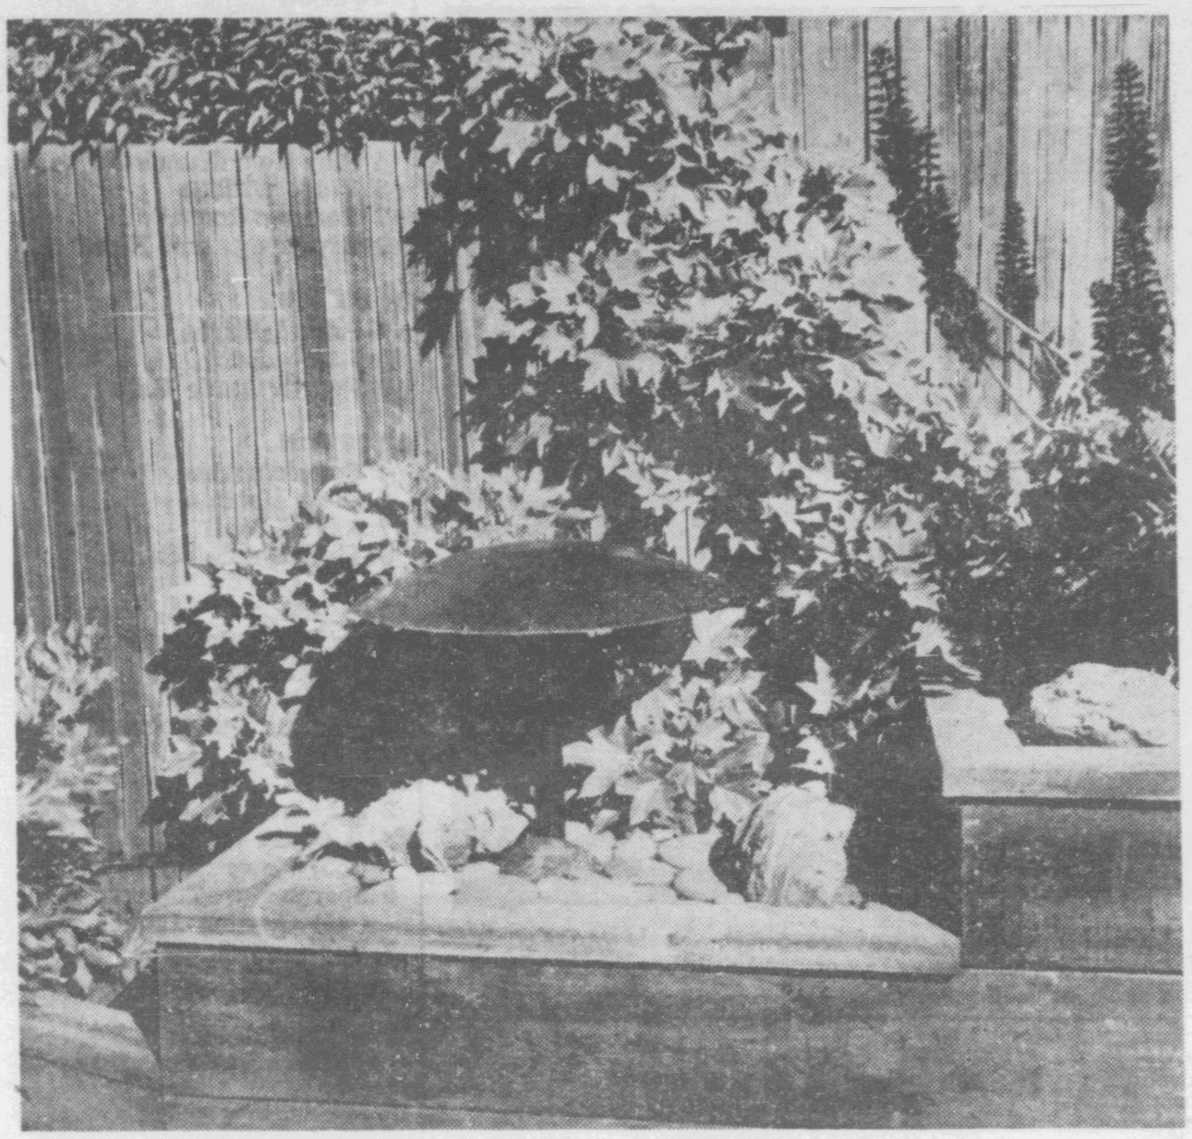
Marin Living



FOR BACKYARD CHARM, stepped planters of two-by-12 inch redwood may be decorated as shown here with riverwashed oriental rock and driftwood. To give the setting life, fatshedera and melianthus major vines background the spiked flowers, all growing from the planters. This design and construction by Claire and Scott Tilden, San Rafael landscape architects.

Daffodils—Symbols And Spirit Of Spring

If any one plant were to be termed the symbol of spring, it would have to be the Daffodil.

This showy bulb in its myriad forms and colors is a tradition with gardeners around the world for its vernal show. Daffodils fairly shout for joy when spring arrives, and to most of us their mood is contagious.

It's not enough to plant a mere handful of daffodils in the garden. Even the smallest garden can hold them by the dozen and the infinite variety of the different members of the family eliminates any chance of getting an overdose of one thing. Not that you really could. And Daffodils are a good permanent investment, too, since they naturalize readily.

No single nurseryman could stock all of the different varieties of daffodils grown. Most nurserymen have selected what they consider the very best of the named varieties and if you plant these, you'll find that there's good reason for the choice.

King Alfred, the giant trumpet Daffodil, is far and away the people's choice, not only here in California, but almost everywhere else as well. You should use it more freely than the others, but certainly not to the exclusion of lesser lights in the King's court. Don't overlook the likes of Mrs. R. O. Backhouse with its now well-known pink trumpet, or Twink withi ts full double center of yellow flecked with orange. Sunshine is a striking variety, orange-cupped and backed by a halo of white. You'll find plenty more, all worth planting.

And in planting, don't make the mistake of some beginning gardeners who try to spread a few bulbs too thinly. Clump the different daffodils in groups of one variety and stagger the clumps throughout the border. If you do line them up, as along a walk, plant them thickly enough to present a solid front.

Nurserymen strongly recommend working bone meal into the ground beneath each bulb. Be sure that the fertilizer is not in direct contact with the bulb, however. You can overdo a good thing when it comes to that.

Check Now On Available Perennials

If you would give perennials a really good start in life, plant them now and let them winter over in beds where they are to grow. Come spring, they will be well established and ready to push out with a vigor that outstrips any of their kind not planted until after the rains.

You'll notice this difference with most of your perennial favorites and especially with those offered in flats this month by your local nurseryman. So drop in on him before the season advances further and see what's available.

If you are like other gardeners in your likes, the perennial you will be most attracted to is the gorgeous Delphinium. Seedlings set out this fall will produce two crops of blooms next year on spikes that seem ever to be growing taller and more profuse with color.

Primrose seedlings planted now will develop into those lovely little clumps of color that highlight border plantings and edgings. As with Delphinium, the Primrose has grown more bountiful with the passing years. It has been a favorite with California hybridists and their modern strains leave little room for further improvement.

To a man who has only the common parkway strain, the modern hybrid Gazanias come as a pleasant surprise. Mounding clumps to one foot high and big showy flowers of orange to red are the reward of gardeners who grow them.

Perennial Scabiosa, or Pincushion, is often overlooked by gardeners who seek easy color. Their pincushions of bloom will provide a garden sideshow and vase after vase of cut flowers through summer and fall.

Columbines have always been favorites and the new forms today had no rivals in yesterday's garden.

Basket of Gold Alyssum, Dusty Miller, Foxgloves are others we would name — all deserving of your attention and just asking the chance to prove their worth in your garden.

November—It's Month To Plant

November is the month of months for planting all sorts of plants.

It's early for bare-root, deciduous shrubs, but evergreens are ready and waiting to go into the ground. Bulbs, not only the familiar Daffodils and Tulips, but the exotic Lilies should be set out this month.

And bulb covers—selected annuals that will show color while the bulbs are blooming —can be set out now. Pansies and Viola are good choices for this.

BLOOMIN' BEAUTIES

You'll Like The New Lilies

The new garden lilies — those gorgeous hybrids that have come our way in recent years— should be near the top of your planting list these days. They are easy to grow, requiring only the minimum of attention, but they will return a maximum of beautiful blooms for years to come.

The season of their beauty is not long—a few summer weeks at best — but they would be worth waiting for, however brief their appearance. The lovely Fiesta, Bellingham, Mid Century and all the other hybrids have yielded many a new look in the past decade and their face is ever changing as new developments join each segment of the family.

Nurserymen who offer these voluptuous garden favorites recommend that you plant them as soon as possible after getting them home. The bulbs, which are never really dormant, are like fish out of water when they are out of the ground.

Choose any well-drained soil—preferably one on the acid side. A sloping site is ideal since it permits runoff of excess water. In level gardens, if drainage is a problem, the best planting site is in a raised bed. Lilies absolutely abhor wet feet and will not to tolerate soggy soil. A trowel full of sand around the bulb is helpful in this respect.

THE DEGREE of sun tolerance shown by our hybrid Lilies is subject to experiment by the home gardener. Here in Marin a fair degree of sun is in order. In warmer gardens, shade, part shade or filtered shade is a must.

Many of the new lilies grow well over head height, so consider this in planting and keep them to the rear of borders. Have no fear of their being lost by being shunted to the background. With the head of blooms that they produce, there's just no missing them anywhere.

When The Weather Cools, The Christmas Rose Blooms

Most people call them Christmas Roses, which makes "most people" only half or one-third correct. Actually, they are members of the Hellebore family, of which Christmas Rose is only one.

Whatever you call them, you will be doing the right thing by planting them in your garden. For when weather cools and many another plant goes out of bloom, the Hellebores are primed to start their seasonal show.

Of the three most commonly offered by Marin nurserymen, the first to show its blooms is Christmas Rose. Often in bloom by the holiday season, it sets its mass of blooms one to the stem, primarily in white or white with tints of purple.

Lenten Roses make their appearance after the first of the year and differ from their earlier cousins in that flowers are borne several to the stem in a wider range of colors. By no means are these the showy colors of summer annuals, but the gardener will be intrigued by the shades of white to purple, rose and maroon which come his way in a steady succession.

Most intriguing of all, perhaps, is the Corsican Hellebore, a shrubbier member of the family that produces arms of pale green flowers in late winter and early spring. As cut flowers, or on the plant, they will earn their share of comments from those who see them.

Christmas and Lenten Roses are shade lovers and make ideal companions to Camellias. Full grown at 12 to 18 inches high, they will carpet an area of shade and offer their non-clashing, decidedly different blooms as a base from which Camellias can show off.

Corsican Hellebore is more tolerant of heat and stands sun. It shrubs up to three feet high and landscapers like its sharply cut foliage — artichoke-like in appearance—as a year round accent in borders and foundations.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- You can get a lot of mileage from such lesser bulbs as Hyacinth and Muscari. Plant them in drifts or groups for the best effect.
- Gourmets can still plant vegetables for winter harvest. Many are available in flats from your nurseryman.
- Uproot old or unwanted roses to make way for new varieties coming next month. Dig steer manure into the soil where you remove such plants.
- Fall feeding keeps many lawns greener over the winter than gardeners seem to realize. Feed regularly four times a year.

Election Coverage To Dominate The Air Lanes On Tuesday Night

IF YOU ARE among the few disinterested in the outcome of the election, better find yourself a good book or some other amusement for next Tuesday night. There won't be much on television to interest you.

By 6 o'clock all three Bay Area network stations — KRON-TV (Channel 4), KPIX-TV (Channel 5), and KGO-TV (Channel 7)—will have their election coverage under way, and will continue those operations into the late, late movie hours. KPIX has slated the earliest start—4:30 p.m.

Independent KTVU-TV (Channel 2) will join the election return ranks as of 8 p.m.

And so only KQED-TV (Channel 9) will be offering its regular Tuesday evening programming. And even that station has announced plans to interrupt its "Open End" discussion of "The World of Contemporary Art" with election returns from time to time.

NBC-TV, which appeared to score a clearcut victory over rival networks in coverage of the 1960 political conventions both from the standpoint of quality and audience size, is hoping to continue its reign as tops in public affairs programming. That network has announced that it will use more than 1,000 reporters, editors and assistants all armed with 276-page manuals covering statistical and biographical aspects of contests throughout the country. NBC will also put into use for the first time the RCA 501 system, described as "the world's most modern data processing system," in an effort to project the winner of the presidential contest at an early hour.

We have a feeling, however, that NBC's biggest weapon will be, as was the case in its convention coverage, its anchor team of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley who mix a sense of humor with penetrating analysis in their running commentary.

CBS-TV, still smarting from its licking at the conventions, has called two of its ace foreign correspondents, Eric Sevareid and David Schoenbrun, home from Europe to back up standbys Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite and Howard K. Smith. The very astute Sevareid should be an especially helpful addition to the CBS "team."

ABC-TV, which trailed well behind the other two networks at the conventions, also expects to throw a 1,000-man force into the election night fray. John Daly will again handle the ABC anchor post. And the Remington Rand UNIVAC computer will be part of the ABC arsenal, assigned to projecting and predicting.

KTVU-TV will join with KFAX, the all-news radio station, and the staff of the San Francisco News-Call Bulletin in offering a news coverage which will place considerable emphasis upon local Bay Area contests and vote tabulations.

So pick your channel and sit back and listen. If you don't like the coverage you are receiving, switch to another channel. But if your man's behind, changing channels won't put him ahead.

ELECTION NIGHT tip: ABC-TV has selected six key states — California, Illinois, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas (a last-minute replacement for Michigan)—for special coverage in the belief that the result of the presidential contest could well be decided in those six states.

THE SAUSALITO Little Theater's delightful melodrama production of this past summer, "East of the Rockies," Wurlitzer Theater Orchestra and all, has been scheduled for Nov. 25 at 8:30 p. m. on KQED-TV (Channel 9).

It will be a live presentation in the Drama Festival time slot which previously has been reserved for Shakespearean plays. "East of the Rockies" is slated for one hour with pantomimist Marcel and a French film entitled "The White Mane" filling out the remainder of the two-hour time period.

TWO MARINITES will be seen this Sunday night on Herb Caen's "Baghdad-by-the-Bay" discussion show, starting at 11 p.m. on KGO-TV (Channel 7) at 11 p.m.

The subject will be politics, and the four-member panel will be split evenly between Democrats and Republicans. On the Democratic side will be California party leaders Roger Kent of Marin and Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk. The GOP team will consist of Joseph Martin Jr. and Caspar Weinberger.

Marinite William Winter will again assist Caen with the hosting duties.

Weinberger, incidentally, will serve as moderator for the special KQED-TV (Channel 9) show on the state water bond proposal, to be seen Monday from 8 to 10 p.m. It was originally scheduled for last week, but postponed until the eve of the election.

INDEPENDENT KTVU (Channel 2) continues to show signs of new vigor.

On the heels of its new "Play of the Week" series comes the announcement that the station has obtained exclusive rights to the "Great Music from Chicago" programs and is currently shopping for sponsors.

The series will be scheduled in prime evening time in the near future, KTVU promises.

Guest artists will include Dorothy Kirsten, Rosalind Elias, Grant Johanesen, Byron Janis, the Robert Trendler Chorale, and — surprise — Sarah Vaughn and Woody Herman.

Kennedy Asserts Campaign Moving In His Direction

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy said today his visits to eight closely contested states in the last three days have convinced him the campaign tide is moving in his direction — partly because "economic issues are hitting harder now.

The Democratic presidential nominee made the statement as he began the home-stretch effort to nail down the state's vital 45 electoral votes.

At a Bronx County women's lunch, Kennedy pledged that if he is elected he will appoint a top-level White House aide—possibly a woman — to "represent the interests of the American consumer in all the activities of government."

'FIRST TASKS'

He said "one of the first tasks" of this official, a consumer counsel in the office of the president, would be "to help formulate economic policies which will keep a general rise in the price level from having a discriminating impact on consumer prices."

The candidate arrived here early this morning aboard his private plane from Chicago, where he made a nationally televised speech last night from the Chicago Stadium. The indoor hall was filled beyond its 26,000-seat capacity.

Television time ran out before Kennedy could get to the prepared conclusion of his speech, assailing Nixon as a man with "fear of the future."

OBVIOUS GIBE

But in an obvious gibe at Nixon he did say that "if a man cannot withstand the pressure of a presidential campaign or a fifth debate, he cannot withstand the pressures of the presidency."

Kennedy said that the first thing he had tried to do in the campaign was "to tell the truth to the American people, whether the truth was pleasant or not."

He said he also had tried "to set before the American people their unfinished agenda — the tasks which Franklin Roosevelt did not foresee in 1933—the tasks which Harry Truman could not complete by 1953—and the tasks on which in eight Republican years we never even started."

But above all, he said he had "tried in this campaign to address myself to the real issues confronting America."

Two Nabbed With Guns At Demo Rally

A second gun carrier was arrested when he tried to enter the stadium with a revolver in a paper bag.

A half-dozen policemen scuffled with the first man, Jaime Cruz Alejandro, 23, before he was disarmed and seized. "Kill him, kill him," shouted the crowd surging into the stadium.

Officers seized a 25-caliber pistol from him.

The Rev. Israel Dabney, 61, a minister, was stopped when he tried to enter the stadium with a 38-caliber revolver in a paper bag.

Novato Man Arrested On Assault Charge

Father Of Four Resists Arrest, Hospitalized

A 33 - year - old Novato father was arrested early today on suspicion of attempted rape of a 48-year-old married Hamilton Air Force Base secretary on the front lawn of her Novato home.

Marin County Sheriff's deputies said Joe A. York of 98 Grande Vista will be charged with assault with intent to rape, assault with intent to do bodily harm, and resisting arrest.

York was in San Rafael General Hospital today in fair condition with a head injury. He became unconscious after deputies took him to the hospital at 3:25 a.m. and was still unconscious at 8 a.m. A doctor, unable to rouse York, said he suspected he had been drinking something other than alcoholic beverages.

As a deputy attempted to handcuff York in his alleged victim's home, York struck the deputy with his fist and grabbed him, pushing him backwards.

The two men struggled and both landed on top of a table, knocking several dishes and other items to the floor. York was finally subdued and later taken to the hospital. Deputies said he seemed incoherent and

Nixon Campaigns In Bay Cities, Asks For Scholarship Program

GREETINGS FOR NIXON — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is greeted by Johnny Guel, 7, and Queta Vinata, 8, who were two of many children on hand for his arrival this morning in San Jose. (AP Wirephoto)

Would Salvage Talents Of American Youths

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Richard Nixon pushed his final California campaign up the east shores of San Francisco Bay today, lashing out at the "pied piper from Boston," and offering a program which would salvage the "talents of hundreds of thousands of boys and girls who should go to college and can't afford it."

Speaking in the courtyard of San Jose's crescent-shaped glass city hall, Nixon told a crowd estimated by Police Captain Edward Pracna at 20,000, that "the pied piper from Boston," had been "running around saying that we've been standing still."

With a sweep of his arm toward the five-story building circling behind him he asked: "Here in the second fastest growing city in the nation do you believe we have been standing still?" The crowd shouted "No."

SLIGHTLY DAMP

Looking over a colorful but slightly damp crowd including a Chinese high school drum corp in brilliant red and yellow uniforms, (the girls wearing dainty red slippers and the boys white keds) Japanese children in multi colored kimonos, Mexican youths in trim native costume, the Vice President referred to San Jose State College, Santa Clara, and Stanford University, and declared: "It is not true that we are second to the Soviet Union in education."

He warned his audience "not to use the Communist yardstick" in judging our education. The communists are turning out "scientific and engineering automatons" who are designed to be "just someone on an assembly line," he declared.

"CAN'T WASTE TALENT"

America realizes "there is more than gross materialism" in education and wants our students to develop in their own way" and to become a part of the community.

"But we can't waste the talent of boys and girls who should go to college," Nixon went on. "The way not to do it is the way suggested by my opponent, to turn everything over to the federal government."

Instead, the Vice President proposed scholarships for those not able to pay the government back, loans for those who will" and "give tax credit and tax deductions to parents

MMWD Aide Rips Letter On 'Neglect'

William R. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, today challenged a letter accusing the district directors of "extreme neglect" for refusing to endorse the fluoridation issue. He termed the three-page document as "out of line and uncalled for."

Seeger emphasized that the directors "were servants of the people" and it was their job to "act on the will of the people."

A copy of the letter, sent by the children's dental health committee of Marin County, came across Seeger's desk late yesterday he reported.

The letter accused the board member of "extreme neglect for not telling the voters that fluoridation is "completely safe."

Seeger said that even though

Mack Sennett Dies; Pioneer In Movies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mack Sennett, film pioneer who gave the world the Keystone Kops and the first film bathing beauties, died today at the Motion Picture Country Hospital in Woodland Hills. He was 80.

Once the biggest producer in the young motion picture industry, Sennett lived the last 10 years of his life in near poverty in a small apartment overlooking Hollywood Boulevard—the glamorous thoroughfare he helped make famous.

Master of the custard-pie school of comedy, Sennett was the discoverer of such stars as W. C. Fields, Bing Crosby, Charlie Chaplin, Fatty Arbuckle, Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery.

He specialized in the two-reel slapstick silents that paved the way for Cecil B. DeMille, Sam Goldwyn and Jesse Lasky, who became giants of drama.

Born in Denville, Canada in 1880, his real name was Mickall Sinnott.

He deserted the actor ranks to become a movie producer when he was unable to pay a

Light Showers Fall In Marin

Despite heavy cloudiness, the U.S. Weather Department predicted clearing late tonight and fair weather tomorrow.

Showers were forecast in central and mountain regions with possible isolated thunderstorms in Northern areas of the state, but all areas were expected to have fair weather tomorrow with little change in temperatures.

SERVICE SCHEDULED

A service of prayer from 12:10 to 12:30 p.m. will be held Tuesday, Election Day, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael, announced Rev. John Riley, rector.

ENTERTAINERS—Tina Gnagy sings a folk song to the accompaniment of her husband Steve Gnagy near their apartment at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax. Gnagy is a graduate of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and his wife, Tina, whom he met in Portugal, obtained her doctorate from the University of Lisbon.

Marin Guitarist And Scholar Wife To Live In Las Vegas

By PAUL MILLER

A Marin gas station attendant who is also a semi-professional Flamenco guitarist will leave in about two weeks with his wife, a folk dancer, to live in Las Vegas.

What is this story doing on the church page?

It just so happens that Steve Gnagy, before he leaves California, will be ordained in Los Angeles as a minister in the Presbyterian Church, and that his wife, Tina, holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Lisbon and a degree in Christian Education from a Presbyterian seminary in Portugal.

Gnagy, a resident of Marin on and off for about three years, will take up duties as a pastor at the First Presbyterian Church in Las Vegas, New Mexico.

He graduated this spring from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo with a Bachelor's of Divinity degree, and since then the couple have been living temporarily in an apartment at the Town and Country Club in Fairfax.

Gnagy was granted a "working" Fellowship from the Board of Ecumenical (worldwide) Missions of the Presbyterian Church in 1957 for a year's study in Lisbon, Portugal, which broke up his study at the Marin seminary.

In Portugal he attended classes at the University of Lisbon as well as worked in Portuguese Presbyterian churches. But to say that this energetic, non-conforming, world-minded Christian will soon be a minister is not to tell all.

For Gnagy has been playing the guitar since 1948 and since his stay in the native land of his wife, has become a specialist in Flamenco music, next to what is called classical guitar, the most difficult discipline of the instrument.

When he was in Lisbon, he met Hina, a sparkling eyed, vivacious and lovely Portuguese lady named Justina Barata who was born in Moura in Southern Portugal near the Spanish border.

When they met, she was supervising Christian education programs in several churches in Lisbon. The land of romance and beauty was too much for both of them, and the couple were married at the end of Gnagy's stay there. He brought his bride to the United States and San Anselmo two years ago this month.

While in school here in Marin, and while he and his wife have been waiting for a church call, the couple have periodically played at Portuguese festivals, church programs, parties, and on a Spanish-speaking radio program in San Francisco. To make ends meet, Gnagy is also an attendant at W. R. Davis' Flying A Service station, 98 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Southern Baptists Plan Convention

Members and pastors of eight Marin County churches, as well as the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary choir and two seminary professors, will attend the 20th anniversary of the Southern Baptist Convention of California meeting Tuesday through Friday at Stockton.

Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral psychology at Golden Gate, will lead in the observance of the convention anniversary Wednesday and also serve as chairman of the program committee.

Dr. Gaines S. Dobbins, professor of church administration, will lead a short devotional period at each session on "The Witnessing Church." The choir, directed by Dr. Carlyle Bennett, will present special music on Thursday.

Rev. Wallace Hough Jr. pastor, First Baptist Church in San Rafael, will head the credentials committee of the convention.

More than 2,000 Baptists from California are expected to attend.

In Symphony Orchestra

Average Giver Gives Enough To Buy Smokes

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

According to a report issued this week by the National Council of Churches, the average American Protestant gave $69.13 to his church last year.

If the Average Protestant were a real, live human being, it might be worthwhile to lecture him for being so stingy toward his church. An annual contribution of $69.13 figures out to 19 cents a day, which is less than the price of a pack of cigarettes.

MYTHICAL FELLOW

But the Average Protestant is an altogether mythical fellow. He exists only on the scratch pads of church statisticians who divide total contributions by total membership.

In real life, instead of one "average" kind of Protestant, there are at least three distinct categories of church members, who vary widely in their attitudes toward giving.

At one extreme is the tipgiver. He is rather numerous, accounting for perhaps half of all the total membership claimed by the churches.

CHANGE IN POCKET

When he comes to church, which is an uncertain and spasmodic phenomenon, he drops into the collection plate whatever change he finds in his pocket. If he feels that he might be embarrassed by the clink of coins, he fishes a dollar bill from his wallet.

Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, an Episcopal clergyman in Washington, D.C., has suggested that this system of giving is tantamount to "giving God a tip for the spiritual food that has been served" at the worship service. Rev. Bowers doubts that God is gratified.

DUES PAYERS

The next largest group are the dues-payers. They give systematically to the church through an annual pledge or a weekly envelope system. But the amount of their contribution is not related to the size of their income.

They simply pick a nice round figure that sounds like a respectable sum to give to the church. Sometimes it's $2 a week; often it's $1 a week. They pay this sum as faithfully as they pay their country club dues (which are usually somewhat higher).

SOME TITHERS

Finally, there are tithers. They are a definite minority in most churches, but there are more of them than you may suspect. In fact, if there weren't a fair-sized core of them, the churches could not operate.

The tithers regularly give at least 10 per cent of their income to church and charity. They do not think there is anything sacred about the 10 per cent figure; to the extent that they have grasped the real spirit of tithing, they feel that they are probably being greedy in keeping for their own use 90 per cent of the material wealth which has come to them through the providence of God.

Christian Science

"Spiritual Enlightenment in daily living" will be the topic emphasized at Christian Science worship services in Marin County tomorrow with the account in Acts of the Bible of Paul's conversion and regeneration as one of the text.

Wagon Train's Ward Bond Dies In Texas

DALLAS (UPI) — Ward Bond, star of the television program Wagon Train, died of a heart attack today.

Bond, who flew into Dallas yesterday, was scheduled to appear at a professional football game tomorrow. He was reported to have collapsed in a shower and died before a doctor could arrive.

A family friend said that when Bond, 57, collapsed in the shower he fell against the door and wedged himself in. An ambulance crew had to take the door from the shower at the Town House Motel to get him out.

Bond, a 200-pounder, lived most of his life in show business almost in spite of himself. He claimed he never sought stardom.

A graduate engineer from the University of Southern California, Bond broke into the acting business as a lark and as a way to pay his tuition.

"I graduated from USC in 1931 and worked in movies for five years making $500 a week before I quit trying to get a job as an engineer," he once told an interviewer.

"I finally realized that an engineer in the depression didn't make $500 a month. So I've been an actor ever since."

Bond appeared in more than 100 horse operas since 1928, playing heavies and sidekicks with such 10-gallon heroes of the past as Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Ken Maynard and Hoot Gibson.

He also appeared in dozens of other motion pictures. And up to 1956 it was always as a character actor.

Then something unexpected happened to him. He took the role as the wagon master in the television series Wagon Train in 1956 and he suddenly was a star. The show has been among the top three television programs the past three years.

'Man On Street' Sets Open House For Candidates

A traditional open house for political candidates will be held on Radio KTIM's "Man On The Street" program Monday at 12:30 p.m., at the corner of Fourth and B streets in San Rafael, according to manager Hugh Turner.

The custom, started by Turner several years ago as a pre-election day feature, offers the microphone to any legitimate candidate or representative of an organization favoring a ballot issue. All sides appearing are given a chance to state their views.

Campaign Charge

Thomas Boyd, chairman of the Everett Matzen campaign in Marin County, charged today that opponent William Bagley is using unfair tactics. Boyd stated that the Bagley campaigners were using unauthorized names as sponsors in their advertising.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Fight After Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The football game was rough but the fight afterwards was even rougher.

Three Galileo High School students were injured in a fight Friday after Galileo defeated Mission High School 6-0.

All four teen-agers were treated at Alemany Emergency Hospital and released.

Ex-Convict Taken

Fitzgerald, who broke out of prison here last Sunday with four other prisoners, surrendered with his companions to Yuba County deputy sheriffs last night at a roadblock seven miles east of Marysville.

Fitzgerald is accused of shooting George Bonn, 58, a San Francisco cook, and wounding Milton J. Young, 41, also of San Francisco, on a lonely road near Truckee Aug. 3.

Maestro Mourned

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Musicians, dancers and singers of the world's leading opera house, La Scala, today bade a sorrowing farewell to conductor Dimitri Mitropoulos, who died while conducting its orchestra.

The body of the maestro, resting in an oak coffin borne by musicians, left Milan by hearse for Lugano, Switzerland, where it will be cremated.

AF Advances Missile Data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force disclosed today that it has advanced by a full year the date for completing the first operational squadron equipped with Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The squadron, which will have 55 of the missiles in underground "silos" near Great Falls, Mont., is now scheduled to reach war readiness by July, 1962. The former date was July, 1963.

Three squadrons with a total of 165 missiles are to be based at Malmstrom Air Force Base near Great Falls.

Their missile sites will be within a radius of 115 miles of the base. The Air Force said no date has been set for completing the three squadrons.

Rep. Powell Wife Asks For Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—Pianist Hazel Scott, 40, said Thursday she has asked for a divorce from Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., 51, Harlem congressman. She said her reasons are her own affair.

"However," she said, "a stalemate has been reached because, to date, Mr. Powell refuses to pay what I consider adequate support for his child (14-year-old Adam Clayton Powell III) and costs of the divorce."

Powell, who is winding up a tour for the Democratic presidential ticket, declined to comment on Miss Scott's statement.

Fire Board Meeting

Tiburon Fire Protection District commissioners will discuss the general ordinance on rules and regulations for burning within the district at their meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon Boulevard main fire station, according to commission secretary Kelly J. Wheeler.

JOHNNY HORTON

Singer Killed

CAMERON, Tex. (UPI)—Johnny Horton, 35, the western-style singer who made the song "Battle of New Orleans" popular, was killed today in a grinding head-on collision on a railroad overpass.

Three persons, two of them passengers in the car Horton was driving, were injured.

The accident happened on U.S. 79, about 13 miles southwest of Cameron, near the community of Milano. It appeared Horton died on the way to the hospital in Cameron.

Red Kill Yank

SAIGON, Viet-Nam (UPI) — Communist terrorists today killed a U.S. operations mission official in a machine-gun ambush on a main road some 70 miles east of here.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said the Vietnamese driver of the American official's jeep also died in the attack.

The International Cooperation Administration identified the American victim as Dolph B. Owens, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., a public safety adviser.

His wife and two small daughters were en route to join Owens overseas when they learned of his death.

Connelly Released

A spokesman said Connelly left the institution in a private automobile after being checked through the prison control center about 9 a.m.

Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, an assistant attorney general in the Truman administration, were convicted of conspiring to prevent an income tax evasion suit from being pressed against a St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

Bomb Hurts Five

YOKOSUKA, Japan (UPI) — A U.S. Navy plane engaged in exercises with the Seventh Fleet accidentally dropped a bomb close to an American sea-going tug Friday, The Navy disclosed today. Five crewmen were injured.

3 Sought In Attack

Officers said one of her assailants raped her, another one threatened to kill her and the third threatened to rape her. All were in their 20s.

GIs Held In Death

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —The U.S. Army said today it is holding two soldiers from California in custody after an armored personnel carrier ran wild in nearby Hanau yesterday and killed a German girl bicyclist.

The Army said the two men stole the carrier and drove it through the busy streets, striking a lamp post and killing Ingrid Kraushaar, 16.

An officer, pursuing the two men, apprehended the soldiers later, the Army said.

Stolen Books Found

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Two caches of books, including valuable works stolen from the Stanford University Library, were found yesterday in San Mateo County.

Meanwhile, the Federal Bureau of Investigation pressed its search for Mitchell J. Strucinski, ex-convict and former creative writing fellowship student at Stanford. He was believed connected with the theft.

A truck driver found 15 old books behind a supermarket here.

Sandoval Says Police Pushed Him Around

Jaime Sandoval, 29, former San Rafael male nurse accused of lewd conduct with a Millbrae boy, yesterday charged that Millbrae police of knocking him down the stairs of his apartment.

Sandoval is a key figure in the mysterious deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas of Millbrae. Douglas committed suicide in Marin County last month, eight days after his wife vanished in Puerto Rico while on a trip there with Sandoval.

Sandoval and his attorney, Nathan Cohn, appeared in Redwood City court yesterday and complained that Police Chief Larry Pickett had roughed up Sandoval.

In San Mateo County, he is now charged with lewd conduct toward the two sons of the late Douglases. The boys are 11 and 13.

Car Windows Broken

Marin Boy Calls Home, Learns Dog Poisoned

Mrs. Marie Gee, a nurse, who resides on Aztec Avenue, said her son's dog became violently sick at 3 a.m. yesterday. She rushed the dog to a Fairfax veterinary hospital, but the dog died later.

An autopsy proved Tweedie was poisoned in small doses for about a week, Mrs. Gee said.

Mrs. Gee is offering a $100 reward for any information that might lead to the conviction of the poisoner of her son's dog. Tweedie "stayed in the house at night" and was loved by the neighbors, she said.

Johnnie, a student at the Boys Ranch, Amarillo, Texas, was badly upset, his mother said. Whenever Johnnie called or wrote home he always asked, "Mother, how's my dog?" Mrs. Gee said Johnnie will be coming home for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Gee asks that any information on the poisoning be sent to her at Box 144, Forest Knolls.

'Turkey' Shoot Planned Sunday

Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce members will sponsor a "turkey" shoot tomorrow, with chickens and hams for prizes.

Proceeds will go to the group's athletic fund, which backs water safety, youth fitness, hunter safety programs and the Novato softball field.

John Anderson is chairman for the shoot, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Dias Ranch near the Club Rio on Highway 101.

California and New York today have 60% of the narcotic addicts in the United States. California has one of the weakest systems of narcotics law enforcement. This is not the fault of our law enforcement officials in the field. Our criminal prosecution procedures have been tampered with and weakened by Appellate Court action and legislative inaction, to the extent that (prosecution is virtually impossible).

COMBINED AP & UPI

HOUSTON — Supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson today demanded that Vice President Richard M. Nixon make a public apology for the unruly mob that jostled and jeered the Democratic vice presidential candidate and mussed up his wife's hair.

Johnson and his wife got the rough treatment in Dallas, a GOP stronghold, as he entered the lobby of a hotel for a banquet speech. Afterwards, he flew here for an overnight stay.

In the midst of the mob of about 1,000 persons, made up mostly of businessmen and young girls, was Rep. Bruce Alger, Texas' only Republican congressman. He carried a sign that said: "LBJ sold out to Yankee socialists."

At Bloomington, Ill., Henry Cabot Lodge said today Sen. John F. Kennedy has made three statements on foreign affairs which would have "gravely endangered the national interest" if he had uttered them as president.

The Republican vice presidential nominee said the statements by Kennedy concerned Cuba, the U-2 spy plane incident and the islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

"Three times Sen. Kennedy has shot from the hip and three times he has retracted his statements," Lodge said in an address at the McLean County courthouse square.

"If Sen. Kennedy had made his Cuban statement as president," Lodge added, "the consequences would have been unpredictable and dangerous beyond description."

Kennedy Too Impetuous For Decision, Ike Says

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — President Eisenhower ended his campaign travels last night by picturing Sen. John F. Kennedy as too "rash" and "impetuous" to make war-or-peace decisions in the White House.

Eisenhower told a nationwide audience his eight years as chief executive had convinced him that vice president Richard M. Nixon was better prepared to combat the communists and preserve U. S. economic strength.

He said a Democratic victory at the polls next Tuesday would bring either skyrocketing federal taxes, higher prices or cheap dollars.

The president returned to Washington last night after deriding Kennedy as a "young genius" and questioning the Democratic candidate's judgement in hard-hitting speeches in Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Eisenhower rested up from the political wars today by traveling to his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat to spend the weekend.

"I'll always remember this as my last political trip," the president said as he left Pittsburgh airport. "It was wonderful."

Patrolman Hurt As Bike Hit Ridge

A Mill Valley California Highway Patrolman was slightly injured early last night when his motorcycle hit an unfinished ridge in the Terra Linda interchange construction project on Highway 101.

Donald Dowling, riding with his partner on 101, was pulling slowly off the highway to write down an all-points bulletin which had just come over his radio. The front wheel of Dowling's motorcycle slid off a ridge in the curbing. He fell over on his side, suffering minor bruises, for which he was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Another highway patrolman was fatally injured in San Francisco last night. Patrolman William Pitois of San Mateo, crashed with a car on the Bayshore Freeway while chasing a speeder. He was pronounced dead at Mission Emergency Hospital shortly afterward.

Preview Canceled At One-Man Show

The preview reception in connection with the opening of Thomas Leighton's one-man show will not be held tomorrow afternoon at Mill Valley's Artist Associates Gallery, according to Nevin Kempthorne, curator.

Because the artist has suffered a mild heart attack, the reception has been postponed until his recovery. The paintings may be seen, however throughout November at the regular visitors' hours of 12 to 4:30 p.m. every day except Sunday.

Clubs Offer Free Rides To Polls

Free transportation for those unable to get out and vote next Tuesday is being offered by six of Marin County's service clubs as part of their drive to "Get Out The Vote."

Participating clubs are the Ross Valley, San Rafael and Novato Kiwanis Clubs, San Anselmo and San Rafael Rotary Clubs, and Mill Valley and San Anselmo Lions Clubs.

In addition to the transportation, the clubs are passing out 30,000 non-partisan circulars urging citizens to vote.

Belvedere Council Meets Monday

The Belvedere City Council will discuss the proposal to purchase property for the Cove Road sewerage pumping station at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Belvedere Community Hall, according to City Manager Britton Rey.

Councilmen will also view the Bay Area Rapid Transit District master plan for Marin County. Rey said that he planned to ask the council to approve purchase of a police car for the city, also.

The Soviet Union is concentrating on science, "but we are overall ahead in all fields," he said. "Even so, we've got to continue to move ahead."

To do this he proposed a "National Science Institute working with and through our colleges" as a means of assuring that America will lead the way."

Speaking on Federal spending Nixon said of Kennedy, "He's not going to spend his money, he's going to spend your money, 15 billion dollars of it," he answered. "Government spending without taxes to take care of it, as was done by President Truman can wreck our government," he went on. "It is breaking faith with the people who have saved their money."

"We must not let that happen again, and I will not let it happen again."

The major issue facing America is survival, Nixon declared.

"The question is shall we move forward with experience or use the White House as a training school for a man who has to get experience at the cost of the American people."

He said that he and Ambassador Lodge offered "proven leadership."

"We have faith in America because Americans believe in great ideas and rights that came to them from God."

"Greatness in a president will only be in as much as he represents the ideals of the American people," Nixon concluded.

Three Youths Claim Hurts In Brawl

Three youths were injured, one suffering a gash in his scalp, in a Marin City brawl early last night.

The trio told police that their car had broken down and they were trying to re-start it at a Marin City gas station when two youths came over and began offering unwanted advice on the repairs. One word led to another, they said, and a crowd began to form, largely consisting of the pair's buddies.

Who struck the first blow was unclear, but when the dust settled. Bob Davis, 15, of 178 Alta Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, was found lying on the street with a bad cut in his scalp. He told sheriff's deputies he'd been hit with a board.

Davis, taken to Marin General Hospital, received 10 stitches in his scalp, then was released.

With him was Paul Kordik, 16, of 11 Meadow Drive, Mill Valley; and Girard Corteau, 18, of 7 Tower Drive, Alto. They received minor cuts and bruises on their faces but were not taken to the hospital.

had an odor of alcohol.

At her house he signaled the cab driver to leave, picked her up and carried her up her driveway. She wriggled away and he caught her again, finally forcing her to the ground outside her home. He slapped her one hard blow and threatened to kill her if she resisted, she said.

Meanwhile, the taxi driver had informed a deputy about York. As the latter ripped some of the victim's clothes off, they heard a car approach. York began to choke her and threatened to kill her if she screamed, she said.

The woman screamed feebly and was heard by the deputies, who ran to her assistance.

When he was arrested, York told deputies his four children were at home alone. His wife was at work. Arrangements were made with a family friend to care for the children.

York said he had had five or six drinks, deputies reported.

Man Tries To Tear Screen Off Window

An early morning prowler tried to tear the screen off a bedroom window in Novato Thursday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Mrs. John Lowry, 27, of 3 Simmons Court, told Deputy Sheriff William F. Johansen she saw a man in his twenties tearing the window screen. When she turned on the lights he jumped over a four-foot fence and vanished.

Seeger said that the communication was not typed on the committee's letterhead and that all letters in the past had been written on the "committee's stationery." Another peculiarity noticed by Seeger was that the letter was addressed to "Board of Governors" instead of "directors."

He said the district was holding the same neutral position on fluoridation that it has throughout the campaign and that the directors "can't take action until the next board meeting Wednesday," the day after the issue goes to the polls.

As for his personal views, Seeger said, "I am taking a neutral position following the policy of the board."

Marin voters will decide Tuesday if the MMWD's water supply should be fluoridated. The measure was defeated in June by 84 votes.

Light Classics Program Slated

A program of light classics and show tunes will be presented at the Marin Jewish Center at 8 p.m. today.

Featured will be the Trianon Ensemble, consisting of Abe Milstein, clarinet; Alice Dillon, harp; Daniel Shelasky, violin; Ceasare Claudio, cello, and Mary E. Kuhlmann, flute.

This musical program is being presented in conjunction with the seventh annual art exhibit now in progress at the center.

SENNETT

$100 gambling debt. Instead the gamblers invested $1,000 in Sennett to establish a movie company. A trade mark of the Pennsylvania Railroad on a passing freight car gave him the name for his firm—the Keystone Film Co.

Bankers later supplied Sennett with new capital, although they grimaced at his movies which specialized in pie-throwing and actresses diving off cliffs.

Ambrose Druffy Rites Planned

Funeral services will be held Monday for Ambrose Duffy, who died at a local hospital yesterday after a long illness. A resident of San Rafael, he was 84 years old.

Before his retirement, Duffy was a caretaker for Ross estates. He was a native of Iowa coming to California 16 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Clara, at the family home, 36 Ross Street, and two sons, Robert P. Zeien of Novato and Lyle Latell of Los Angeles County.

The funeral cortege will leave the Harry Wiliams Mortuary in San Rafael at 9 a.m. Monday and proceed to St. Rafael's Church where a high requiem mass will be sung at 9:30 a.m. The Rosary will be recited at the mortuary at 8 p.m. Interment will be at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Thomas Dinucci Rites Monday

Funeral services will be held for Thomas A. Dinucci, 67, father of Mrs. Louis L. Paolini, of San Anselmo, Monday in San Francisco.

Dinucci, who owned and operated the Belmont Florist shop in San Francisco for 45 years, died in a local hospital Thursday after a long illness. He was a native of Sonoma County.

He was a member of Polk Van Ness Civic Council and past president of the Upper Fillmore Merchants Assn.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Paolini who resides at 94 Del Norte Avenue, he is survived by his wife, Erminia Dinucci, five brothers, Richard, Romeo, Henry, Frank and Joseph Dinucci, two sisters, Vera Alberigi and Naoma Pool and four grandchildren, Timothy, Louis, Susan and Ronald Paolini.

A Requiem Mass will be sung at St. Dominic's Church, Steiner and Bush Streets, San Francisco, at 9 a.m. Monday. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Gray's, Divisadero Street at Post. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

Bay Architect Dies In Hospital

George Din, an Oakland architect, died suddenly today in a local hospital. He was 36.

An employee of Henry Hill, a San Francisco architectural firm, he had been working on a Mill Valley home Tuesday when he suffered an attack of an unknown illness.

He is survived by his wife, Esther, and two small children.

Nikita Back In Capital To Greet Red Leaders

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev headed the welcoming at Vnukova Airport today to greet Chinese Communist leader Liu Shao-chi, arriving to celebrate the 43d anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution next week.

It was the Soviet Premier's first public appearance in about 10 days.

His appearance cut the ground from under wild rumors in the West that he had been deposed. These rumors never gained any credence among Western diplomats in Moscow.

Soviet officials had merely laughed off the rumors which spread from Vienna yesterday. In Bonn, Vienna, New York and elsewhere Russian agencies had termed the rumors nonsense.

Liu is the formal head of the Chinese Communist state and Peiping's leading ideologist after Mao Tze-tung.

Also en route is a delegation of 15 Cuban workers.

Patent Rise Is Slow

While research efforts are up 6 to 12 times over the past couple of decades, patent applications have risen only by one-sixth.

Russ Unload Mystery Crates In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — About 700 Russian "technicians" have set up camp near Santiago's airport and are unloading a large number of huge crates of unknown content, it was reported today.

Travelers coming here from the eastern provincial capital said the Russians are sleeping in exhibition halls at the fairgrounds. They said the Russians are roaming Santiago's streets, freely stating they have just arrived from the Soviet Union, but brushing off queries as to what kind of technicians they are.

Sixty of Oriente University's 113 professors were purged this week including almost the entire faculty of the law school "because their manner of thinking does not coincide with the people's revolution needs."

Several Czech and Hungarian professors have appeared as guest lecturers in the engineering school.

DeGaulle Plan Draws Fire

PARIS (AP) — Angry outcries from leftist and rightist extremists today greeted President Charles de Gaulle's threat to take emergency powers and call a national referendum on a new course for Algeria.

In a nationwide radio and television address last night de Gaulle declared his policy in Algeria, now in its seventh year of war with nationalist rebels, "no longer leads to an Algeria governed by metropolitan France, but an Algerian Algeria."

In the end, he said, "responsibility for Algerian affairs, at every level, will be assumed by Algerians" and the country will have "its own government."

STOLEN, RECOVERED

Teacher Socked Away Fortune In Securities

BURLINGAME (AP) — Four men are tucked away in jail today in connection with the burglary of $545,000 of the little old lady's securities. But investigators are marvelling at how the retired school teacher managed to tuck away so much money.

Mrs. Ruth H. Landrum, grey-haired, pert and sharp-eyed, says: "I came from a different era—the era of thrift when you could quietly put your money away and start saving. The income tax didn't take it all then."

REPORTED $30 THEFT

Mrs. Landrum was burglarized Aug. 4 but reported only that $30 in cash was taken. Burlingame police said she did not mention the $545,000 in negotiable stocks and bonds, which she had been keeping in a closet.

She had just moved to Burlingame from Stockton, she said, and "went down to a bank right away — but they didn't have the right size of safety deposit box. So I took the securities back home and put them in a closet."

Four days later she told police she was also missing more than half a million dollars worth of stock. The FBI was called in and, thanks to a tip, nabbed four men with all the securities Wednesday night.

FOUR CHARGED

Charged with possessing and receiving stolen property were Jack Love, 34; Eldon Williams, 39; Joseph Noisat Jr., 34; and Wesley Fingers, 39—all of San Francisco.

Mrs. Landrum said she and her husband lived on his salary for more than 30 years and used all of her money earned as a Stockton teacher for blue chip and sleeper stocks. Her husband died in 1943.

"Some of her best buys were made 20 years ago, when nobody ever heard of the stocks," said an FBI man who helped recover the securities.

"If you'll excuse me," she said, "I really have things to do." And she shooed reporters out of her apartment. She did say, however, that she's buying the building.

Congo Leader Plans To Take Case To U.N.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu is scheduled to fly to New York tomorrow to protest against United Nations interference in Congolese internal affairs to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, sources close to Kasavubu said today.

The sources said the president was expected to meet with Hammarskjold next week, and also would protest personally against the U.N. leader's failure to recognize the high commissioners set up to run the nation.

They said Kasavubu also would protest against Hammarskjold's criticism about the return of Belgian technicians to the Congo.

U.N. authorities here have not given the commissioners recognition although they cooperate with them daily. A U.N. spokesman said yesterday that "we deal with whoever is in the chair."

A contingent of Tunisian U.N. troops moved into the rebellious south of Kasai province and reports reaching here said that Baluba tribesmen were withdrawing into the jungle.

Homes Previewed At Marin Bay

By HARRY CRAFT

An elaborate celebration complete with orchid leis and Hawaiian music was held in the lounge of the newly completed Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, nucleus of the 2,233-acre recreational and residential development which is planned to spread over a period of 10 to 15 years in its full making.

Today, the country club with its golf, dining and lounging facilities was opened to the public.

The location of this recent entry into Marin County's scheme of picturesque living is in the Elysian hills and valleys of the historic McNear Ranch bordering San Pablo Bay and including China Camp, long a subject for capture on vellum and canvas.

The Peacock Gap and Country Club comprises roughly 185 acres and will be surrounded by many of the 208 home sites in the initial phase of residential planning. Grading and shaping have preserved natural contours of the land, affording both view and privacy.

Power and telephone lines will go underground. A number of the lots ranging in size from one-half acre to more than two acres have already been sold; construction on homes is expected to commence shortly.

Although the Peacock Gap and Country Club and the Marin Bay properties are within the city limits of San Rafael, the ultimate development of the area will encompass a veritable community in itself. Schools, churches, apartment houses and a resort hotel are part of the planning. Selected wooded areas in the higher elevations will be given over to multi-acre homesites, a riding club and stables.

The north shore facing San Pablo Bay is marked out for shopping centers, a yacht club, rod and gun club, restaurants, marina homesites and public yacht harbor. Several exclusive shops are contemplated.

The newly erected clubhouse which will be the center of activities in the area for some time to come was the result of close timing and co-ordination among the building crafts. It progressed from ground breaking to last night's ribbon cutting ceremonies in little more than eight weeks and workmen put away their tools a scant half hour before the first arrival of guests.

Lounge, cocktail bar and restaurant facilities are now available to the general public everyday except Mondays, as well as the nine holes now ready for playing in the planned 18-hole golf course. Remainder of the course probably will not be ready until next spring when the club will be converted to private membership.

While the roadway from San Pedro Road to the clubhouse is substantially surfaced there is still work to be done on the parking area and in landscaping. Plans call for a 600-capacity banquet hall for construction in early 1961.

Eventually, golfing and social memberships will be divided between residents within the development and associates living outside.

Overall management of the entire project is under Edward Lee, vice president of Latipac, Inc. and right hand of Chinn Ho, its president. Clubhouse and golf course is supervised by Roland Hess, former manager of the Monterey Golf and Country Club; property and homesite division is headed by Ben Alward, sales manager.

The office and display pavilion is located on Point San Pedro Road at the entrance of the golf and country club.

Treasurer's Auditor Appointed For County

Kenneth Charles Finn, 38, of Fairfax, credit manager for General Tire and Rubber Co. in Burlingame, will start work Monday as treasurer's auditor in the county tax collector's office.

Tax collector-Treasurer M. F. Donohue announced the appointment yesterday. Finn succeeds Leo Vaughn, who was promoted to assistant tax collector-treasurer. Finn will draw $530 per month.

He lives with his wife and four children at 260 Bolinas Road in Fairfax. His experience includes three years as auditor with Bank of America in San Francisco.

Finn was among the top five who passed an examination for the job of treasurer's auditor. Donohue said Finn was not the top man in the examination "but I picked him because I thought he was the best man, on the basis of experience and qualifications."

The man who got the best score in the examination was Eugene Trenam, who is working as deputy county clerk. Tenam conceded that it is the tax collector's prerogative to choose one of the top five.

"However, I feel I should have at least had the courtesy of an interview," Trenam declared. He said he feels that a person who is in county employment already should be given at least an equal chance for examination and interview as non-employees of the county.

Trenam has been working for the county clerk since April of 1959, and has about 25 years of banking experience.

The tax collector also announced the appointment of Mrs Jean Krysiak as senior account clerk at $383 per month. Mrs. Krysiak, who worked for Bank of America for nine years, succeeds, Joseph Ross, who was promoted to a new job in the auditor's office.

Pair Curious Over Theft Gets 10 Days

Two San Francisco men, arrested near the scene of a ringing burglary alarm in San Anselmo Wednesday morning, drew 10 days jail each in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas sentenced Richard Eugene McCluskie and Roy Robert Roach for vagrancy. McCluskie was also convicted of speeding on his motorcycle, with Roach as passenger.

Both men have past criminal records, including narcotics violations. San Anselmo police converged on the Owl Drug Store at 21 San Anselmo Avenue early Wednesday morning in answer to a burglary alarm. They found glass shattered. When McCluskie and Roach rode past the scene twice, police arrested the pair. The cyclists said they had visited a friend in Fairfax and became confused in returning toward San Francisco.

Judge At Finch Trial Says Murder Committed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jurors are still divided, but the judge has told them in a taut and turbulent session of the Finch trial that he believes a murder was committed and he doesn't believe the defendants.

As they opened their 17th day of deliberation at the second trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff today, the jurors had these electrifying developments behind them:

1. Superior Court Judge LeRoy Dawson, interrupting deliberations yesterday, called in the jury and said: "The explanation given by the defendant Finch as to the circumstances surrounding the firing of the fatal shot to me does not sound reasonable in any of its aspects. And it appears to me to have been concocted by him in an attempt to justify what is shown by the evidence, in my opinion, to be the wilful and deliberate taking of a human life"—that of the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean Finch.

2. Defense attorney Grant B. Cooper twice jumped from his chair to object to the judge's statement—accusing him of invading the jury's province—and was twice cited by Dawson for contempt.

Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, his ex-mistress, are accused of killing Mrs. Finch to avoid a costly divorce settlement. Finch testified that he and Carole went to see Mrs. Finch to talk about divorce and that she was shot accidentally in a struggle over the gun she had pulled.

The judge rejected this story and said the one told by the prosecution was more reasonable.

Dawson emphasized the jury was not bound to abide by his views. But he said he was entitled to comment under the law and the state constitution.

Applications For Absentee Ballots Rise

The total number of absentee voter applications rose to 4,436 yesterday, with the addition of 368 voters who can vote only for president and vice president.

County Clerk George S. Jones explained that the 368 represent Marin residents who have not lived in the state long enough to vote for local and state offices and propositions. However, they did turn in affidavits of registration last September to qualify for voting for the president and vice president only.

Those who have applied under this category have through Monday to come to the county clerk's office to vote. Since they cannot vote in the precincts, the only way they can cast ballots is by absentee vote.

The number of absentee applications for next Tuesday's election is the biggest in Marin history.

NIXON OUTPOLLS BROWN

Dick Nixon's Popularity In His Home State Has Never Been Greater!

Since boyhood, Dick Nixon has been a favorite native son. His Whittier neighbors remember him as the prompt and courteous delivery boy from his father's store. His classmates remember him as their successful candidate for student body president . . . his teachers as a self-reliant, conscientious student with a remarkable capacity for hard work. Family friends know well the close family spirit and religious background that have sustained Dick Nixon as he made his own way in a career that is an inspiration to every young American.

This warm and enthusiastic support that Dick Nixon has engendered in his fellow Californians . . . and the complete confidence they place in him as a leader, have been dramatically expressed by formation of NIXON IN '60 Clubs in every county in the state—in hundreds of towns and cities. It was demonstrated beyond question in this year's Primary Election when California Republicans—outnumbered in total registration—gave Dick Nixon a smashing vote total that completely overshadowed Democrat Governor Edmund G. Brown.

Day in and day out, the affection and confidence the people place in Dick Nixon is expressed repeatedly in the public statements of individual Californians in all walks of life . . . and in the editorials of newspapers in all parts of the state.

THE PRESS SALUTES NIXON

SAN DIEGO UNION
The United States Presidency goes to the man who fights hardest for the right to move into the White House, who convinces the American people he is right for the job. Richard Nixon is well equipped to wage such a battle.

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER
Our opinion (of Nixon) was expressed some time ago by Shakespeare . . . "Courage mounteth with occasion." Yes, and stature, too. There were many occasions to test Mr. Nixon's courage and he didn't walk away from one.

DINUBA SENTINEL
Regardless of one's political ties, any thinking individual will readily admit that few, if any vice presidents have taken such an active part in this country's affairs as Richard Nixon . . . he has demonstrated his capabilities and now stands out as the Republican Party's most qualified candidate for President.

SACRAMENTO UNION
Richard Nixon talks . . . the kind of straight-from-the-shoulder talk that most Americans have been waiting to hear from American leadership for years.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE
Nixon points the way for a hard-hitting campaign by the Republican Party.

FULLERTON NEWS TRIBUNE
We're admittedly partial to a native son, but we believe . . . that if any Republican can lead his party to success, Richard Nixon is the man.

ST. HELENA STAR
Richard Nixon is by all odds, the best fitted to be President . . . a personality which transcends party lines so completely, that to us, it seems certain he will be elected.

RICHMOND INDEPENDENT
Nixon deserves the nation's applause.

THE PEOPLE SALUTE NIXON

PAUL R. WILLIAMS, Noted Los Angeles Architect: "The Negro people of his state know Dick Nixon as a friend and a man of dedication and integrity."

MRS. VIRGINIA SAVELL, La Canada, President, Young Republicans of California: "The youth of California, who perhaps have the greatest single stake in their country's future, have always been in the vanguard of Dick Nixon's supporters . . ."

MORRIS WEISBERGER, Secretary-Treasurer, Sailors Union of the Pacific: "Richard Nixon is a strong, decisive leader who is persuasive in dealing with persons who hold differing views and he has won the respect of both management and labor because of that. He has our unqualified support."

STANLEY MCCAFFREY, Berkeley, former Vice President, University of California: "It has been my privilege to know Dick Nixon virtually his entire life and I regard him as a man of intelligence and fine personal qualities . . . a man whom fellow Americans can trust, in whom they can take pride and place their absolute confidence."

JOHN P. VUKASIN, JR., Oakland attorney: "Richard Nixon is the most qualified and best trained man for President."

JOHN W. HAGGERTY, Los Angeles insurance executive: "No one in the nation today can match Dick Nixon's training for the Presidency . . . we're backing Nixon all the way."

LEMOINE BLANCHARD, Los Angeles City Councilman: "The election of Dick Nixon as our next President is vitally important to the welfare of America and to the people of California."

JOSEPH MARTIN, JR., President, San Francisco Public Utilities Commission: "Vice President Nixon is by far the outstanding national leader qualified by training and experience to serve as President."

FORMER PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER: "If everyone in the city of Washington possessed the high level of courage, probity and patriotism of Richard Nixon, this would be a far better nation."

PEGGY HORTON, Los Angeles: "I will be twenty-one this June, at which time I plan to become a registered Republican . . . Ever since Mr. Nixon became vice president, I have wanted to see him become President."

HAROLD J. POWERS, Former Lieutenant Governor: "Nixon is a great candidate and a great American. I have always favored him and will throw all my weight behind him."

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER, Mayor of San Francisco: "California Republicans take great pride in supporting a fellow Californian and a man trained for the office of the President of the United States."

CARROLL W. PARCHER, Publisher, Glendale News Press: "I have never seen a campaign favoring a man for high office starting with more genuine enthusiasm or with more authentic grass-roots support."

WILLIAM F. LEISER, Noted San Francisco sports columnist: "I admire Dick Nixon as the only American ever to best Khrushchev . . . and especially on his home grounds. Like a true All American athlete, Nixon fights cleanly, intelligently, and with all his strength. He'll win any big one — as he did against Khrushchev — with a smile."

'GIFT' BUILDS LAW SCHOOL

What was termed "the largest gift ever given the University of San Francisco" will make this new law school building possible. Construction of the one-million-dollar building, to be located at the corner of Shrader and Fulton streets, is scheduled to begin about May 1, 1961. Francis Richard Walsh of Kentfield is dean of the USF Law School. Donors of the undisclosed sum of money were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kendrick.

County Counsel Makes County $100 Richer

County Counsel Leland H. Jordan yesterday handed over to Marin County $100 his office had earned for it.

The money came from Charlotte M. O'Connor of San Francisco, secretary in attorney Melvin Belli's law firm.

It was sent in the name of William O. Weissich, former Marin district attorney. But Weissich endorsed the check and gave it to Jordan since it was to cover legal fees for defense of Weissich in his former official capacity, but Weissich hadn't spent anything. He had been defended without charge.

Miss O'Connor sued Weissich for libel on a basis of false accusation that she'd helped actor Sterling Hayden take his four sons on a South Seas cruise against court order.

When Weissich had discovered Miss O'Connor wasn't on the schooner Wanderer Tahitibound he dismissed the complaint, but she alleged her reputation had been hurt.

Marin Superior Court found otherwise and in dismissing the action charged Miss O'Connor $12.50 court fees plus $100 for cost of the Weissich defense.

Jordan indicated that he thought the court valued his services a little on the low side, but nonetheless "it's nice to know I've made some money for the county."

So he lost no time in sending the check on to the auditor's office.

Marin Yacht Club Plan Put Before Engineers

A "long-range plan for the next three years" has been placed before the Army Corps of Engineers by the Marin Yacht Club on San Pedro Road, East San Rafael.

It requests a permit to dredge, fill and construct additional facilities for small boats at Goose Neck Bend on San Rafael Creek but is more extensive than the club is in position to carry out at once, according to Commodore Robert T. Evju.

"We have in mind expanding facilities initially by only about 10 to 20 new boat berths," said Evju. "I wish we could say we have a big high-winding project under way but it can't be done in full for a while to come."

The permit application calls for dredging and enlarging the club's existing harbor basin within Goose Neck Bend and with dredged material there is to be constructed a causeway across the channel and a parking area adjoining the creek. The causeway is to give access to the parking area.

Finger piers to accommodate approximately 170 small craft are called for by the application.

A temporary-submerged pipeline across the creek would be installed near the existing entrance to the yacht harbor, laid along the bottom of the waterway at a minimum depth of six feet below mean lower low water. This is to convey surplus dredged material from the harbor to a disposal site on the south side of the creek.

Commodore Evju said the pipe will be an early requirement of the work.

Any objections must be submitted in triplicate to the U.S. Army Engineer District office at 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco, no later than Nov. 20.

Brusatori Heads Dystrophy Drive

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin County Superior Court has accepted the position of honorary chairman of the 1960 Muscular Dystrophy Drive, it was announced today by Marin chapter President Louis Crottogini.

Campaign chairman H. M. Locke of San Anselmo has set $8,000 as the goal for 1960. The date for the annual "march against muscular dystrophy" has been set for Dec. 4. Recruitment of 800 volunteers is now underway, Locke said.

Funds are needed to support the patient service program in Marin as well as the international program of research, Locke reported.

Tam Forms New Study Committees

Two new study committees have been appointed in Tamalpais Union High School District.

A mathematics curriculum committee is studying new developments in mathematics instruction, and an advisory study committee is considering revision of sabbatical leave policy.

The advisory study committee, formed at request of the board of trustees, is composed of Robert Prather, district coordinator of child welfare and attendance; Mrs. Harriett Crabb, girls' assistant principal at Drake; George Pohlmann of Tamalpais; Robert Mautner of Redwood, Mardys Whiteman of Drake, and Torrey.

Tiburon Chamber Interested In Association

The Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce will invite representatives from the Mill Valley and Sausalito Chambers of Commerce to discuss formation of an Associated Chambers of Commerce at its noon luncheon meeting Tuesday at Tiburon Tommy's Pier 41 restaurant on Main Street.

Nominating committee co-chairmen, Stuart Burt and Fred G. Zelinsky, will present the slate of officers for 1961, according to president Robert A. Sterling.

Also on the agenda is a report on the proposed parking authority district by committee chairman Felix M. Warburg.

Taking Ag Course

Thomas Hoertkorn, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School in 1958 and a former student at College of Marin has enrolled in the agricultural business management program at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoertkorn, 27 El Cerrito Avenue, San Anselmo.

San Rafael To Discuss Developing General Plan

The possibility of developing a general plan for San Rafael will be discussed at the San Rafael City Council meeting 8 p.m. Monday in the city hall.

The plan, which would include a study of streets and highways, parks and recreation and zoning was recommended by City Manager Dan E. Andersen. He said the federal urban renewal program may provide half the money needed for such a plan.

San Rafael is now paying $15,000 for a traffic plan being developed by Daniel Coleman of San Francisco and $32,000 for a park and recreation masterplan being drawn up by planning consultant Kenneth R. Anderson.

The city manager and Coleman met with Elton Andrews, director of the state planning office this week to discuss how these two plans could be merged in a complete general plan for the city, with the federal government splitting the cost. Andersen will make his report to the city council on Monday.

Three public hearings will be held Monday night. They include the codification of the city ordinances, and the annexation of three small uninhabited parcels adjacent to Highway 101 in Terra Linda, and a one acre uninhabited parcel in the industrial area of San Rafael near DuBois Street.

City Clerk W. L. Morgan will report to the council on the number of signatures obtained on the petitions for annexing the Terra Linda community. A public hearing on annexation is expected to be set.

The public works department will report on the costs of improving Park Street from Mission Avenue to Belle Avenue and also the proposed assessment district requested by property owners along Francisco Boulevard from East Railroad Avenue to the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Other matters for consideration by the council will be the appeal of Dr. William Neal against a use permit granted for a 20-unit apartment house on Professional Center Parkway, whether to approve the use permit for a Mobil Oil gas station on the north side of Francisco Boulevard or buy the land for a future extension of Bellam Boulevard, approval of final map for putting in the last patch of paving along Manuel Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda and a request of City Treasurer A. J. (Angie) Soldavini to burn old records.

Tam Rallies To Top Drake, 20-18

Domino Scores Twice In See-Saw Contest

By GLENN BECKER

Sophomore halfback Warren Domino tallied two second-half touchdowns last night to lead Tamalpais to a see-saw 20-18 triumph over arch-rival Drake. Tam, overcoming a first-half rash of five fumbles, thus managed to remain in the running for the Marin Athletic League title. The Indians, 3-1 in the league, trail pace-setting Redwood, who was 3-0 prior to this afternoon's clash with Marin Catholic.

Domino's third and fourth quarter heroics were capped with the game-winning TD, a 56-yard ramble early in the final period to overcome a shortlived 18-13 lead of Drake. A tremendous hole was opened up at left tackle, and the big Injun speedster whistled into the Pirate secondary so fast the Buccaneers could not catch him. Halfback Pat Morgan, who tallied the first Tam TD, slashed for his second extra point of the evening, and the Indians had a 20-18 lead.

It didn't seem possible that, with about 10 minutes remaining in the game, the two explosive elevens had tossed their last thunderbolts. Despite eight fumbles during the game, both Tam and Drake had shown plenty of punch. Each scored the first time it had the ball.

TD PARADE

The Pirates started the touchdown parade after recovering their opening kickoff, an onside squib kick, which tactic was used twice successfully in Marin games last week. Rich Bottini raced three yards around left end for the score, which was set up by a 25-yard burst over center by Mike Bresnan. A kick for the conversion was blocked.

Tamalpais retaliated immediately, marching 56 yards in seven plays to square accounts with Drake again. Morgan skirted left end for 21 yards and the TD, but the conversion boot by Tam was blocked.

Late in the first quarter, the fumble-itis which afflicted both teams until the end of the half reared its slippery head. Drake gave the ball away twice, but the Pirates were completely outdone by Tam. The Indians, hitting new heights of futility, fumbled five times, four on successive offensive plays!

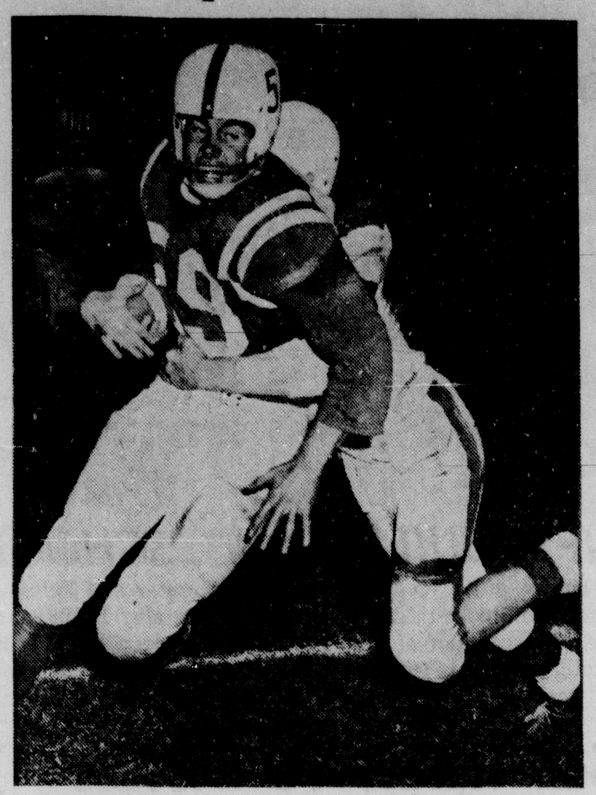
Tam went ahead for the first time when, midway through the third period, the Injuns drove 62 yards on the ball-carrying of Morgan and Domino. The latter contributed runs of 15, 17 on a big fourth down play, and 14 for the tally. Morgan carried for the conversion.

The Pirates were far from finished, however. They took the Tam kickoff and marched 70 yards to score. End Bill Collins rang up the TD with a 19-yard pass reception from quarterback Sam Johnson. That gave Drake the lead once again, but it only set the stage for Domino's game-winning effort.

As he did last week, Indian fullback-linebacker Norm Kreuter played an outstanding game, especially on defense. He was ably supported by defensive end Sandy English and tackles Pete Dornbach and Rick Snow. They were opposed by the fine efforts of Drake's end Gary Schlueter, tackle Bob Whelan, defensive back Doug Roix, and the big fullback Moriarty.



PIRATE CAPTURED — Drake Pirates' Sam Johnson was hauled down from behind by Tam's Paul Farren on this fourth quarter play. Johnson was returning a kickoff and picked up 12 yards before the Indian collared him.

Raiders May Lose 400 Gs In First Year

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Football League's Oakland franchise, one of the key outposts for the new circuit in its dollar battle with the established National League, is being shaken by internal rumblings amid reports the club will lose $400,000 this season.

Squabbling among owners of the Raiders, who dropped a 34-28 decision to Boston last night in one of two games on the AFL program, was further amplified when it was reported that general manager Chet Soda has threatened to move the franchise out of Oakland.

Soda, one of the eight co-owners of the AFL club which is in direct competition with the NFL San Francisco 49ers, said unless some final plans could be made for an Oakland stadium "we might have to think of moving elsewhere."

Another co-owner, Robert Osborne—also a member of the Oakland City Council—castigated his partners by terming some members of the group "cry babies who don't like losing money that they had known and anticipated they were going to lose."

CHARGERS WIN

While the Raiders were losing at Boston, the Los Angeles Chargers defeated the New Titans 21-7 and took over the Western Division lead with a 5-3 record, a half-game in front of Denver.

The Broncos get a chance to pull even when they meet Eastern Division-leading Houston (5-2) in a game tomorrow at Denver. Dallas is at Buffalo to round out the weekend schedule.

Halfback Paul Lowe sped 62 yards for a second-period touchdown that gave the Chargers a commanding 14-0 lead over the Titans (4-5) after Howie Ferguson plunged for the first Los Angeles score. Quarterback Al Dorow, chased by a hard-charging line, hit Dewel Bohling with a 19-yard pass in the third quarter for New York's only score.

By PAUL MILLER

A capacity crowd at San Rafael Stadium last night witnessed a spectacular and closely fought football game in which the San Rafael Bulldogs were defeated by hard-running Novato High, 14 to 13.

Both clubs, highly spirited and set on victory, were at a 7-7 deadlock at the half time with the Hornets getting their 14 points in the third period and San Rafael recording a final TD in the fourth quarter. The Bulldogs missed a second PAT in a incomplete pass play to give the Hornets their slight margin of victory.

San Rafael made a spectacular bid in a passing drive during the final 32 seconds of play with five passing plays off the arm of quarterback Jack Sovereign. The first three attempts from San Rafael's 34 to the Novato 17 were sucessful, but the Hornets cracked down to hold ground there until the clock died.

Novato was the authoritative team in the first period, allowing the Bulldogs to snap the ball only three times. The Hornets came up with their first digits at the end of that quarter after recovering a San Rafael fumble on the Novato 31 and in short drives, plus a 29-yard pass play boost, ended up on the Bulldog two. Halfback Graig Bond ran the leather over and big tackle John Cook, whose big toe can be credited with the victory, completed the conversion to make it 7 to 0.

The pass play that gave Novato's 12-play push its real boost was from quarterback Don Scribner to Lu Haas from Novato's 39-yard line.

San Rafael had just received the kickoff when the second quarter began and the Red and White "K-Nines" felt it was their turn to dominate a quarter. In nine plays and 42 yards the score was 7-7. And after the TD San Rafael allowed the Hornets only eight plays until the half.

Billy Roberts, who ate up a lot of milage around Novato ends last night, scored the first Bulldog touchdown from a yard out after he had carried the ball for about a four-yard average in the nine-down series. Quarterback Sovereign threw a connector to end Randy Petrini, who had sticky fingers all evening, to make the PAT.

The remainer of the quarter was fought mostly on the ground with Novato on the defensive. Twenty-two seconds before the half, Hornet Scribner flipped a sailer out near the San Rafael 48-yard marker where the ball was grabbed by hardworking Roberts to be run back to the Novato 30. San Rafael could not move from beyond the Novato five before intermission.

A long and colorful halftime included several fistfights and the restraining of a football player from diving into the stands and entering the fray at the outset of the third period.

San Rafael received the kickoff to begin that quarter, but in three speedy plays Novato had the ball and in two more, another touchdown. The exchange came when the Bulldogs attempted a pass from their own 40. The ball was pulled down by a white persey with 70 on it which rumbled like a piece of heavy equipment for the county road department to the Bulldog nine-yard line. Now that Lu Haas had set it up, light-footed Scribner danced it over his right guard for the TD after fullback Bill Henderson had edged it in to the six.

On the next play, whether he was aware of its importance or not kicking tackle John Cook established the winning one-point margin as the ball went through the big H.

San Rafael, in the third period had a fairly good opportunity to score. They were inside Novato's three-yard line for three plays, and inside the 17 for seven trys. Second string quarterback Roy Whittaker, Roberts, and finally Sovereign failed to crack the white wall in the center of the Novato line built by granite defenders Cook and Art Cherry. Novato took charge after the fourth down and drove out to the six from where they punted.

In about the last four minutes of the tilt the Novato white wall was again put to the test. San Rafael got near it when Petrini made a heroic catch on Novato's 20-yard line and carried to where he was knocked out of bounds at the three. Sovereign had thrown the pass from the Novato 43.

The Bulldog quarterback still thought he could crack the great white wall. He hit it from three yards out for no gain. He smashed it again and got to the six-inch line. The next play was fourth and last chance. Novato had already held once that evening and it looked like it was going to be a repeater, but Soveriegn called down by a white jersey a repeater, but Sovereign calltook a hand-off from Sovereign and tore through a narrow, but sufficient, right tackle hole to conquer the white wall and put the score at 14-13.

Novato coach Marlin Olsen and his club were swamped by fans at the end of the fight. Olsen gave much of the credit for the victory to halfback Bond who led the Hornet rush-in attack by quick starts and shifty, fast running drives.

"It was a great game is about all I can say right now!" yelled the coach over the cheering fans.

McKeever On The Mend, To Root For Team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mike McKeever, recovering from a brain operation at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, will be rooting today from his sickbed for a Southern California victory over Washington.

The Trojan's team physician, Dr. Thomas Cline, said the All-America candidate guard would be allowed to have a radio in his room today to listen to the crucial Athletic Association of Western Universities game, which may decide what team will represent the west in the Rose Bowl.

The USC varsity has vowed to win the game for McKeever, who was kicked in the head in the Stanford game and underwent brain surgery to remove a blood clot Tuesday night. Doctors found a second blood clot of indeterminate age when they operated.

Mike's family, fiancee and a few close friends have been allowed to visit him at the hospital, but Dr. Cline ordered the youth to do as little talking as possible.

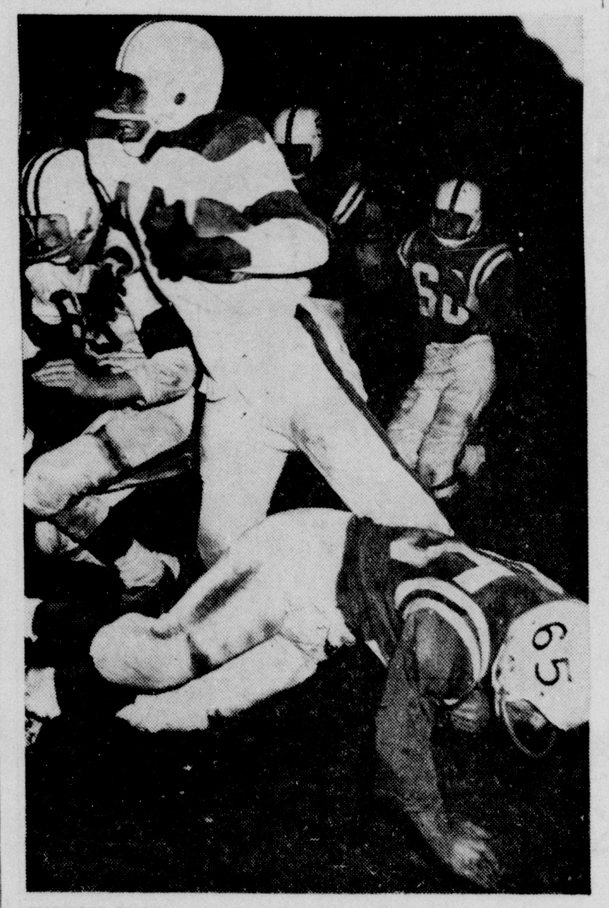
Seymour Elected M. V. Tennis Prexy

Philip Seymour was elected to succeed Melvin Klyce as president of the Mill Valley Tennis Club this week at the annual meeting of the club's general membership.

Other officers will be Lloyd Postel, vice president; James Reeve, secretary; and Philip T. Smith, treasurer.

Two new directors chosen were John K. Bloom and James Stephenson, and two re-elected were Klyce and Smith. Stephenson will also serve as membership chairman and Bloom as house and grounds chairman.



INDIAN STAR — Tam's Warren Domino is pictured making 17-yard gain on crucial first down play in third quarter. Tripping him up is Drake's Lou Ramsay (65).

Meadow Club Gals Defeats Presidio

Meadow Club's women's golf team defeated the Presidio Golf Club by 51 points this week in the second of their home and home series to even up the standings at one win each.

Seventy-four women, 37 from each club, participated in the match vs. par tournament. Following are class leaders:

Class A — Mrs. Harry Hensler, 4 up; Mrs. John Cann, even; Mrs. Elwood Rake, even; Mrs. Al Quilici, even.

Class B — Mrs. John Weitzel, 3 up; Mrs. H. C. Transue, even; Mrs. H. A. Cannon (Presidio), 2 down; Mrs. E. J. Hubbell, 2 down; Mrs. R. J. Fuite, 2 down.

Class C — Mrs. C. Winternitz (Presidio), 1 up; Mrs. R. E. Van Der Naillen (Presidio), 2 down; Mrs. Robert Quinlan, 4 down.

Charley Powell Hurt In Game Against Patriots

BOSTON (AP)—Defensive end Charley Powell suffered bruises and possible cracks to his ribs last night in the Oakland Raiders 34-28 loss to the Boston Patriots. Powell was to undergo X-rays when the Raiders return to Oakland today.

G.G. Fields Show How You Can Lose Money Faster

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Saturday's shorts:

Golden Gate Fields introduced "racing every 20 minutes" to its fans this week. A nine-race card was run off in less than three and one-half hours. To the wagering public it was wonderful—a change to lose your money that much faster, and still get home in time for dinner. . .

AND SPEAKING of race tracks, we see that Diners' Club cards now are good for admission to some race tracks. When they get these credit cards to become good at the pari-mutuel windows — that will be the day! . . .

IT'S OBVIOUS that the Oakland Raiders are going to be in business in the American Football League next year — but where, nobody knows. There is talk of moving the franchise to Seattle, to Portland or maybe San Diego. President Chet Soda keeps busy denying one rumor after another—and always ends up with a "but . . ." which leaves the situation in doubt from one day to the next. . .

SPEAKING OF "20 minute racing" at Golden Gate Fields, the idea isn't exactly new. They've had the same thing at Phoenix, Ariz., for years. . .

ALVIN DARK, new manager of the San Francisco Giants, is noted as one of the finest golfers in professional baseball. He won the players' tournament three times in Florida. But he should keep in mind what happened to Lefty O'Doul when he managed the old San Francisco Seals. Lefty was fired because he "played too much golf." ★★★

49ers Favored By TD Over Lions

San Francisco 49ers, not boasting over a 3-3 record but still retaining visions of a Western Division National Football League pennant, are one-touchdown favorites to defeat the Detroit Lions in their Kezar Stadium battle tomorrow.

Lucky to win their first encounter with the Lions, 14-10, the 49ers this time will rely on young John Brodie to do the quarterbacking chores. Veteran Y. A. Tittle is on the injury list, but it was Brodie who brought San Francisco from behind to beat the Lions the last time they tangled in the motor city.

Coach Red Hickey announces that he'll also use sprint ace Ray Norton this time. Norton, who reported to San Francisco after the Olympic Games, is supposed to have the signals down now and will be ready for action—if needed.

However, he won't get a starting berth. Along with Brodie will be Hugh McElhenny, R. C. Owens and J. D. Smith. Veteran fullback Joe Perry also will see action. And it is possible that Abe Woodson, who goes full time on defense, also may do some ball packing on the offensive side.

Jim Ninowski will do the signal-calling for the Lions along with Dan Lewis, Howard "Hopalong" Casady and Nick Pietrosante in the backfield.

The Lions have won only one game this year—whipping the Baltimore Colts, world champions. They usually run up a lot of yardage, but have had trouble getting the ball across the scoring line.

Kick-off time is 1:30 p.m. and about 45,000 fans are expected to watch the battle.

'Crucials' Headline Pro Grid Tomorrow

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Giants, at a make-or-break juncture in the national Football League race, stake their hopes for an upset over the Cleveland Browns tomorrow on the return of Charlie Conerly and an old formula of pass, kick and dig-in-on-defense.

Coincidentally, the champion Baltimore Colts also reach a critical game in their quest of a third straight NFL championship when they play the Western Division-leading Green Bay Packers.

The Giants' situation appears more serious, however. They are 7-point underdogs in an away-from-home game while the Colts are favored by 9 at home.

49ERS FAVORED

The American Football League also has a standout game pitting the Houston Oilers, Eastern Division leaders, against the Denver Broncos, who share first place in the Western Division. Houston is favored by 1 point for the game at Denver. The Dallas Texans were the choice by 2 points against the Bills at Buffalo.

Cleveland has not beaten the Giants in their five latest meetings, including a 1958 playoff for the Eastern Division title. During that stretch the Giants' defense held the Browns to a total of only 40 points. Linebacker Sam Huff did an especially good job of checking Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, the league's leading rusher.

Whether the New York defense can do it again is questionable. For one thing, quarterback Milt Plum gives the Browns better passing than they have had. He has completed 74.3 per cent of his passes and has not had one intercepted.

Brown still leads the league in rushing and Bobby Mitchell has developed into one of the best breakaway runners in pro football.

The Giants should get a lift from the presence of 39-year-old Conerly, who has been out practically the whole season with a sore elbow, and the return of punter Don Chandler, who averaged 46.6 yards per kick last year.

Giants Clout Japan Stars

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Righthander Jack Sanford pitched the San Francisco Giants to a 9-1 victory over the Japan All-Stars today before 20,000 American and Japanese baseball fans.

Sanford allowed seven scattered hits and fanned three Japanese batters in going the route. It was Sanford's first win in three Japanese appearances. He was backed by 14 hits, including two homers and a triple that netted the Giants seven of their nine runs.

The Giants now have six wins against three losses and one tie in their 16-game barnstorming tour.

The Giants exploded for seven runs on six hits in the first inning. A triple by Willie McCovey with the bases full and a homer by Andre Rodgers with two on accounted for six of the runs. Orlando Cepeda's single drove in the other. Eddie Bressoud hit the other Giant homer in the ninth. It was his first round-tripper of the tour.

The Japanese run came in the eighth on two walks, a single and a passed ball by catcher Bob Schmidt.

THE CHAMP—Betsy Rawls (above), leading professional women's golf money winner in 1952 and 1959, will appear at the Indian Valley Golf Club next Tuesday to play an exhibition match and conduct a clinic. The golfing feature will begin at 11:30 a.m. and is free to the public. Miss Rawls and a number of local golf champions will play a special nine-hole match and the clinic will conclude the day. Women golfers are invited to play a morning round free of charge and compare their scores, with the aid of handicap, against Miss Rawls'. The golf champ has won 39 championships for more than $100,000 in prize money since 1951.

Mrs. McGee shot her first hole in one last November.

BOSTON WINS 34-28

Raider Story: So Near, Yet So Far

BOSTON (AP) — Halfback Tony Teresa of the Oakland Raiders put it perfectly. "So near," he said, "yet so far."

His words could barely be heard amid the disgusted shouts, kicked lockers and hurled equipment in the Oakland dressing room last night after the Boston Patriots beat the Raiders 34-28.

Two Oakland fumbles and an errant pass that was intercepted by Boston gave the Patriots 17 points and a 20-7 halftime lead. The Raiders roared back with three second-half touchdowns but they had given away too much to a Patriot team they had beaten in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

A pair of fine runs, by Teresa and little Jack Larscheid, gave the Raiders late chances to pull out the victory—but they couldn't punch over that last vital touchdown.

Larscheid ran a third-quarter kickoff 72 yards to the Patriot 23 but the Oakland offense bogged down. In the fourth period Teresa broke loose for 40 yards to the Boston 6—but the Raiders were frustrated again.

"If I had only kept going straight," Teresa moaned later, "I probably could have outrun the Boston guy and gone in. But instead I cut. That's the story of this game—so near, yet so far."

Boston, losingest team in the American Football League prior to the game, now is 3-5. Oakland, third in the AFL's Western Division is 4-5.

Quarterback Butch Songin delighted the 8,446 fans with 16 completions in 36 passes for 264 yards and three touchdowns. Dick Christy ran for 60 yards and caught five Songin passes for 124 more.

But it was a heartbreaking loss for the Raiders after a superb performance by Teresa. The halfback from San Jose State scored three touchdowns, racked up 91 yards in 14 carries and was a ball of fire all night. It was his fumble, however, that gave the Patriots the ball on the Oakland 20 and set up the first of Gino Cappelletti's two field goals.

In addition to Teresa's three touchdowns, of 1, 3 and 20 yards, Tom Flores tallied on an 8-yard scamper. Larry Barnes converted after each Raider TD.

The Raiders returned to Oakland today.

Cal Softball Champs Arrive In Formosa

The Lionettes have won the World Women's Softball Championship five of the 11 times the tournament has been held.

The visitors clash with a Chinese girls team Sunday and are scheduled to play other games at three of Formosa's leading cities, Kaohsiung, Tainan and Taichung.

CONNOLLY

I guess it is all for the best, the way things have turned out for the S. F. Giants, because there is a big chance Alvin Dark, the new manager, will not be an "assistant manager" to owner Horace Stoneham as many think.

What I mean is that contrary to some reports Alvin is not a "yes man" at all, but a fellow who thinks and acts for himself under any and all circumstances.

I realize that each and every one of you has a varied approach to the main theme — how will the Giants do in 1961?

For some unexplainable reason the Giant setup has provoked a brawl as to who is to blame, the managers of the ball club or its owner, Stoneham.

There may be more yells in the night because of Dark's appointment as head man. I understand some of the disappointed are now planning a flank attack on Stoneham.

But as I see it Dark may not attract any extra fans who want a show-boat manager, but when they see how his ball club performs they might come to think of him as a man of many moods and many understanding traits.

DURING OUR press chat the other day, Dark revealed that he isn't an all-out hit and run manager, nor is he a fellow who always plays for one run. He definitely stated the inning, the opposing team, the guy at bat, his speed and agility, have to be taken into consideration before he will hang up the sign.

"I like to play percentage baseball," Dark explained, "but sometimes it is against the odds to do so early in the game. That is why the long ball has played such an important part in the new era of baseball."

As every Giant fan knows, Orlando Cepeda is a fugitive from a fly ball. He has a terror of batted balls that fall from above, so before Dark moves Willie McCovey back into the Giant infield, he may do some experimenting with the Wild Bull of Puerto Rico.

"IF IT IS O.K. with you fellows," Dark said by way of explaining himself, "I'd prefer to be silent on my plans concerning the players now on the Giant roster. So many decisions have to be made on the scene at spring training, that I'm a bit gun shy on exposing or revealing my inner thoughts. All I can say is that when I go over details with the management and we exchange ideas, there may be sales or trades, but they should be made with the overall picture in mind and not simply due to the play or failure of players last season."

So you can figure one thing is certain on Dark's managerial debut. He wants it to be a solid one and not a wishy washy thing like so many other changes have been with the club since it came to San Francisco.

IF WE LOSE the Giants as a magnet to draw the fans, our sports picture in northern California will place us as another hick community that doesn't want anything but winners.

After three years of sitting and waiting and watching the Giants fumble and stumble, I'd say right now they are better off material wise than they've been since coming here.

And if Alvin Dark can merit the praise of those eastern writers like Art Daley and Jimmy Cannon, who really know their baseball, I'm stringing along the same way.

GRID STAR—Richard Weil (above), former Redwood High School star, now a freshman at Oberlin College in Ohio, has been playing guard on the offensive unit, and linebacker on defense. He came up with his best performance last Saturday as a defensive end.

Hall Of Famer Dies

TORRANCE (UPI) — Bobby Wallace, 87, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame and a former big league manager, died yesterday in a convalescent home.

Wallace broke into big time baseball in 1894 and was a standout shortstop. He established a major league record for most chances handled successfully in a single game and once managed the old St. Louis Browns.

Corinthian's Mid-Winter Series Starts Tomorrow

By ALFRED MATSON

The Corinthian Yacht Club's mid-winter series gets under way with a full program of racing on the docket tomorrow. After the initial event there will be four more regattas in the series—Nov. 27, Dec. 11, Jan. 8 and Feb. 5.

All races start and finish off the host clubhouse with the first contingent, Acorns and Pacific Clippers, heeding the starter's gun at 11:30 a.m.

Due to unpredictable wind conditions at this time of the year, often a dead calm but near gales are a possibility, as well, the courses for each class or division is not issued until five minutes prior to that particular start.

Participants will be informed through the flying of the proper signal pennant and display of a numbered panel on the porch rail adjacent to the flag pole.

Winter racing, now entering its ninth season, has attracted new recruits with each program. To date over 150 yachtsmen have registered their boats with the race committee and more latecomers are expected. So, with reasonable breaks from the weatherman, fleets of 175 or better will engage in combat during the winter months ahead.

THE ONE time pride and joy of Humphrey Bogart, the big racing yawl Santana, is now on her way up the coast to further swell the amazing roster of gold platers registered in the Cruising Club. The Santana was purchased by veteran yachtsman Wally Nickell of the San Francisco Yacht Club.

Sportsmen For Clem Miller

F. O. BOX 825, FORT BRAGG, CALIFORNIA

Dear Fellow Sportsman:

The Nov. 8 election is important to all Redwood Empire sportsmen. Our Congressman, Clem Miller, is up for re-election. We believe he is the best friend our sportsmen have ever had in Washington. Clem learns about our problems and does something about them. Here are a few examples:

1. His sponsorship last year of the Marine Game Fish Research Act, which Congress PASSED.

2. His ORGANIZING AND CONDUCTING of the Conference on Northern California Fishing Problems, at Marin Rod & Gun Club last November. Fishery scientists, fishermen, state and federal fish and game officials from four states spelled out the urgent need for basic research to save our North Coast salmon and steelhead while we still have them to save.

3. His battle (armed with facts learned at the Marin conference) this year for funds to get going on the research authorized in the 1959 act. Result: $150,000 appropriated; WORK BEGUN.

4. His current FOLLOW-THROUGH efforts to have the Pacific Coast field station for this new research work located in Northern California.

5. His co-sponsorship of legislation to step up vital stream pollution control work. PASSED by Congress, vetoed by White House.

6. His leadership in congressional insistence that the Navy clear up San Francisco Bay pollution. Appropriation made; WORK UNDERWAY.

Clem Miller gets things done for the sportsman. But there's always unfinished business in Congress. For example, there's the "Save our Shorelines" bill — No. 1 goal of the Izaak Walton League.

We hope you will agree that we should KEEP OUR WORKING CONGRESSMAN ON THE JOB in Washington by re-electing Congressman Clem Miller November 8th.

Sincerely,
Ray E. Welsh

Race Between McCarthy And Geller Decade's Tenure Challenged In Senate

John F. McCarthy, San Rafael Republican, has been Marin's state senator since 1950. The 13th senatorial district is contiguous with the county.

Challenging McCarthy's reelection is Charles M. Geller, San Anselmo electrician, who resigned as secretary of the Marin County Building Trades Council to make the race. Geller's only previous public office was as a member of the Marin County Board of Freeholders which drafted a proposed county charter that failed of passage in 1958.

Both incumbent McCarthy and Geller are particularly acquainted with Marin's largest industry — home building: McCarthy as a contractor and Geller as an electrician and an official of construction unions.

McCarthy, who in the cross-filing days had captured both parties' nominations in the June primary, sought to repeat that performance this year with a write-in campaign on the Democratic ticket. Although the attempt failed, he captured 5,210 Democratic votes to 7,630 for Geller. A second Democratic candidate who appeared on the ballot, Max Miller, received 4,123. Miller has since endorsed Geller.

No Marin candidate has a kind word for Proposition 15, which would redistrict the State Senate and deprive Marin of a senator all its own. But most outspoken of all against the measure has been McCarthy.

At one time he threatened that if Southern Californians succeeded in putting a redistricting proposal on the ballot, he would retaliate by organizing a Northern California campaign to defeat the state water bond issue (Proposition 1), badly needed by Southern California. He abandoned this plan, however.

McCarthy is the author of bills for the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge and for creation of the Golden Gate Authority, among others.

Geller has attacked McCarthy's voting record on various measures.

As a contractor, he has been associated in various residential development projects in Marin County.

Geller, his wife, Patricia and their two younger daughters reside at 99 Redwood Road, San Anselmo. The eldest daughter is married and lives in Sacramento.

Geller was born in Portland, Ore. He moved around much in childhood and youth, attending schools in Oregon, California and Texas. Today is his 51st birthday.

Although the board of freeholders was Geller's only elective office, he has served on the Marin County Postwar Planning Committee, the Marin Contra Costa Citizens Committee for the San Rafael Bridge, the original Bay Area Rapid Transit Committee and the Citizens Building Code Committee. He has been active in the Cancer Society, Heart Assn. and Marin Mineral Society. He has conducted world politics discussion groups, financed by the Ford Foundation and sponsored by University of California Extension, in Marin and San Francisco.

College Adult Program Has 2,222 Students

A total of 2,222 students are now enrolled in the College of Marin adult education program, it was announced by Dr. Samuel N. LeCount, adult education director.

Of these, 1,913 are enrolled in the general program as opposed to 1,759 last year. In the apprentice program are 217, an increase of four over the 1959 enrollment. Parent education students have increased by nine, with 92 registered at the present time.

The number of those enrolled in more than one class totals 298, bringing the overall classroom enrollment to 2,520. At the same time last year only 249 students took more than one class.

Fees from the program this year amounted to $8,752.

Concert Planned At Olney Hall

The Marin Madrigale and the Terra Linda Blockflute Players will present a concert of music for voices and recorders at 8:30 p.m., Nov. 11, at Olney Hall, College of Marin.

The Marin Madrigale is directed by Barry Mineah, and the Terra Linda Blockflute Players are under the direction of Leo Christiansen.

Refreshments will be served on stage during intermission. All proceeds go to the Marin County YWCA.

Novelist Snow To Speak At 3-R School

Sir Charles P. Snow, British novelist, critic and professor, will speak to English teachers of Marin County on Nov. 14 on "Contemporary Trends in Literature in Russia, Great Britain and the United States."

Sir Charles, who is regents' professor of English at University of California this year, will speak at the 3-R School in San Rafael. English teachers in public and private schools of the county have been invited.

Snow's works of fiction include the seven-novel cycle called "Strangers and Brothers," of which "The Affair" is the latest unit.

On Rally Group

Investigation Yields Key To Burglaries

Because a deputy sheriff nabbed two boys as they were attempting to take a bicycle from in front of Oliver Hartzell School, two San Anselmo home burglaries and the looting of a locked car were cleared up yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Lightfoot caught the boys yesterday in the school yard, in San Rafael Meadows just outside the San Rafael city limits. Learning the pair were runaways from Sunny Hills Presbyterian Orphanage in San Anselmo, he took them to the San Anselmo police station.

As Juvenile Officer Chester Orr of the Hub City force was questioning them, one of the boys drew from his pocket an expensive gold watch, which Orr recognized as identical with one reported stolen from the home of M. R. Convis at 14 Alderney Rd., San Anselmo, on Halloween.

Under questioning, the two boys implicated two other Sunny Hills boys. Among them, reported Officer Orr, the four—three 13-year-olds and a 12-year-old — admitted break-ins of the Convis home, the home of Mrs. T. J. O'Mara at 266 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, and the locked car of Benjamin Braun, parked in front of his home at 44 Oakland Avenue, San Anselmo.

From the Convis home, the boys stole the watch, jewelry, cigarettes, fountain pens and cigarette lighters. From the O'Mara home on the afternoon of Oct. 26, they took fireworks and an electric lantern. From Braun's car yesterday, they got 10 quarters.

DuPuis Will Close Campaign Monday

Congressional candidate Fred G. DuPuis will close his bid for the Redwood Empire's seat in the House of Representatives on Monday with a "prop stop" tour of the entire First District and motorcades in each of its seven counties.

Accompanied by his wife, Marybelle, and traveling by airplane, the Republican candidate will go from his home in Tiburon to the Petaluma airport for a 7 a.m. takeoff. From Petaluma, he will fly to Napa, then to Lakeport, Ukiah, Fort Bragg, Crescent City, Arcata and Eureka.

DuPuis and his wife will stay overnight in Eureka, making four live television appearances on stations KIEM-TV and KVIQ-TV, and fly home to Marin on Tuesday morning to cast their ballots.

Jewish Center Plans Party For Children

An all-day outing and roller skating party for children from 6 to 12 years will be sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This is the first in the fall season of school vacation programs offered by the center. This and future vacation programs will be limited to center members only.

DONNA BARI ZANDER PLANS A WEDDING IN FEBRUARY

Donna is a graduate of Dominican High School and Dominican College. She has a sister, Lorna Ann Zander, who was graduated from Pine Manor Junior College, Welleseley, Mass.

Don is the son of Mrs. Dennis J. Kelleher of San Francisco and the late Mr. Kelleher. He is the brother of Joan Patricia Kelleher who lives in New York City. Don is a graduate of St. Ignatius High School and attended San Francisco City College and University of San Francisco. He is a member of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

San Anselmo's Presbyterian Guild Plans Thank Offering

The annual thank offering luncheon and program of the First Presbyterian Women's Guild of San Anselmo will take place on Thursday, Nov. 10. Luncheon will be served at noon by the Bertha Cumming's Circle.

The World Service Dept. will put on a program of praise, meditation, and sharing. Mrs. Paul Bodine, chairman, will carry out her program with the theme, "That she who knows, cares, and she who cares, shares."

Through the 1960 thank offering the United Presbyterian women share in answering the calls "From Where Cometh My Help?" Through the Board of National Missions will come help to the young people in areas of particular stress and need in the south and southwestern sections of the United States. They will offer financial support to Educational Counseling Service. Through the Board of Christian Education this offering will help implement Operation Youth of 1960. There will also be improvements made in the library facilities at Rocky Mountain College in the Montana-Wyoming area.

Through the commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations this offering will bring help and healing in Korea. The new medical center at Severance Hospital will be equipped. Slides will be shown to illustrate the work being done in these areas.

Bernheims Have Girl

A fourth generation has been added to prominent Marin families with the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bernheim of Belvedere. The baby, who was born at Children's Hospital, San Francisco on Oct. 29, weighed 6 pounds, 5 ounces and has been named Brenda. Mrs. Bernheim, the former Linda Fromhagen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fromhagen and the granddaughter of Mrs. H. R. Schreiber, all of Sausalito. Brenda's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jules Bernheim of San Francisco.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Jewel Ball tonight at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco will be the most glamorous of all the glamorous events staged by the San Francisco Junior Auxiliary of the Stanford Convalescent Home. Rare jewels will flash against a lavish background of gold and red. Objets d'art add to the richness of the decor. And lovely members in ballerina length jewel toned gowns will display the rare gems.

One of the "jewel girls" is Mrs. Albert T. Domergue of Sausalito. Barbara's gown for modeling is pink peau de soie and ruby red velvet. However, when she and her husband, Captain Domergue, arrive at the hotel with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shannon of the Reedlands and the George Fays of Mill Valley, who are having cocktails with them at home first, she will be wearing a white lace sheath with a flying panel at the back. Mrs. Shannon has chosen a Hulitar model of champagne satin. Captain Domergue, who is in the Merchant Marine and just back from the Orient, is now on a three months vacation.

Mrs. Nadine Purdy is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunn, the Dan Samons, Mr. and Mrs. Max Thalen, the Kenneth Dorkings and Walter Freitas. The Dorkings, former residents of San Rafael, who now are living in Lafayette, are hoping to return to Marin soon. The Theodore Schoonmakers will have as their guests the Kenneth Hulmes and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stevens.

At the table of the Ray Hoffmans will be Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Daneri and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hodes. Among others at the dinner dance will be Messrs. and Mesdames H. Bruce Bernard, George Fay, Jerome Adams, Peter Fisher, John Robinson, Charles McPherson and A. E. Castle.

The Hoffmans recently returned from Europe. Virginia, with the children, Ray and Lynn, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Hansen of Aptos, went to the continent in June. The husbands joined them for the Olympic Games in Rome and then the children and Mrs. Hansen returned home. Ray and Virginia remained to see Paris and visit Ireland.

DAME MARGOT FONTEYN, prima ballerina of the Royal Ballet of Britain, which last night opened a 10-day engagement at the San Francisco Opera House, will be guest of honor at the dinner Sen. and Mrs. John F. McCarthy are giving tonight at their Fairhills home. Arriving with Dame Margot will be Micheal Soames, also of the Sadler Well's Ballet. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. James Knox. Rita Knox and the famous British dancer have been close friends ever since they attended a ballet school in the Philippines.

Of course, the McCarthys and Rita and Jim attended last night's performance. Other first nighters were Mr. and Mrs. William O. Weissich of San Rafael and the Lee Bledsoes of Sleepy Hollow.

A WEEKEND at Borrego, near San Diego, was enjoyed last week by a group of Marinites who flew south with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paganini of Ross and stayed at their place at Borrego. In the Paganinis' party were John O'Connell, who played in the pro-amateur golf tournament, and his wife, the Andrew Halleys and Ed Mahoneys.

A WEEK ago tonight Mr. and Mrs. William Evers of San Francisco entertained at a dance in the barn at the Ross place of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Evers. Decorations included many cobwebs. Weird sounds added to the spookiness of the Halloween event. An orchestra played for the dancing and many games made the evening merry. Guests in costume, climbed a ladder to the "dance floor."

MOVING TO HAWAII are the William Armors and their sons, Richard, 16, and Gary, 13. Mr. Armor who is an associate of the John Carl Warnecke architectural firm of San Francisco, which designed the new capitol building in Honolulu in cooperation with local planners, is already in the islands. Mrs. Armor and the boys will join him about Thanksgiving time. The Armors are considering leasing their San Rafael home.

DINNER PARTIES this time of year are mostly small and informal. Tonight the Herbert Crockers of San Rafael will be hosts at one. The Ed Detricks of Kentfield will be dinner hosts a week from tonight.

A SURPRISE at the luncheon given by Mrs. Leon Smith and Mrs. H. Wallace Hickman at the Meadow Club on Tuesday for members of their committee for the Northgate Group's traditional cocktail party in December, was the presentation of a birthday cake. The cake lighter by one candle was placed before Mrs. Rowland Chapman and the luncheon became a birthday fete.

A VACATION is being enjoyed in Honolulu by the George Gellers for three weeks. They are headquartering at the Reef Hotel. On return to San Rafael they will move to their now home in Harbor Estates. There they will await the arrival of their son, Eli. He went to Europe in April and after extensive travels there went to Israel. He is now en route home.

FASHIONS WITH A VIEW is the intriguing name for the series of luncheons plus style shows to be presented at Ondine's in Sausalito by Marion Bellamy. The first of the luncheon events will be on Thursday and will continue every Thursday with the exception of Thanksgiving Day. For next week's luncheon, guests are coming from San Francisco aboard the Pursuit, one of the fastest boats on the bay. Among those attending will be Mrs. George Russell, wife of the commandant of the 12th Naval District; Mrs. Malcolm Munger, whose husband, Captain Munger, is chief of staff of the district; Mrs. Winifred Chapin, whose husband is president of the National Naval Reserve Association and Mrs. H. B. Holbrook. Admiral Holbrook is executive director of the association. The men are attending the Naval Reserve convention to be held in San Francisco Nov. 15 to 19.

Marion says the latest clothes will be modeled with Marin and San Francisco stores and shops alternating.

PERIPATETIC Sausalitans are returning home in time to cast their votes. Mrs. Thomas B. Wiper has returned from Europe. Dr. Wiper preceded her home. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spring are enroute back from Africa. The Earl Thompsons ended their European travels last week with their neighbors, Vic and Irene Wollman, getting together in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Barkdull are home from a three weeks stay in Spain and Portugal—countries they had not visited on other trips. And from the other side of the world, Miss Else Honigbaum has returned from a trip to the Orient.

Two Brothers Are At Sea On A Yacht

Two young Kentfield brothers are enjoying adventures which make them the envy of their classmates. The boys, Hugh Wallace, a senior at Redwood High School, who is almost 18 and William (Bill) Wallace, 12, a seventh grader at Kentfield school, aboard the yacht Tomboy, are now in Kingston, Jamaica, and will sail from there through the Panama Canal to Acapulco. The owner of the yacht, Juan March, and his wife live there. Dr. William B. Wallace took his sons to Miami where they boarded the yacht and then he flew home.

Hugh wrote to his parents from Port-au-Prince in Haiti telling of an adventure which took place the night before they put into the harbor: "It was abou 9:30 at night, all was quiet and peaceful and dark. Suddenly I thought I heard a rhythmic splash and whispering of voices. I got out the spotlight and shone it over the side of Tomboy and saw a boat filled to the gunwales with soldiers armed to the teeth with automatic rifles and one a B.A.R. type. Thank Heaven, Juan speaks French as none of the boarding force of Haitians spoke one word of either Spanish or English. We were all searched individually and the boat was searched too. It seems we were suspected of "gun running" or transporting contraband. Finally we were ordered to go to the village. This was just about too much because the Haitians were yelling in French, Ernesto in Spanish and Juan was trying to explain the danger of running at night without depth-finder (it had gone "out of whack" that day) so near the land. But again Thank Heaven, there were 15 fathoms of water all the way."

Hugh and Bill both told of a slight collision at sea, when the Tomboy was struck and its bowsprit knocked off by a work boat.

Hugh has done some skin diving and the boys trolled, catching a baracuda and a tuna which they gave to the natives of Haiti.

Just before the Tomboy arrived in Port Antonino Jamaica, she ran aground. Bill said "Within three minutes there were three rowboats at our bow. We tried everything but finally had to hire them for $2. a head ($10) to get us off.

A passenger on the boat was J. Linton Rigg, an author, who has written "Sailing in the Bahamas," considered one of the best books for sailors. He is an American citizen and lives in Georgetown.

NEW EASY WAY TO MODERNIZE YOUR PLUMBING

Additive keeps you up-to-date automatically. Now you don't have to wait 20 years or more for your present plumbing to become obsolete. Simple algae formations present in all water soak up sodium fluoride like a sponge, concentrates it up to 8,000 parts per million at joints and connections: Result — your pipes may need replacing in as little as 5 years! If you prefer your plumbing to last 20 years or more and to buy medicine at the drug store, VOTE NO on Proposition "B."

A BRIDE-ELECT. Linda Mae Sharrow whose engagement to James Franklin Reis of Mill Valley has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Sharrow of San Anselmo.

James Reis, Miss Sharrow Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Sharrow of San Anselmo announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Mae Sharrow, to James Franklin Reis.

Linda, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, is now in her junior year at Highland School of Nursing in Oakland. She has a sister, Jane Marie, and a brother, Steven Harold, both of San Anselmo. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Loudon of Mill Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Leander A Sharrow of Orangevale. She is the great granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Thomas of Kentfield.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Reis of Mill Valley. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and served three years in the Army in Korea. He is employed at H. Koch and Sons. James has a sister, Mrs. Marvin R. Kattner of San Anselmo, and two brothers, John W. Reis of Fairfax and Joseph F. Reis Jr. of San Diego. He is the grandson of Mrs. Lera Heynen of Corte Madera and Marianno L. Reis of San Anselmo and the late Mrs. Reis.

The wedding is tentatively set for late summer of 1962.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 5, the 310th day of the year with 56 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1605, Guy Fawkes, hired by conspirators against English King James the first and Parliament, was seized as he was about to blow up the House of Lords.

In 1733, a German immigrant to the United States, John Peter Zenger, began to publish a newspaper, opposed to the autocratic rule of the royal governor of New York, William Cosby.

In 1855, five-time socialist candidate for the presidency, Eugene V. Debs was born in Terre Haute, Ind.

A thought for today: American Writer H. L. Mencken said: "Time is a great legalizer, even in the field of morals."

Playground Crushes Are Common Among Kindergarten Youngsters

P.R. "Several doctors told my sister that she never could become a mother. On their advice she and her husband adopted a baby. Now she is pregnant. The same thing has happened to other women. Can you tell me why?"

Reply. As you say, many of the sterile women who adopt babies later have children of their own. No one knows for sure why. The commonest theory is that taking care of a baby satisfies a woman's basic instincts. Life becomes happier and more meaningful. Strains are relaxed and physical as well as psychological changes follow. With them comes fertility.

R.L.A. "My girl is 5. She told me a boy in her kindergarten had kissed her, and I complained to the teacher. Then I learned that my daughter had chased him all over the playground. Her friends held him while she did the kissing. What is wrong with my girl?"

Reply. Probably nothing. Many little girls have crushes on boys, and chase them. Many little boys don't mind being caught. I'd suggest that the kindergarten playground be supervised a bit more closely. The kissing should be prevented.

Mrs. V.G. "I'm worried about nursing my baby, which will arrive any day. Until my pregnancy I was very flat-chested. Does this mean I'll not have enough milk?"

Reply. Many flat-chested mothers nurse their babies successfully. Some pediatricians feel they're more apt to produce good milk than women with large bosoms. Be sure to talk with your doctor.

Some mothers prefer to feed their wee ones from a bottle. This may deprive the baby emotionally. There are many exceptions, of course, but from the mental health viewpoint breast-feeding usually is better.

Atomic Aide Rules Out Planning Children During X-Ray Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A state official concerned with atomic energy problems announced today he would urge people undergoing X-ray examination to avoid conceiving children immediately afterward.

Any person in the reproductive period of life who receives X-rays to the body's midsection takes a chance of producing offspring with some genetic change, and the change more often than not can be an unfavorable one, he said. Such defects might not show up for generations but they conceivably could include susceptibility to leukemia or infection and mental or physical deformities.

This position was taken by Alexander Grendon, coordinator of atomic energy development and radiation protection, after consultation with Dr. Herman J. Miller, noted authority on the genetic effects of radiation, and other experts in that field.

Grendon is in a newly created position on the staff of Gov. Brown. He is a retired army colonel who served in the chemical corps and the artillery. More recently he studied bio-physics at the University of California.

"Dr. Muller freely approved the idea when I asked him if it would be advisable," Grendon said in an interview today. "So I am going to advise individuals exposed to X-rays to avoid conception for a month or two anyway.

"Even if they hold off for a week they will reduce somewhat the chances of producing offspring with genetic changes. Two weeks is better; a month better yet, and two months is best.

"This does not apply to dental or chest X-rays, which produce little or no hazard. And I would not advise a person to refuse a needed X-ray for the sake of fertility. If a doctor says an X-ray is needed, the individual should accept this as paramount."

Grendon said he would include this advice in the content of his future speeches and hopes to publish and distribute a bulletin on the subject. He said he planned to ask funds in the next biennial budget for wider dissenination of public information on radiation protection generally.

Grendon said Dr. Hardin Jones, University of California medical physicist, and Dr. Everett Dempster, a professor of genetics on thes Berkeley campus, had endorsed his position generally.

Dr. Muller, Nobel prize winner from the University of Indiana, recently addressed a genetics symposium here under the sponsorship of the Kaiser Foundation. He referred to X-rays as "a bull in the china shop of genetics."

Grendon attended the symposium and consulted Dr. Muller there.

SOME SPILLED MILK, DRIVER HURT

The driver of this milk truck, Franklin L. Terry, said he slammed into a sign pole on the East-Shore Freeway near Oakland to avoid hitting some autos involved in a minor accident yesterday. Terry who was able to jump clear of the wreck received minor injuries. (AP Wirephoto)

Theory On Lung Cancer Attacked By Scientists

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A series of scientific experiments have attacked a conspicuous weakness in the theory that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer. The experiments showed how smoking might be a cause.

Air passages from nose to the depths of the lungs are lined with ciliated cells. These cells vibrate—they beat. They form dancing surfaces, as it were, and foreign substances are bounced along in one direction—outward. This is how the body keeps the air passages clean.

Therefore, if the tars of cigarette smoke do contain cancer-causing substances, how could they accumulate in the ling cells of lungs? You'd think the bouncing ciliated cells would prevent that. Dr. John J. Ballenger of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., attacked the question.

He scraped ciliated cells out of the throats of young children. These were not likely to have been contaminated by unnatural living. These cells he cultured in a nutritional solution in sealed but transparent chambers, since ciliated cells are sensittive to variations in humidity.

He then bubbled cigarette smoke through these chambers. The smoke of only two cigarettes was enough to stop the rotational movement of the aggregate of ciliated cells within five to 28 minutes, he reported to the New England Journal of Medicine. These results he got from 12 consecutive experiments.

Ballenger drew conclusions which are bound to be attacked by some colleagues because there was no proof that ciliated cells in laboratory solution behave precisely the way ciliated cells behave in the body when moistened by natural body fluids.

That proof would be extremely hard if not impossible to come by because of the difficulty of experimenting with ciliated cells while they are still serving an organism and its organs. Previous detached experiments were with those of rats and other laboratory animals.

BEAUTIFUL GREENBRAE

INVITES YOU TO SEE THE ARISTOCRAT

NEWEST FURNISHED DISPLAY HOME

290 Eliseo Drive. Open Every Day 10:30 to 5:30

FURNISHED BY CASA MARIN OF SAN RAFAEL
Designed by R. R. Zahm, AIA Built by Schultz Bldg. Co. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, loads of closet space, G.E. kitchen, beamed ceilings in living room, dining room and kitchen, window walls open to a wide deck—and to a marvelously wide and charming panoramic view. With an outstanding exterior design, this is truly an "aristocrat" among homes.

3 and 4 Bedrooms — Each Specially Designed

LOTS LOTS LOTS

Greenbrae lots are planned and laid out so that their homes—designed for each specific site—are able to take the greatest advantage of their special features of sunshine, shelter or view. You can choose your own builder and build whenever you are ready.

$5,500 — Bay View—74x104 ft. with an already graded building site and a view of the S. F. Bay. Located just three blocks from the elementary school. You will search long and far before you find a lot that can compare with this at anything like the price.

$7,500 — 80-ft. frontage with a large oak tree in front. Located two blocks from Greenbrae school. Already graded, ready for building. You just can't miss on this.

HOME SPECIALS

$31,850—FORMER MODEL HOME—This beauty still looks like Model Home. Privacy and seclusion are the keynotes of this lovely 3-bedroom, 2-tiled-bath home, nestling among the oaks in one of Greenbrae's choicest locations. You'll like the lovely living room with soft paneling and with French doors opening onto a beautifully landscaped and inviting patio with a background of oaks. Sprinkler systems, front and rear. Immaculate condition, inside and out, including the wall-to-wall carpets, drapes and curtains. This is a top value. We urge you to see it without delay.

The location of this fine French Normandy style home is recognized as being perhaps the most desirable in all Marin. Country Club Tract is beautiful, fashionable and convenient. Home was constructed in 1950 of quality materials and is in better than new condition today. 3 bedrms., 2 delightful tile baths, large electric kitchen, attached 2 car garage with door opener. Professionally decorated in lovely muted tones to perfectly set off the costly louvered shutters at all windows. Property is large, fenced, sprinklered, completely level and has an ideal sunny area for a pool. School bus stops within a few steps and the yacht harbor is close at hand. Priced with wall-to-wall carpeting and drapes. An outstanding residence

Students Ready For Spirit Week

San Rafael High School students will kickoff the first Spirit Week in the school's history Monday.

Packed in the five-day program, which marks the end of the football season, are a football game, parade, dance and alumni reunion.

Here is the schedule:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, noon rallies will be held with students dressed in red and white and school corridors draped in crepe paper streamers. Ribbons urging "Be a Bulldog" will be sold by the rally committee.

Thursday is Homecoming Day and a final rally will be held from 3 to 3:30 p.m. in the gym. At 6:15 p.m., the Homecoming Day Parade will start in front of the high school on High Street.

Parade lineup consists of five floats carrying the Homecoming Queen candidates, service clubs, combined freshman-sophomore class officers and one toting the junior-senior class officers; 30 cars filled with students, a fire truck and clown, horses and riders, the majorettes, Plaid Pipers girl's drill team and the high school band led by director Melvin Stanley.

Units will march north on High Street, west on Mission Avenue, south on Mary Street, west on Fourth Street, north on B Street and return to the high school on Mission Avenue.

Circling the field once, the units will assemble to view the announcement and coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

Five candidates have been selected by the members of the football squad who also will elect the queen. The girls, all seniors, are Pamela Stettler of 417 First Street, Victoria Olson of 8 Eva Street, Barbara Woodhurst of 15 Echo Place, Pamela West of 205 Spring Grove Avenue and Ruth Fagundez of 309 G Street.

At 7:30 p.m., the San Rafael Bulldogs play their last game of the season against the Wildcats of Marin Catholic High School.

Following the game, an alumni reunion—the second to be held at the high school in 20 years—will be staged in the gymnasium. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided at the reception.

The homecoming queen will reign over the game and the Homecoming Dance to be held Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the high school gym. Bob Olney of San Rafael and his band will provide the music.

Pamela Stettler and Victoria Olson, the school's two yell leaders, were in charge of organizing San Rafael High's first spirit week.

SECOND TIME IN '60

Hospital Bond Issue Is On Tuesday Ballot

Financing of a new Marin county hospital and farm in Lucas Valley by $2,250,000 bond issue will be voted on Tuesday for the second time within a half-year.

Members of the County board of supervisors decided on a November vote last spring, then felt that arguments for this method were so strong that voters would approve in June without much preliminary "education."

They were about 1,000 votes wrong. With a two-thirds approval required, the measure on June 7 won 25,334 supporters at the polls but 15,025 votes inopposition were enough to defeat it .

Eventually it is intended to provide capacity of 315 beds though initially a 175-bed one-story structure is planned. The design is of residential type including space and facilities for a vigorous rehabilitation program.

An important feature of the light and airy structure is that it will be earthquake-proof. By contrast, the present cream-colored two-story structure mostly dating back to 1913, could not withstand a severe shake. Sixty to 70 persons, elderly and not in good health and unable to move quickly, are housed in the hospital.

The state has condemned the present building and its continued operation is as shaky as its physical structure. Upon the supervisors rests the obligation to repair it adequately or move the residents into a structure meeting the rigid requirements for a hospital.

To the supervisors it is not arguable that a new county hospital building isn't needed, or that any plan of providing it can compare with a bond issue for economy.

They deny claims that the present buildings are in good condition, pointing out they were condemned was made by the State Bureau of Hospitals and by Harold M. Engle, structural engineer engaged for independent survey by the supervisors.

As to per-square-foot costs, they insist that opponents wish to compare dissimilar things and that a hospital is far more than an ordinary residence.

The basic plan calls for construction around a central core for initial care of 175. This could be expanded later to 315 beds with the same central service area containing kitchen, laundry and laboratories.

As to the cost of financing, studies undertaken at the supervisors' request show general obligation bonds offer by far the most economical procedure.

If lease-option were employed through issuance of bonds by a non-profit corporation with the county becoming full owner only after 20 years, the interest cost would be much higher.

Pay-as-you-go, with immediate start of construction and costs paid out of current tax revenue, would mean a 20 per cent boost in county tax bills for the next two years—a 50-cent addition on each $100 assessed value.

County Auditor Leon A. de Lisle has estimated that general obligation bonds can be financed at an interest rate of seven cents, which would decrease over the years to about two cents toward the end of the 20-year life of the bonds.

Cost of retiring the bonds under a less arrangement would be much higher. Independent reports to the supervisors have given 5½ per cent as the minimum interest rate on such bonds. The City of San Anselmo is now financing a firehouse by lease-purchase, with an interest rate of 5¾ per cent, plus special fees.

Another factor has to do with state approval of facilities.

Marin County now scrapes by on sufferance. State law requires that the county provide adequate facilities to care for the indigent sick and aged. The present facilities are not deemed adequate by the state.

For each patient, provided it runs a licensed hospital, Marin County receives part of the old-age survivors pay. But the system of federal and state payback to county for patients cared for at the hospital and farm puts an obligation to the county to provide facilities approved by the state.

Six Exchange Finalists Approved

Six Redwood High School students have been selected as semi-finalists for American Field Service candidacy. They are Barbara Burne, Martin Denicke, John Katz, Nora Ninninger, Allison Tracy and Diana Whitney.

Of the semi-finalists, one or more will be chosen by A.F.S. headquarters in New York to be an exchange student or a summer resident abroad.

The six were selected on the basis of participation in panel discussions, impromptu speeches, responses to questions and personal interviews.

Selecting the candidates was a panel of judges including members of the A.F.S. committee; several businessmen; Robert Mautner, language teacher; Mrs. Emma Wulzen, dean of girls, and three students, Ned Griffith, Butch Brear and Penn Hammond.

Griffith, one of the students assisting in the selection, was an A.F.S. representative from Redwood last year when he went to Finland.

A-Shelters Suggested At Roadways

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The men who build the streets and freeways in California have suggested that the state begin putting radiation shelters under new or existing city streets.

Pat Wixted, business manager for the Engineering and Grading Contractors Assn., estimated that a typical under-street shelter would protect 750 persons and cost $50,000, or $66 per person. He said that family backyard shelters cost up to $2,000.

Wixted offered the suggestion yesterday to the California shelter committee, composed of officials from various state departments and charged by Gov. Edmund G. Brown with proposing legislation for a state shelter program.

Wixted said that the under-street shelters would be better than private types because "people in large groups would have a better chance to survive."

McCarthy To Seek Funds For Airport

State Sen. John F. McCarthy said today he will seek state funds for development of county airport facilities at Novato if the county's master plan is approved by federal and state agencies.

The master plan, which has been submitted by County Administrator, D. A. Jensen to the Federal Aviation Agency, calls for a development of 130 acres, with runways, terminal, hangars and buildings for use by private aircraft.

San Francisco enjoys Fluoridation's Benefits

WHY SHOULDN'T MARIN?

San Franciscans are blessed with healthier teeth because they have been drinking fluoridated water for 8 years. Specialists in children's dentistry report much less decay in their patients, and a complete absence of cases of massive tooth decay in children such as occurred a few years ago. Even many adults in San Francisco report that they have had no new tooth decay develop since fluoridation. (The U. S. Army fluoridates its water for adults benefit).

San Francisco's experience with fluoridation also serves to prove the complete falsehood of all contentions in the scare campaign conducted by fluoridation's opponents in Marin. For example . . .

- Have you seen any cases of horribly mottled teeth in San Francisco—like those shown in the scare sheets circulated in Marin? Of course not!
- Is San Francisco's plumbing being corroded away by fluoridation? Mr. Medbury, water engineer for the City of San Francisco Water Department has stated: "fluoridation has shown absolutely no effect on the water system in the City of San Francisco after seven years" (at time of this statement).
- Are older people suffering more disease and dying sooner in San Francisco? The insurance companies don't think so. The rates on health and life insurance are the same as in Marin.
- Are the trees and flowers harmed by fluoridation as implied in some of the anti-fluoridation advertising? Just take a walk in Golden Gate Park. Or look atthe gardens in the better kept homes in San Francisco.

SO WHICH SIDE SHOULD YOU BELIEVE?

San Francisco's experience right next door to us proves the flagrant falsehood of the so-called "facts" now being circulated in Marin by the anti-fluoridation group.

The endorsements of the American Medical Association and American Dental Association in favor of fluoridation are the strongest assurance of fluoridation's safety and effectiveness that any thinking citizen could ask.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

McCarthy Has Proven He Deserves To Be Re-Elected

Marin County has for 10 years had one of the most effective legislators in the State Senate.

John F. McCarthy has, since his freshman days in the upper house, been able to represent Marin County and its residents with understanding and ability.

He has grown in stature from that novice of 10 years ago to the most powerful Republican in the State Capitol today. He is leader of the minority party on the Senate Floor. He is vice chairman of the powerful Senate Rules Committee. He has the respect and cooperation of his fellow legislators of both parties in both the Senate and Assembly.

More than that he is an active and energetic representative. His activities are widespread from such major accomplishments as the authorship of legislation creating the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge, to a continuing battle to reduce tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge; from sponsorship of a method of coordinating transportation facilities throughout the Bay Area to legislation by which the state will build an underwater tube from Oakland to San Francisco for rapid transit, if and when we approve a system.

These are only a few of his many accomplishments. He has been in the forefront of those seeking effective conservation, hunting and fishing, and recreational legislation. His billboard regulation campaign, with which we did not agree 100 per cent, has brought him statewide recognition.

He has been one of the battlers for economies in government and fought Gov. Edmund G. Brown's tax increases, which proved so much too high they brought in 120 million or so dollars more than the state needed last year.

McCarthy has been responsive to the requests of the people of Marin. He has been able to carry on their business and represent them well in the State Capitol. He certainly deserves to be returned for another four years.

We recommend that you vote for John F. McCarthy for Senator on Tuesday.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Terry Wade of Greenbrae for his election as governor of the statewide YMCA's Model Legislature next February. Speaking on education, Terry won votes over Mike Hofmayer of Palo Alto, who discussed lowering the voting age to 18. Twenty six Y units, with one vote each, caucused and voted. Terry didn't get his needed 14 votes until well down the roll call, but wound up with 18.

A BRICKBAT: To the genius who so uniformly manages to operate San Rafael traffic lights on a strictly non-synchronized basis.

A BOUQUET to the oil companies if, as reported, they're now allowing gasoline price cuts to let Marin County service stations compete on equal terms with San Francisco, incidentally bringing more gas tax refund money for Marin roads.

A BRICKBAT: To whoever was responsible for poisoning two dogs of a Sausalito family.

A BOUQUET: To the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency for granting improved terms to buyers of new private homes in Marin City.

BOUQUETS to the two Hamilton Air Force Base Airmen, Joseph D. Hamilton and Robert G. Butcher, for their alertness, courage and determination in spotting an escaped San Quentin convict, following him in a high speed automobile race, and capturing him after he tried to escape on foot. We hope the Air Force suitably recognizes their service to the people of Marin.

A BRICKBAT to the world's meanest thief, who stole $500 in cash from a benefit being held for a woman whose husband was lost at sea last month. Happily, the thief failed to get nearly $4,000 in checks.

BOUQUETS to the Ross Police Department and the Marin County Sheriff's Office for finally nabbing the long-sought "pillow case burglars" and letting us all get some sleep again.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

LOSES TWO YEARS WORK

The results of two painstaking years of photographic study were stolen from the car of an architecture student. And it happened just before he was to sail from New York for his home in Vienna.

The loss of his 3,000 color photos particularly depressed him because they represented 24 months of carefully planned camera work in all parts of this country. Trekking through 50,000 miles in 40 states, he had gathered an unusual collection of pictures of American structures, from adobe huts to skyscrapers.

We can only imagine how crushing an experience this must have been for the diligent student. It far outshadowed the loss of his other belongings.

Far worse, however, is the feeling that one has squandered a whole lifetime in pursuit of selfish possessions that must be left behind when the time comes to face the judgment of God.

(Matthew 6:20)

Grant me the vision and wisdom, O Lord, to prepare by a well-spent life for an eternity with You.

ILLUMINATED SOJOURN

IN 87TH CONGRESS

Miller, Engle Favored More Federal Power

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—Where do candidates for the 87th Congress stand on a central question of the 1960 compaign: should the responsibilities of the federal government be enlarged, maintained or diminished?

To provide a useful yardstick, Congressional Quarterly examined all 602 roll-call votes in the 86th Congress and selected 26 of these—14 in the Senate, 12 in the House—as tests of the members' positions on the question of a larger or smaller federal role.

The test votes touched on most of the major controversies over domestic policy that have seen Democrats pitted against Republicans, Congress against the Administration. Most, but not all, of the votes involved the question of federal expenditures.

AMONG THE TESTS were comparable roll calls in Senate and House concerning federal aid for housing and urban renewal, airport construction, depressed areas, school construction, and subsidies for lead and zinc producers and the fishing industry. Other votes involved the issue of federal-state relations in the handling of labor disputes and the protection of civil rights.

By adding up the scores of individual Senators and Representatives, it was found that the average Democrat in the 86th Congress supported a larger federal role (or opposed a smaller one) four times as often as the average Republican—74 per cent of the time against 19 per cent.

Conversely, the average Republican supported a smaller federal role (or opposed a larger one) more than three times as often as the average Democrat—78 per cent to 23 per cent.

REP. CLEMENT W. Miller (D) of Corte Madera, Calif., supported a larger federal role on 11 of the 12 test votes. He supported only one measure involving a smaller federal role. It proposed a price support alternative for wheat and feed grain producers and was defeated.

This gave Miller scores of 92 per cent in support of a larger federal government role and 8 per cent in support of a smaller one.

California senators have this record. Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R) supported a larger federal role on 7 of 14 test votes and a smaller federal role on five. This gave him scores of 50 per cent on a larger role and 36 per cent in support of a smaller.

Sen. Clair Engle (D) supported a larger role in 12 of the 14 votes and a smaller role in two, giving him 86 per cent for more mederal expansion and 14 per cent for less.

AMONG THE 66 DEMOCRATS seated in the Senate at adjournment, 48 supported a larger federal role on 11 or more of the 14 test votes; only three Democrats opposed a larger role on all of the tests. Among the 34 GOP senators, none supported a larger federal role on all of the votes, while five failed to do so even once.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) was among the 16 Democrats who supported a larger federal role on each of the 14 test votes.

In the House, 63 of the 280 Democrats supported a larger federal role on each of the 12 test votes, while 48 of the 152 Republicans just as consistently supported a smaller federal role.

Demo Chiefs Concede Marin, Workers Object

DAY

Election Day is Tuesday and, just between you and me, I'm tickled pink. I'm pooped. Being a candidate has nothing on trying to report an election.

As the final day approaches, the Kennedy-Johnson campaign headquarters came out with a county-by-county rundown on how their candidates would do.

Marin was one of four counties in the state "conceded" to Richard Nixon. The other three were San Diego, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara.

Four other counties, Lake, Monterey, San Mateo, and Santa Clara were put in the "very close" or "toss-up" category. Six counties didn't report and the rest were claimed for Jack Kennedy including the state by half a million to a million votes.

Of Marin County the report said:

"Traditionally Republican Marin is conceded to Nixon by the Kennedy-Johnson chairmen, who nonetheless predict substantial gains in Democratic strength. Marin voted for Eisenhower in 1956 by 33,792 to 17,301."

There are those Democratic workers, however, who don't agree with their chairmen. Some high up in the campaign are privately predicting Marin could split 50-50 for Nixon and Kennedy.

SPEAKING OF SCIENTIFIC predicting of elections, the three Ashley boys, Peter, Jeff and Ken, got a new Ouija board this week. Seeking to try it out, two of the boys sat down, placed their hands properly on the moving pointer, and asked who would win the election. The board spelled out N-I-X-O-N. Then another combination of the boys tried it. Same result. And the third pairing tried it. Still N-I-X-O-N.

Father Ross is an outspoken Republican and he bought the Ouija board.

ALTHOUGH IT SEEMS rather late to be mentioning such a thing, we had a letter from a Humboldt resident this week announcing himself as a write-in candidate for Congress from this district.

LeRoy St. Clair, of Alton, Calif., offers himself on a platform of "A money reform bill to prevent inflation and deflation and a pay as you go tax bill to end all taxes." Sounds good.

We hear from Mr. St. Clair, a Democrat, about once every two years — when he announces himself as a write-in candidate for Congress.

A COUPLE OF weeks ago, Sonoma Republicans put in a rush call for Price J. Hall of Larkspur, the flack for Republican Assembly candidate William Bagley, to help plan the county GOP's big fund-raising dinner last weekend.

Hall has had experience at that sort of thing. He's planned several Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners for the Democrats, of which he is one.

I'VE BEEN ASKED numerous times where the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey came from. The symbols were drawn by Thomas Nast, a cartoonist, who first used them in a series of political cartoons in the 1870s.

10 YEARS AGO

A condemnation suit to let Mill Valley proceed with straightening Miller Avenue was filed by City Atty. Thomas Nelson in superior court against the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and others, seeking to obtain land on which the freight station stood.

County road workmen graded the surface of the west grounds of the courthouse in San Rafael, preparing for paving as a parking lot.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I came across a political advertisement in the Nov. 3 issue, which I find immensely interesting. "When in doubt, vote no," is says, and underneath: "The majority of the ballot measures will either cost you money or benefit someone other than yourself."

After I had recovered from the initial shock, and had asked myself all the obvious questions, such as "How can people living in the 20th century under a democratic form of government advocate criteria openly based on self-interest?" and other questions that I worded less politely, such as: "How have we managed to retain people with caveman mentalities in our society?" and "What can such people feel when they gaze in the mirror?"—after I had asked myself these questions I began to reflect on the libidinal appeal of the advertisement, and to consider how, when the chips (or rather the curtains of the voting booths) are down, this kind of consideration, even in our society, may be the one that decides the outcome.

How else can we explain our defeating so many recent school bond issues — didn't many of the voters assume that their children, whom the ballot measures were designed to benefit, were people other than themselves?

Perhaps, I told myself, in a sudden, desperate fit of optimism, the people who represent such beliefs (if one can credit such notions with having been arrived at by an intellectual process) are sent to us as a kind of warning, in much the way Nature warns us when we are sick by making us feel weak.

They reveal our most dangerous impulses to us at the precise moment when we can no longer afford them if we are to survive.

Nixon Shuts Out Kennedy In Early (Illegal) Marin Voting

Most of the columnists and national pollsters are reporting a definite trend toward John Kennedy.

But in Marin, County Clerk George Jones comes up with an unofficial "poll" that gives Kennedy no chance at all.

Seems that when the sample ballots were mailed out, some citizens got the mistaken notion that these were to be marked and mailed back. This week, four of these invalid sample ballots came trickling back in the mails. According to Jones, the result showed Richard Nixon—4; John Kennedy—0.

ROBERT W. ALLEN of Pt. Reyes is a reasonable man. When his wife got notice to serve as election officer, Allen said okay, he'd babysit. Then when he got a notice to serve too, he didn't blow up.

"I'd be happy to," wrote Allen to County Clerk Jones, "if you would come to babysit for me."

Jones, who has been out of practice for 50 years, said "no thanks" and excused Allen.

A STARTLING election prediction comes from astute political observer Bill White of Terra Linda.

"If Kennedy is elected," Bill announces solemnly, "I predict that in three days, all banks will be closed and troops will be marching up the streets!"

Let's see, election day is the 8th. Is it possible that all of that could happen by the 11th?

ABOUT THIS TIME next week, drunks and drunken drivers will probably be coming into court, blaming Kennedy or Nixon for their woes.

When the Yanks lost the World Series, one drunken driver stood before the judge and admitted he got stewed.

SPEAKING OF ALCOHOL, Marin now has an Alcoholics Anonymous 35 and Under Group.

Then there's the Saturday Night Group that meets in church, followed the morning after by a Breakfast Group that meets over coffee Sunday morning.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT is already infiltrating the county courthouse. The other day, a drunk caught in Sausalito was sentenced to 30 days in jail, to be served during weekends.

"Every weekend except Christmas," Judge Leonard Thomas added as an afterthought.

DID YOU NOTICE California Highway Patrolman Duncan Snell, in full uniform, paying a $1 parking tag in the traffic department the other day?

His private car was found overparked.

They presented a debate this week, announcing a "brand new program idea" of listeners telephoning questions to the panel.

KTIM's award-winning Sounding Board has been using the same format for eight years.

County Hospital Worst In State

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

No one knows better than we the need for improvement of our county hospital and farm facilities.

During the past 25 years, our ambulances have made numerous trips to and from nearly all county hospitals in California. These trips afforded us an excellent opportunity to compare how various counties take care of their les fortunate people — real people like you and I.

Without any doubt, Marin has one of the best county hospital sites and one of the worst county hospital facility in the state. It is only because of the fine work of the staff that the situation is not intolerable. If the facilities were better exposed to the citizens of Marin, they would have been corrected 20 years ago. Anyone making a tour through, NOT JUST TO, our county hospital cannot in good conscience vote against the bonds to correct this situation. We hope everyone votes Yes on Prop. A.

It's fun tracking back the origin of stories some scribes have the gall to claim they "originated." Here are two you may recognize, for instance, that Maxwell Droke spotted in a jokebook published in the 1870's:

1. Before the War Between the States, a Southern proprietor of a crossroads store called to his servant, "Amos, have you watered the whiskey?" "Yas, suh." "Sanded the sugar?" "Yas, suh." "Added dirt to the pepper?" "Yas, suh." "That's fine, Amos. Now you can come in to prayers."

2. A hat was passed around a certain congregation to provide a purse for the visiting minister. It came back absolutely empty. The visiting minister shook it mournfully, then raised his eyes to heaven and exclaimed, "I thank Thee, dear Lord, that I got my hat back from this congregation!"

Rory Baxter writes that a couple on his floor have worked out the ideal arrangement. One night a week he goes out with the boys—and the other six nights, she goes out with them.

Kitty Oppenheimer Of Station KTIM

At Early Age She Learned Value Of Serving Others

By DON KEOWN

And yet today she can look back upon an active and satisfying life with few regrets. For while she was denied the opportunity to enter the profession to which she had aspired, she has nevertheless been able to devote a great deal of her busy life to serving her fellow-mankind.

And even today in her job with Marin's civic-minded radio station, KTIM, and in her many outside interests and activities, she is continuing that tradition.

THE DESIRE to serve and help others, she says, is the result of the example set by and training received from her mother, for a number of years the kindly, patient, understanding matron at the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum on San Francisco's Divisidero Street between Grove and Hayes.

But Kitty Oppenheimer's story begins just at the turn of the century when she was born in San Francisco to parents who were also San Francisco-born, Charles and Lillian Green.

Her father, one of 11 children, owned the Columbia Cafe at 13 Powell Street. His establishment was located next door to the Columbia Theater, and, consequently, he had a close acquaintance with many of the leading theater people of the day.

KITTY REMEMBERS that it was a practice for the actors, actresses, directors, producers, etc., to gather in her father's restaurant for refreshments and good talk—in which he participated — after every performance.

Close friends of the Green family included the likes of actor Henry Miller, Ferris Hartman, conductor Paul Steindorf.

"The old Tivoli Theater, which was then the hotbed of comic opera and where Paul Steindorf conducted the orchestra, was almost like home to me," Kitty says. "I not only attended often when a very small girl, but I was taken backstage to meet all the 'greats' in the casts."

One of her clearest memories from her earliest years is of a Christmas Eve when Hartman, whose great play was "The Toymaker," was a guest in the Green home. "He sat me on his lap and told me Christmas stories," she says.

Another intimate of Charles Green was Herman the Great, one of the top magicians of all-time. "He used to do special tricks for me and my cousin Howard," Kitty recalls.

Kitty was in every respect a child of San Francisco, being raised in the heart of the downtown district. The Greens and their only child made their home in those days in the Irving Hotel on Jones Street. And when Kitty first started to school it was at the Denman School for Girls (a public school, but restricted to girls only) only a couple of blocks from the hotel.

SHE ATTENDED classes there through the first and second grades, and then tragedy struck the Green family. Her father, a husky, handsome six-footer of robust health, was suddenly stricken with typhoid during an epidemic and hospitalized. He survived that attack, but, shortly after his return home, caught pneumonia and died.

Lillian Green, only 26, found herself a widow who had never worked outside the home and who had no training for any job other than housekeeping.

But the courageous young widow did have an interest that was to stand her in good stead—photography. Through this hobby she met Arnold Genthe, a famous photographer of the day who specialized in Chinatown scenes. He asked Mrs. Green if she would be interested in learning and working at the stipling of photographs. She agreed and went to work at the Genthe studio to support her child and herself.

But Mrs. Green had always been fascinated by the field of social service, although she had no professional training in such work. Her friends were aware of her interest. So one day one of those friends, the president of the board of directors of the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum, now known as Homeward Terrace, asked her to call on him for an interview concerning the vacant position of matron at the home.

Kitty remembers that she accompanied her mother to that interview.

"The man told mother that there was one thing — the matron couldn't keep her own child or children at the home," she recalls. "Mother said that in that case she was not interested in the job because she would not be separated from me. So the board president agreed that the rule could be waived."

MRS. GREEN landed the job. And for the next eight years she and Kitty were to make their home at the orphan asylum.

The asylum was home to 200 parentless children. Like Kitty and the children of the asylum superintendent, they all attended public schools in the vicinity of the institution.

"Mother loved her work with those children," Kitty says.

Mrs. Green and her daughter were at the asylum at the time the big earthquake and fire struck San Francisco those devastating blows of 1906.

Kitty remembers that the tremors caused extensive damage to the big three-story wooden building that was the orphanage's main structure. The children were moved to the one-story gymnasium, the boys sleeping in one half of the gym, the girls in the other, and the staff being housed on the stage.

Martial law was declared in San Francisco and there were soldiers camping on the grounds of the asylum.

"Neighbors of the orphanage kept their eyes on us," Kitty recalls. "They said they would move if we did. But we didn't. And so no one left their homes in our neighborhood."

THE MAIN orphanage building was repaired and the children moved back in. And life at the institution returned to normal.

Kitty remembers those early days as ones in which her mother placed special stress "on training me to give service to others."

"She used to take me to places where she thought I would learn that lesson," Kitty says.

For instance Mrs. Green took her young daughter to watch the proceedings of the first court to be set up in San Francisco especially for the handling of criminal cases in which women were defendants. Mrs. Green attended as representative of the San Francisco Council of Jewish Women. And often, on behalf of that organization, she extended a helping hand to women of the Jewish faith who had been unfortunate enough to become embroiled in trouble with the law.

It was in these years that ambition for a career in social service burned brightly within her.

"I wanted to be a social service worker, and I especially wanted to study at Hull House," she says.

But when Kitty was 15, her mother remarried. And Kitty quit high school "because I didn't think it was fair for my stepfather to have to pay for my continued education." The social worker career dreams were abandoned.

She enrolled at Heald's Business College and took a commercial course. Still only 15 or 16 she went to work on a part-time job with M. R. Fleischman and Co., a San Francisco manufacturing concern.

It was while working at the Fleichman office that she became reacquainted with a young executive of that firm. He was Mel Oppenheimer, a cousin of the Fleischmans. Nine years older than Kitty, he had known her when she was a little girl. But they had not seen each other for years.

When World War I came, Fleischman devoted a large portion of its manufacturing capacities to the war effort. And Mel was a busy man seeing that the output for Uncle Sam was at its maximum. Kitty devoted a considerable portion of her time to Red Cross work.

Later the Oppenheimers bought a home in San Francisco's Richmond District. It was then, after five years of marriage, that their first daughter, Joan, was born. And four years later a second daughter, Nona, arrived.

Nona is Mrs. Stephen Kaufmann of Strawberry here in Marin County, and also the mother of three — Donald, Janice and Peter.

During those early years of her marriage Kitty found time for volunteer social service work in San Francisco.

Prior to Joan's arrival, she used to take the street car to and from the San Bruno Settlement House where she conducted story hours for the children and was also in charge of the settlement house's library. It was a trip which took hours, but nevertheless an activity she enjoyed.

She was also a worker at the now defunct San Francisco Fruit and Flower Mission.

As a child, daughter Joan was in poor health. The Oppenheimers had made it a practice to spend their summers in Marin, living in a home they would rent for the three or four month period. Mel would then ride the ferry to and from work. The Oppenheimers had a strong attachment to San Francisco, but they also loved Marin. They were particularly fond of hiking or riding along its mountainous and wooded trails.

AND THUS IT did not come as too great a blow when their pediatrician advised them to move from San Francisco to sunnier Marin for the sake of Joan's health. The move was made in 1928.

The family first rented a house in Ross which was their home for seven years. Then they bought a place on Norwood Avenue where Kitty still makes her home.

Shortly after moving to Marin, Mel severed his connections with the Fleischman company and went into business for himself as a manufacturers' representative for several eastern firms. He maintained his office in San Francisco, and commuted to and from work.

The Oppenheimers lost little time in becoming active in Marin community and cultural life.

THEY CONTINUED the hikes on Marin trails that were such a joy to them. They were active in the Ross Valley Players, the Mountain Play Assn., and the Music Chest. Mel served as a Boy Scout leader. And during World War II both Mel and Kitty played active roles in civil defense and Red Cross work. Kitty wrote publicity for the Red Cross, specializing in the vital blood donor program.

She remembers how she and her husband used to work the "graveyard shift" operating the hospital canteen at Hamilton Air Force Base that greeted returning servicemen from overseas.

Talking with Kitty you soon get the idea that she feels that there were not many things at which her husband was not good. But that most of all, she feels he was a "good person."

"Mel was dynamic," Kitty says. "The kind of person who could get things done. And everyone who knew him liked and admired him."

Kitty's mother and stepfather had also moved to Ross. Her mother died in 1934. Her stepfather—"he was a wonderful person"—died only a short time ago.

Mel Oppenheimer died in 1945. It was a crushing blow to Kitty Oppenheimer. The love which had first been kindled when she was a teenage office worker at the Fleischman office and Mel a handsome young executive there had burned brighter and brighter through the years.

ALONG WITH her grief, Kitty Oppenheimer had much the same problem that her widowed mother had faced decades earlier—how to support herself.

"I hadn't worked at a job since my marriage," she recalls, "and I simply didn't have the tiniest idea as to what I was going to do. I had many interests, but none of which seemed to offer the slightest prospect of returning any remuneration."

In 1948 a telephone call to her home provided the answer to her problem. The pleasant voice on the other end of the line belonged to Hugh Turner, manager of radio station KTIM. He asked Kitty to stop by his office for a talk. A puzzled Kitty did so. And Hugh asked her if she would be interested in doing a radio show.

Turner recalls that "at the time we had a program going that consisted of recorded classical music. But we could see that we needed someone who would comment on the music and also interview personalities to step up interest in the show. We knew it would be hard to find a qualified person. But someone suggested a Mrs. Oppenheimer who lives over at Ross and is very active in the Marin Music Chest.' "

THE TELEPHONE call followed.

"I was flabbergasted because I had never previously undertaken anything remotely like broadcasting," Kitty recalls. She thought about Turner's offer. And then replied that she "might" be interested providing she were permitted to use the show to publicize her beloved Marin Music Chest.

"Mr. Turner laughed and said perhaps we might be able to work something out," she says.

But first there had to be an audition tape. At the time young Dave Ford, son of Marin's Ernie and Mary Ford, was doing a young people's program for KTIM and happened to be in the studio. So Hugh Turner told Kitty Oppenheimer to sit down and interview young Ford while their conversation was recorded on tape.

Afterwards the KTIM staff was invited into the studio to listen to the tape.

"It was so terrible that I wanted to fall through the floor," Kitty says.

But the studio staff verdict was otherwise. And thus one of Marin's best known radio personalities was born.

On her initial 15-minute show Kitty played semi-classical and classical recordings and commented on the music. It developed into a program called "Women's Page," which ran a half hour five days per week and won itself a sponsor. Along with the recordings there were interviews of visiting and Marin personalities.

Today's "Open House" interview show over which Kitty presides five days a week, 11 to 11:15 a.m., is an outgrowth of that program.

Her other show, "Sounding Board," now in its eighth year, is heard on Thursdays from 9 to 10 a.m. and is then repeated on Sundays. Marin and regional issues, on rare occasions national issues, are discussed by a panel. Frequently the topics are of a highly controversial nature. And tempers of participants have flared.

What does she do when this occurs?

"There isn't much that you can do," she admits. "You just try to remind the panelists in a diplomatic way that they should stick to the issue and leave personalities out of their discussions."

"Sounding Board" won for KTIM this year the Gold Medal Award as the top public service program by a non-metropolitan radio station in California.

DOES KITTY like her KTIM job? "I'm crazy about it," she says. And which of the two programs—"Sounding Board" or "Open House" — affords her the most enjoyment?

This, she admits, is a difficult question to answer because each show is rewarding in its own way.

"Sounding Board is a challenging program," she explains, "because presiding over a discussion of a hot issue can be a touchy job. You have to keep on your toes.

"On the other hand, Open House is more relaxed and informal.

"And on both shows I meet some very interesting people."

As with her desire to serve, her love for music—and for the theater, books and art as well—she traces to the influence and training of her mother.

"SHE STARTED taking me to art galleries, the theater, the opera, when I was very young," Kitty says. "And after my father died, at night, after a long day, she would read aloud to me from the classics, or we would listen to recordings of classical music."

Kitty still has at her home some original Caruso recordings, now extremely scarce.

"I remember when I was growing up that every Wednesday evening mother and I would go to the Martin Fleischman's (Uncle Martin, I called him) and listen to a string quartet composed of Mr. Fleischman, Dr. Lawrence Hoffman, Dr. Henry Harris and Leonard Waterman.

"These were things which have been part of my life—all my life."

It was not surprising, then, that Kitty Oppenheimer was a member of an original group of five who launched the Marin Music Chest program in 1932. She has been secretary of the organization almost from inception, has served as publicity director since 1932, and is also the Music Chest concert manager.

She has been an honorary member of the Ross Valley Players, of which she was one of the founders. She also wrote publicity for that troupe for a number of years. As mentioned previously, she is active in the Mountain Play Assn. She has a strong interest in Sunny Hills and belongs to its new entertainment guild. The Marin Art and Garden Center is another major interest. She is a member of the board of directors of the Marin Branch of the American Cancer Society.

She is also a member of the Zonta Club of Marin, an organization for executive and professional women.

BUT STRONG as is her interest in her work, in fine music, in the theater, and in worthwhile charitable causes, she admits that there is still plenty of time left over for still another overriding interest—her six grandchildren.

"I guess I'm like every other grandmother," she says. "I think my grandchildren are wonderful."

That's Kitty Oppenheimer. Never the professional social worker she once hoped to become. But a proud and loving grandmother, a well-known and popular radio personality, and a tireless worker on behalf of community cultural and civic causes. A woman who has known tragedy but who has come back to rededicate herself to the lesson that her mother taught her decades ago in San Francisco—that the happy person is the one who serves others.

MARIN MUSIC CHEST is a project dear to the heart of Kitty Oppenheimer. And since 1932 she has turned out the organization's publicity material. Here she is shown at the typewriter in her Ross home, doing just that.

STATION KTIM is proud of the gold medal award it received at the 1960 California State Fair for its "Marin Sounding Board" program. It was judged the best public service program by a non metropolitan radio station. Here KTIM manager Hugh Turner and Kitty Oppenheimer, who presides over the lively panel discussions, pose with the award.

Marin's Pioneers In Mercy

When San Rafael Emergency Corps Aided The Ailing

MISS EDYTHE FOSTER, seated left, co-organizer of the San Rafael Emergency Corps in 1904, tells some present-day hospital volunteers about the work of the emergency corps. With her are Mrs. Leiton J. Elder, standing, and Mrs. Lawrence P. McNear of the San Rafael General Hospital Women's Auxiliary. The auxiliary has made Miss Foster an honorary member in recognition of her many years of volunteer work. (Independent-Journal photo)

One day in 1904, Miss Edythe Foster and Mrs. J. C. Hoover stood at the corner of Fourth and B Streets in San Rafael, just outside the Hoover Candy Store, in friendly conversation.

They were startled when an express wagon passed carrying eight men, painfully injured in an accident at Lake Lagunitas. The men were lying on straw and bleeding badly.

RECALLING the incident recently, Miss Foster, still a San Rafael resident, said, "When we saw that wagon with its injured men, one of us, I don't remember which now, exclaimed, 'It's a disgrace that a city this size has no place to take injured people!' "

They decided to do something about it.

"We called a meeting for one evening after business hours at the Hoover Candy Store," Miss Foster says. "There was a good attendance, including business men and Dr. H. O. Howitt, Dr. William J. Wickman, and Dr. William Farrington Jones. We sat around the ice cream tables."

RESULT OF THE meeting was the San Rafael Emergency Corps, which for the next few years helped meet the need for a place to take Marin County's sick and injured —thanks to Miss Foster and Mrs. Hoover and their humanitarianism. As far as is known this was the earliest volunteer hospital organization in the county.

First business of the corps was to obtain equipment and supplies.

"But we had no money," says Miss Foster, "so we had to make some. There were football games, dances and cake sales to raise funds.

"We collected weekly donations, too, from many residents of San Rafael. Miss Miriam Hall, daughter of the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and I rode around town on our bicycles to collect 25 cents a week at different homes. On many a Sunday I stood at the steps of the churches with my hand out!"

Miss Foster doesn't remember how much money was raised, but the corps shortly had its first headquarters at the West End Sanitarium on Shaver Street. She recalls that one of their first cases was a man who was "nearly scalped."

Records of the corps have been lost, but files of the Marin Journal fill in some of the history of this colorful and hard-working organization.

"The San Rafael Emergency Corps met at Hoover's Candy Store Tuesday night," the story related, "and elected officers for the coming year. They were George Page, president; George Boyd, vice pres-

IT WAS 56 YEARS ago when these two women witnessed an incident that caused them to start the ball to rolling from which later developed the San Rafael Emergency Corps. At left Miss Edythe Foster, as she appeared in those days. At right her co-organizer of the corps, Mrs. J. C. Hoover.

ident; Miss Foster, secretary, and Mrs. Hoover, treasurer.

The corps at that time had a membership of 108, according to the Journal story. Among those active in the organization was Senator E. B. Martinelli, father of Judge Jordan L. Martinelli.

The Journal commented, "The Emergency Hospital is now a reality and the sick, poor and injured can there find an immediate shelter."

The following Aug. 3, the Journal reported that an ambulance had been presented to the corps by Mrs. A. W. Foster (no relation to Edythe Foster) and that 16 emergency cases had been taken care of since organization of the corps about a year before.

On Sept. 14, 1905, a news story related that headquarters of the corps had been moved to Fifth and Petaluma (now Lincoln Avenue). This was the original location of Cottage Hospital (now San Rafael General) for which its founders, Drs. Howitt, Wickman and Jones, filed incorporation papers on Sept. 16 of the same year. The hospital moved to its present location at Mission and Nye in 1907.

The horse-drawn ambulance donated by Mrs. Foster made many trips to the hospital. One of these occurred when a young quarryman employed at the California City Rock Co. plant was injured by a heavy blast, according to the Journal files.

Miss Foster remembers that ambulance drivers and attendants were sent to San Francisco to be trained in the handling of patients. One of these young attendants was Mrs. Hoover's son, Frank of San Rafael. He recalls that San Rafael streets were unpaved and that it was quite a job sometimes getting over the rocks on Fourth Street.

The corps functioned for several years; and, when it became inactive, equipment and supplies on hand were given to Cottage Hospital. Miss Foster worked with the corps until 1910, when she left to travel in Europe.

For Miss Foster, work with the Emergency Corps helped to fulfill an ambition. She had always been interested in hospitals and nursing, and wanted to be a doctor or nurse but was prevented by ill health.

Instead, she has spent much of her life working as a volunteer. In addition to helping with the Emergency Corps, she rolled bandages during the Spanish-American War, worked as a volunteer at Stanford Hospital in San Francisco during World War 1, and was active in civilian defense in San Rafael during World War II.

Recognition for her volunteer work came recently from the Women's Auxiliary of San Rafael General Hospital, which made her an honorary member.

THE LARK

A Movie Theater That's Different

The people milling around the lobby, chatting and drinking steaming hot coffee while admiring the lovely paintings on the wall, didn't seem to mind waiting for the "second" show to start.

They were thoroughly enjoying themselves.

"It's like going to a party," said one man to the young lady with him.

"Yes," she agreed. "This certainly is different from any other motion picture theater I have ever been in."

Over at the "coffee bar" people were asking: "How much for a cup of coffee?" And the reply: "There is no charge."

An elderly lady timidly inquired if she might have a cup of tea, since she did not drink coffee. Her request was quickly filled.

This scene takes place every evening at Marin's "art theater," the management of which proudly proclaims it as the only movie of its kind in the entire North Bay Area.

First, it specializes in showing prize-winning films direct from the film festivals of Europe. Drama, comedy, and documentary—they are all included.

This has not always been the policy at The Lark. When the theater was first opened, about 20 years ago, the policy was the same as that of other Marin movie palaces — the showing of made-in-Hollywood films.

ABOUT 11 YEARS ago Blumenfeld Theaters established a new policy for The Lark. The intimate ilttle motion picture house — seating capacity 400—was converted into what is known as an "art theater."

Along with the foreign films, outstanding motion pictures made in this country, such as "Around the World in 80 Days" were shown. Painting and sculpture done by noted California artists living in Marin County were displayed in the lobby.

The art film-art exhibit policy continued in effect for about two years. Then The Lark resumed the showing of Hollywood movies and the art exhibits were discontinued.

After considerable thought and sampling of public opinion, the Blumenfeld organization decided to return to the "art theater" policy at The Lark.

The first two artists to exhibit after this "re-opening" were Erwin Manheim and Ray Strong. Other well-known

California artists who have exhibited at The Lark include George Otis, the late Herman Struck, Othello Michetti, Barbara Carpenter, Gwen Stone, Charles Howard Allen, and Joan Allen Foster.

But the management is careful to stipulate that the majority of films shown at The Lark are for "adults only." This is a general policy with art theaters.

The Lark draws its audiences from throughout the Bay Area — from San Francisco, the Peninsula, Vallejo, Santa Rosa, Oakland, Richmond, etc. And it has, of course, a loyal following throughout Marin.

Patrons of The Lark are invited to suggest films they would like to see. And whenever possible, such suggestions are carried out.

Recently The Lark installed a new screen which offers a brighter and clearer picture. New projection equipment for improved sound has also been installed.

Shirar was assistant manageer of the Warfield Theater in San Francisco before coming to Marin. Here he is assisted by Mrs. Rudy Nelson and Mrs. Dorothy Urquhart in the boxoffice, and by Rudy Nelson as the projectionist.

Rudy and Hazel Nelson have been with Blumenfeld Theaters for 19 years. He began working as the doorman when The Lark first opened. For a time he served as manager at The Gate where he learned to be a motion picture projector operator. And for the past 12 years he has served in that capacity at The Lark.

Hazel, his wife, managed The Lark during World War II and, afterwards, took over the duties of cashier. The Nelsons have four children, two boys and two girls, and live in Heather Gardens.

Manager Shirar invites those interested in quality foreign films who have not yet become acquainted with The Lark to drop him a post card requesting that they be placed on the theater's mailing list which keeps regular patrons informed of upcoming attractions.

Or better yet, just drop in at The Lark one of these evenings and learn for yourself, first hand, just what it is that makes this Larkspur theater one of the most interesting and unusual movie houses on the entire West Coast.

MICHAEL SHIRAR, manager of The Lark, mounts a ladder to assist Arthur Bahr in hanging one of his paintings in the theater lobby. Artist Bahr lives in Murray Park and started studying art when he came to this state in 1949. He is a former pupil of noted California landscape painter Anton Dahl. Five of Bahr's paintings are now on display at the Larkspur theater.

FREE COFFEE, art in the lobby, and all the other innovations haven't replaced this longtime stalwart of the movie theater, the projectionist. Rudy Nelson, who has been with The Lark for 19 years, threads one of the theater's new projection machines. Two such machines were installed recently to give a clearer sound.

Rock Collecting—A Fascinating Hobby

It Appeals To Scores In Marin

By DAVINA KOSH

For centuries mankind has prowled the beaches, the deserts, the prairies, the mountains, in quest of unusual rocks.

But it is only within the past 20 or 25 years years that rock-hunting has become a major and organized activity among hobbyists. And in the past 10 years participation has increased tremendously.

Marin is no exception. With the Marin Mineral Society, founded in January of 1953, as the focus for such activity, scores of Marinites have joined the ranks of the "rock hounds" and now spend their weekends and vacations hunting rare stones. And their evenings polishing their finds.

THESE ROCK hounds include people of all walks of life—the professionals, clerical workers, students, retired people, housewives, business men. There is no age limit—8 to 80, more or less. In fact the hobby has a tendency to encompass the entire family, once one member is "infected" by the bug. Mother, father and all the kids soon become ardent enthusiasts all for the fascinating hobby. And the result is a family that is drawn closer together.

In Marin most but not all such hobbyists are active in the Marin Mineral Society which has a membership 105 strong and which is afiliated with the California Federation of Mineralogical Societies.

The society conducts monthly meetings, open to the public, at which guest experts speak or show kodachrome slides on subjects pertaining to geology, mineralogy and lapidary.

FIELD TRIPS are staged once a month through most of the year, with special overnight camping trips on three-day holiday weekends. These trips have taken the Marin rock hounds to such places as the Mother Lode areas abounding in minerals, crystals and petrified woods; to Clear Creek in San Benito County, famous for its jade; to Willow Creek below Big Sur for Monterey jade; to Fallon, Nev., and its vicinity for copper minerals and for petrified woods.

Closer trips to nearby hunting grounds have included the beaches of San Mateo County for fossil pebbles, Goat Rock at the mouth of the Russian River for pebbles ideal for "tumbling," to Marin's own Bolinas Beach for whale bone and agates, to Loma Alta above Lucas Valley for interesting chert materials, to Napa and adjoining counties for petrified woods, onyx, jaspers, obsidian, and crystals. Quicksilver mines have been visited for cinnabar minerals. And recently the fossil remains of prehistoric animals were hunted near Livermore.

These field trips are family outings, with the rock hounds taking their "pebble puppies" along. Disciplinary problems rarely develop with the youngsters. They are too busy with the fun and education involved. And they soon learn that the rock hammer is a tool to be used judiciously and with caution. And that rocks are interesting objects to be brought home and studied, not thrown at each other.

They learn that a "find" by one member is a cooperative experience to be shared by all among the group. Society officers note proudly that there is probably more "giving away" or sharing in their hobby than in any other. The adults are particularly eager to share their rocks with a youngster when they feel that their generosity will serve to start that boy or girl on a collection of his own. This in turn can easily point them toward future careers as mineralogists or geologists, or at least a lifetime interest in a satisfying, challenging and healthful hobby.

TECHNICALLY, the term "rock hound" is applicable only to the amateur interested in the vast field of geology and kindred studies. Not included is the accredited and professional geologist or mineralogist. He, too, goes into the field to collect rocks for study. But to him, usually it is a job, not a hobby. There are, however, cases of professionals who also look to rocks for their leisure-time interest and thus qualify as rock hounds as well as geologists.

This is not to say that the amateur rock hound is untutored in his subject. Many of them have studied geology courses. And occasionally a rock hound will continue that learning and his collections to a point that commands the respect of even our most eminent scientists.

As in many other hobbies, each rock hound has his own individual reasons for taking up this interest. Perhaps a friend who collects enticed him into the field. Or perhaps he remembered the rocks he had picked up years ago as a boy and hoarded in a shoebox. Or perhaps he saw a case of minerals on display at the Marin Art and Garden Fair and was fascinated by them.

Or perhaps he had secretly nursed since boyhood a desire to know more about rocks and other aspects of geology.

The beginner will often, particularly if he resides in Marin, take night courses in geology to better fit him to follow the terminology he hears at the mineral society meetings.

He may then, as has been the case with at least two members of the Marin Mineral Society, Leo Rosenhahn and Robert Phillips, both of San Anselmo, specialize entirely in the study of mineralogy, devoting all field trips and activities to mineral and crystal specimens, and furthering his knowledge by taking a night course at the College of Marin headed by Willis Pelletier.

NOR ARE MEN alone in having attained the status of high ranking amateurs in the field of mineralogy. For instance Mrs. Herbert Phillips of Mill Valley is well known in this field.

Another member may specialize in collecting petrified woods, or, as has occurred in some cases, even further specialize within this field and concentrate upon such woods from a specific period of prehistory. Ultimately this too can lead to academic study, to identification, and thus an amateur paleobotanist is born. Albert F. Kosh of San Rafael, one of the founders of the Marin society and a past president, has enjoyed this experience.

Through a method of thin-slicing, gluing to glass slides, projecting onto a screen, and studying cell structure, he has been able to identify for himself many of the petrified woods he has collected. He has lectured and shown his beautiful slides to many Bay Area societies as well as to the Marin group.

The identification of petrified woods is in itself a specialized study within the larger field of paleobotany. Many collect fern and other botanical fossils instead.

Paleontology, on the other hand, covers the vast and seemingly endless area of mammal fossils which also has a fascination for many a rock hound.

Collecting Indian artifacts is still another specialized interest within the general scope of the rock hobbyists.

But for the most part the rock hound will devote himself more generally to the collecting of rocks and minerals, and the ultimate cutting and polishing of those rocks which is known as lapidary. Because of this latter interest, College of Marin began developing both day and night classes in lapidary around 1954. Many Marin Mineral Society members have attended or are now attending. And most ultimately acquire their own lapidary equipment and set up their workshop in a garage, the basement, a kitchen nook or some other convenient place around the home. Some boast entire hobby rooms filled with their machinery for cutting, grinding and polishing rocks.

From lapidary emerges the art of jewelry-making. And it is to this end that most society members utilize their College of Marin courses. Many a Marinite has set aside a small area around his home where blow torches, etc., can safely be used in the making of jewelry.

The collecting of rocks has led to a new development called the "tumbler." And just about every mineral society member these days seems interested in a tumbling machine to polish the small rocks picked up on the beach and elsewhere.

THE ART OF mosaics is enjoying a revival today. And many a rock hound sooner or later will use certain materials he has collected in a mosaic table or wall placque, or a piece for the garden.

We have not yet even begun to exhaust the many branches and offshoots of rock collecting.

Still unmentioned are such specialists as those who collect only crystal or crystal formations, or, even within this field, those who collect only quartz crystals. Others might go in for copper or iron mineral formations only.

Many rock hounds have vast collections of geodes, which technically are formations within nodules of rocks. Some will be filled with sparkling crystals, others with "pictures" of beautifully formed rock. Very often these formations within the rock are used with stunning effect in jewelry-making. Other times, they are cut and polished only, and become rare treasures in abstract or realistic works of art.

IN THE JADE field alone there are enough variations to fill a lifetime of collecting—not only in the rough material, but the extension of this found in collecting antique jade carvings, etc.

Henry Reinicke of Mill Valley is an interesting example of the development of an amateur into the "professional knowledge" class. With his late wife, Carol, he was a long-time member of the San Francisco Gem and Mineral Society, and through the years he has specialized in jade. He has devoted much time and labor to the formation of the famous jade clock put together by the San Francisco society and which will ultimately be housed at the Academy of Science.

Reinicke, also a photographer of note, helped to form the Marin Mineral Society. And he has continued to work closely with both the Marin and S.F. units. He has also, along with Edward Johanson, conducted lapidary classes at the College of Marin.

Milo Bird, a past president, and his wife, Ruth, have both stressed the furthering of interest in rock hounding and geology among youth of the county. They have led groups of young people—Boy Scouts, etc.—on field trips. Bird, a recently retired Standard Oil engineer, was born at Angels Camp and was at one time a gold assayist. He has often lectured before the society on the technical aspects of mineralogy, glass-making, and Mother Lode history.

Then there are those who have worked closely with the Junior Museum of Marin. A partial list includes Bruce Barron and Malden (Pete) Lowman, both of San Rafael and both past presidents of the society. They have assisted in setting up temporary cases to display the collections of junior members of the society at the museum. The museum's initial rock collection consisted of donations from the Marin Mineral Society.

THE PRESENT leadership of the Marin society is headed by Ambrose Canziani of San Rafael, president, whose lapidary workshop was recently featured in the Marin Magazine. Edward Hindley of Kentfield is vice president, Erwin C. Paine Jr. of San Anselmo the treasurer, Mrs. Richard Holland of San Rafael the recording secretary, and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hawkins of San Rafael the corresponding secretary.

THERE'S NO age limit on rock hounds. And many of Marin's senior citizens are among the most active of the rock collectors. Grandfather and grandmother can be seen right along with their grandchildren searching the beaches for choice finds.

COVER PHOTO

Directors of the Marin society are Charles M. Geller of San Anselmo, Wendell R. Arnold of San Rafael, John Schuck of Larkspur, Henry Reinecke of Mill Valley, Joseph Walker of San Anselmo, Earl E. Thompson of Mill Valley and Leo Rosenhahn of San Anselmo.

This has been only a partial list of the men and women who make up the membership of the Marin Mineral Society. But they are typical of these ardent hobbyists. Mention should certainly be made of four honorary members. They are Stephen C. Bruff of Novato, geologist at the College of Marin; Willis Pelletier of Mill Valley, teacher of mineralogy at the college's night school; Salem J. Rice of Mill Valley, geologist with the California State Bureau of Mines, and Dr. William B. Sanborn of San Francisco, formerly of Greenbrae, in charge of audio-visual education in San Francisco public schools.

It is all the more unusual that Marin should be such a hotbed of rock hound activity in view of the fact that the county is not generally considered to be a wealthy "mineral" area. With the exception of gravels, some quicksilver, and in past years, copper, Marin does not abound in unusual minerals.

HOWEVER, since 1937 when 36 known rocks and minerals were listed in this county, that roster has grown to a total of 96. True, some of those discovered were found only in traces. But a number of these discoveries must be attributed to the amateur rock hounds and their mentors.

For instance, back in 1958 the Smithsonian Institute of Washington D.C. accepted as a gift a choice slab of Marin green chert (laced with transparent carnelian) that Frank S. Rodgers of Tiburon, a diligent rock hound, had found. Smithsonian acceptance is a cause for considerable excitement in amateur mineralogy circles. For collectors, that is "the ultimate."

Marin has also gained some fame in mineral circles for the whale bone pebbles which are constantly being tossed back onto the beach by the ocean at Drake's Bay and Bolinas Beach. The source of these fossils is the cliffs of Drake's Bay where, during the Miocene some 10 or 20 million years ago, multitudes of whales or whale-like animals were buried strangely within a concentrated area.

Some beautiful yellow jaspers are found at Fort Baker and along the whole ocean shoreline. Fort Cronkhite is the source of minute carnelian pebbles, utilized chiefly by the mosaic artists and jewelry-makers. Many quartz crystals are found throughout the county. And there is a working quicksilver mine in the Chileno Valley.

THE TIBURON Peninsula is unique in its concentration of minerals. There one finds Dolomite, Olivine, Epidote, Actinilite, Albite, Hornblende, Garnet, Limonite, Lawsonite, etc. The original discovery of Lawsonite was made at Tiburon in 1895 by F. L. Ransome and named in honor of a Professor Lawson of the University of California.

Some years ago copper was mined on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais, and the old-time rock collectors still talk of asbestos deposits on the site of the present military installation near the top of the mountain.

Green cherts, too-often called jade by the unknowing, turn up in the county.

And some excellent blue jade has been discovered in a moderate sized deposit on the Vonson property near the Marin-Sonoma county line.

Still, in all truth, Marin is not a rich source of finds for the rock hounds. And it is their out-of-county field trips which provide them with their handsomest and most valued specimens.

If the Marinites must travel beyond their county for their finest hunting, they can nevertheless stay right at home for some of their biggest annual events. Annually the Marin Mineral Society holds a mineral show in conjunction with the Marin Art and Garden Fair. And while they attend a number of shows staged by other societies in other parts of the country, it is their own show which each year commands the biggest part of their own time and interest. Members of the Marin society have high hope that in the not too future they will be conducting an independent show in which leading California dealers can be included .

Another major annual event on the calendar of the Marin society is the picnic held each year on an August Sunday at the Bolinas Community Clubhouse. That big event is a combined field trip-outing-monthly meeting and social affair.

The very active Geller usually serves as picnic chairman. And the program includes a unique silent auction of rocks, minerals, and fossils, the sale of grab bags, and the operation of swap tables. Proceeds go into a building fund, for it is the dream of society members that they will some day have a building including a well-equipped lapidary shop available for all members.

It's all part of the wonderful world of rock collecting—a fascinating hobby that offers utility and beauty, therapy and education, relaxation and inspiration to its dedicated followers.

"Are Imported Fabrics Safe for Making Dresses?"

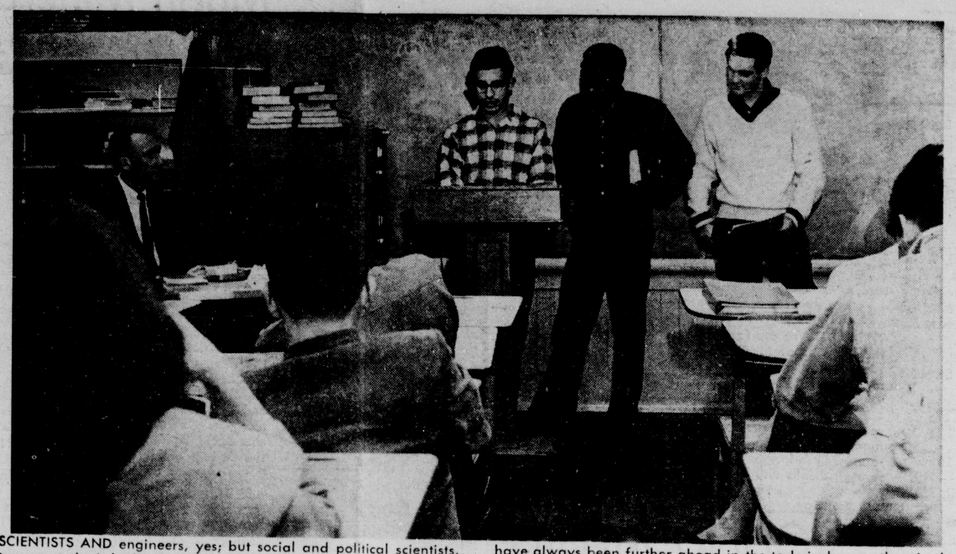
Some of the imported fabrics that are so popular now have the seeds of sorrow buried in them. They are luxurious in texture and fascinating in color and pattern . . . but! In many cases the colors are not fast. They "bleed" or "run" even when carefully dry cleaned. Other imported fabrics are not pre-shrunk and when made into a dress, the first washing or cleaning is the last.

Standards for fabrics in many foreign countries are not up to those of American manufacturers. However, that does not mean you cannot use foreign fabrics in the dress you want to make.

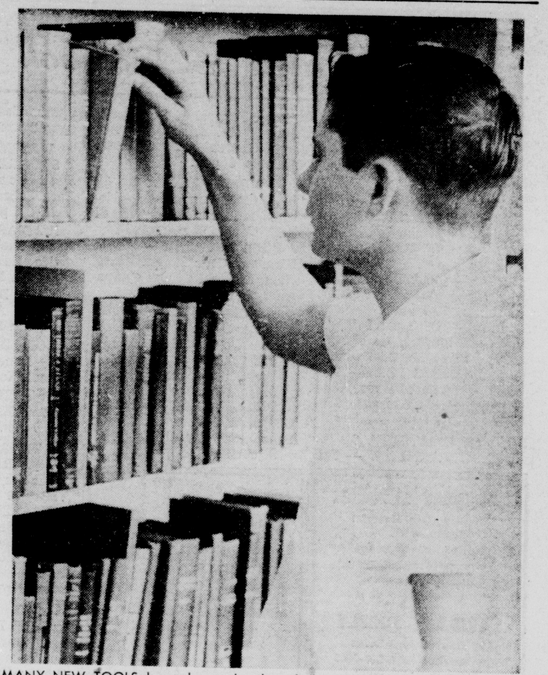
Test a small swatch of the material for water-fastness or ask your dry cleaner to test it. He'll test it with dry-cleaning solvent, too. And if the fabric has not been pre-shrunk, your dry cleaner can do that for you. Then you can go ahead and make a dress just as you wanted.

Remember, your professional dry cleaner is a skilled, trained fabric maintenance man. He'll be glad to help you if you call on him.

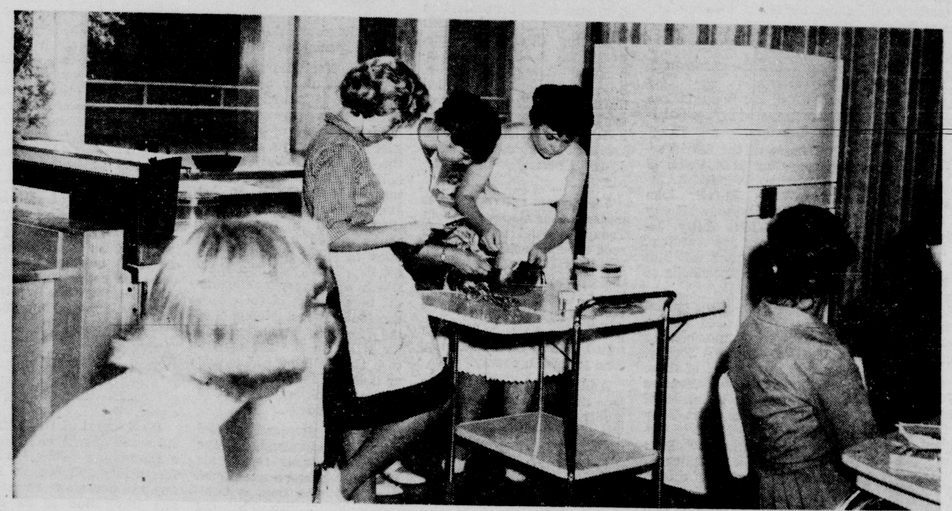
THE EDUCATORS responsible for the Tamalpais High School District curriculum agree that science cannot be neglected in a strong technological society such as ours. Such instruction is important, they say, both for the student who is college bound and for the student whose formal education will end with high school.



SCIENTISTS AND engineers, yes; but social and political scientists, too, say today's high school educators. They claim that actually we have always been further ahead in the technical areas than in the social and cultural areas. And they say the schools have a responsibility to help remedy this "cultural lag."



MANY NEW TOOLS have been developed through the years for education. But the book still remains the basic and indispensable aid. And today it plays the same vital role in the educating of our teen-agers that it played decades ago. Other tools just serve to supplement — not replace — the book.



THE HOMEMAKING SKILLS are important to all girls, whether they be planning to attend college or not. But it is particularly vital for these girls who are going immediately into the home. Good homemaking is an aspect of good citizenship, too, Tamalpais High School District officials state.

American Education Week—A Good Time To Take Stock Of Our Schools

Taking stock of American education is becoming another national movement. A good time to take such stock is during American Education Week which opens tomorrow and continues through next week.

Some interested citizens in Marin County, for example, are not only actively taking stock, but are also trying to get other people interested in the inventory. A series of 40 coffee klatches has been organized so that specific education topics can be discussed by representatives of the Mill Valley schools and the Tamalpais Union High School District.

One of the most discussed aspects of American education is the comprehensive high school. Dr. James B. Conant, former Harvard president, has stated that the American comprehensive high school is one of the greatest single contributions American culture has made to the progress of man.

What is the "comprehensive high school?" Superintendent Chester G. Carlisle of the Tam District insists that it is not just another piece of incomprehensible jargon. It is, he says, literally just what the word says.

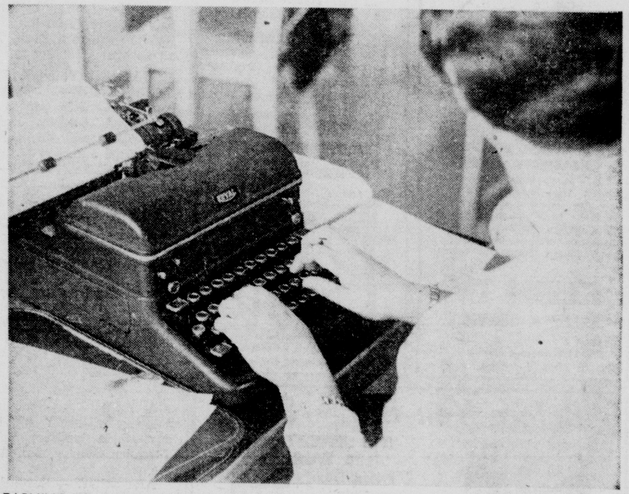
In keeping with the tenets of American democracy, the comprehensive high school attempts to make available educational opportunity to all children, he explains. The traditional academic program is only one phase of the modern high school.

The Tam District is Marin's largest high school district, covering Tamalpais High in Mill Valley, Drake High in San Anselmo and Redwood High in Larkspur.

While the majority of the Tam District students, by virtue of socio-economic conditions, are college preparatory pupils, the schools are nevertheless comprehensive to the extent of demands and funds available, the superintendent notes.

Carlisle believes an understanding of the American high school leads to an understanding of American education in general and to American democracy.

Pictures on these pages indicate the variety of offerings in a comprehensive high school—the kind maintained in the Tam District, and should serve as a reminder that American Education Week is a good time to take stock of this and other aspects of the American school system.

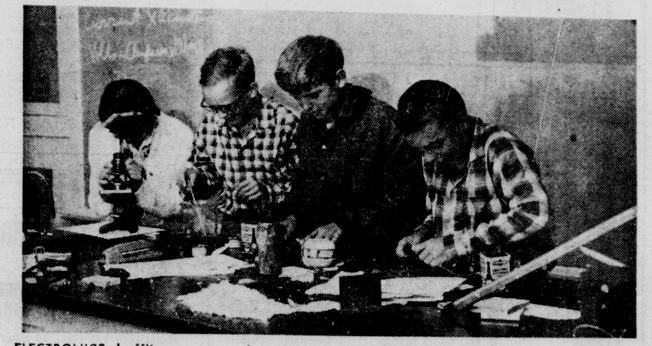


LEARNING TO TYPE is practically an essential, especially for the girl student. She will use it for earning money, for getting through college, or just for everyday business. Boys, too, find typing a most helpful skill.

MATHEMATICS is no longer a subject for men only. The need for capabilities in math is growing in many, many directions. And so more and more girls are enrolling along with the boys in algebra, geometry, trig, calculus, etc. Tamalpais District educators say the opportunities for study in this vital field have been broadened, not restricted.

THE TRADES and crafts remain important in our mechanized society. Not as important, perhaps, as in an artisan society. But nevertheless, still important and worthy of the schools' attention and time.

THE EXCITEMENT of the language, the adventures with words, the finding something on your own. These are every day aspects of a high school student's life. And the dictionary is an always reliable tool.



ELECTRONICS, baffling to most of us, is a field which excites young curiosity. Furthermore, it is a field which is becoming more and more a part of our everyday life.

Time Has Softened Presidential Year Discussions Of Politics

WE DON'T KNOW whether its the change in geography or the passing of time, but the pre-election atmosphere isn't at all like it was back in our younger days in Kansas.

There may be as much interest as ever in the contest for the nation's highest office. But that interest seems more general, less intense, less partisan.

By now just about everyone has his favorite. But just about everyone also has some misgivings about the candidate he has selected. And just about everyone finds some good things to say about the candidate he is going to vote against.

It didn't used to be that way—at least not back in the Midwest we knew.

You were for one candidate wholeheartedly, without reservation. And you were against the other man with the same total commitment.

And the weeks immediately before a presidential election were a period of chaos in which longtime friendships were disrupted by heated political disagreements on the streets, in the stores, in the pool halls which were the "social centers" for the male residents of Kansas towns of the time, and in the homes. Old acquaintances exchanged hot words and parted — and did not speak to each other again until weeks after the balloting when tempers had had time to simmer down.

It is interesting that in those days the contests for local and state offices or even for seats in Congress caused no such depth of feeling. The really hot arguments — occasionally blows—were triggered by the "discussions" of the respective merits of the presidential aspirants.

Today, we are certain, there are still those who take their politics seriously enough to let them intrude upon personal friendships. But they are far fewer.

It is significant that here in Marin the hottest arguments right now swirl, not around the respective merits of John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, but around whether the community water supply should be fluoridated.

Perhaps the reason for the fiercer loyalty which the presidential candidates of three or four decades back received from their followers could be found in the personalities of the candidates themselves.

Certainly in our small Kansas town of the 1930s there was no middle ground on FDR. A controversial figure everywhere, he was all the more so there.

One faction, generally the wheat farmers, shopkeepers, professional men, etc., hated him with an intensity that sometimes bordered on fanaticism. Roosevelt backers, largely from the ranks of the wage-earners and from the beneficiaries of New Deal welfare programs, were just as vehement in their support.

And so every election in which FDR carried the Democratic banner split the town into two bitterly warring factions.

We seem to remember that feelings were only a little less vehement in the Herbert Hoover-Al Smith race of 1928.

As we said, we don't know whether it is the passing of provincialism or the presence of less commanding and less controversial candidates that has softened political discussion. Perhaps it is a little of both. But regardless of the reason, we're just as glad the election year splits are no longer so wide and deep. Americans must and should have their political differences. But in the world of today they cannot afford the gaping political wounds and sores of yesteryear.

A Different View Of Water And Where We Can Get More

NEW WATER FOR A THIRSTY WORLD by Michael H. Salzman with foreword by Aldous Huxley, Science Foundation Press, 211 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Dick Steinheimer.

California author Michael H. Salzman fires every torpedo, shoots every shell and drops every depth charge in this powerful attack on conventional scientific practices in water supply development.

"New Water for a Thirsty World," with a foreword by Aldous Huxley, is a scholarly but readable challenge to men of science and engineering throughout the world to dare to accept the possibility that major basic supplies of water exist other than those derived from rainfall.

The book is part and parcel the investigation done by two scientists half a century apart in locating supplies of water within the earth apparently unrelated to the rain-to-evaporation-to-rain cycle, upon which virtually all present water procurement endeavors hinge.

The earliest scientist who learned to search for "primary" or "natural" water was A. E. Nordenskiold of Sweden who in 1896 presented a paper on drilling for water in primary rocks. For his work he was to be nominated for the first Nobel Prize in Physics, but he died before the winner was named.

Exhibit two in Salzman's case is contemporary scientist Stephan Riess of California whose successes in finding water supplies in seemingly impossible sites has brought him international notice.

Briefly Salzman contends that vast quantities of water are being manufactured constantly within the crust of the earth by known chemical and physical forces, and that this "new" water is waiting only to be tapped in many parts of the world by engineers not so hidebound as to refuse to consider its existence.

ONLY IN SAN FRANCISCO by Herb Caen, Doubleday and Co., 275 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

No doubt the reason columnist Herb Caen writes so wittily and yet at the same time so movingly about his beloved San Francisco is that his affection for that city and its people is deep and sincere. There is nothing phony about the attachment.

We have always regarded him as one of the very best of the big city columnists. And we've enjoyed his books because they are, after all, largely collections of material gleaned from his better columns.

This new book, just out, is not quite our favorite Caen book. But that is hardly a knock. For while there do appear to be some parts that do not seem representative of Mr. San Francisco at his best, —generally those parts where he strays from his home base —it still remains undeniably a most entertaining book certain to afford great enjoyment to anyone who shares Caen's fascination with his favorite city. Marinites will take an added interest in their reading because of the frequent references made to places and personalities of our county.

Within the more or less continuing controversy over "modern" methods of education, the name most often praised and damned is that of John Dewey. Dewey is often bitterly attacked by those who blames him for every real fault or supposed fault of today's schools from psychological testing to basket weaving courses.

As with many great and original thinkers, Dewey suffers from his blind adherents and misinterpreters. His best defense is his own words. In this book, editor Ralph Winn has culled the pith from Dewey's works to bring out the meat of his arguments, the base on which his philosophy is laid.

Though this is not a new book, its continuing usefulness to scholars, teachers and those interested in education and philosophy keeps it fresh. Dewey, one of America's only native major philosophers and the "father" of modern education, deserves a hearing in his own words. One of the earliest to discover the importance of communications in human relations, Dewey gives new insights to both reader and writer.

Easy reading and conveniently cross indexed, this handy volume might be described as a sort of Dewey concordance. It is especially appropriate reading for American Education Week coming up next week.

"The Sandley Story" is the somewhat too personal tale of father and son railroaders who made good their ambition of owning and operating a small steam railroad line.

The author gives background and description of the 15-inch gage Riverside and Great Northern Railway built by Norman and Elmer Sandley at Wisconsin Dells, Wis., for summer tourist operation.

Support for the book comes in the foreword by Sausalito author Frederic (Cap) Shaw who sees in the two-mile line the apotheosis of miniature livesteam railroading in the United States.

Recommendation: Good guide to the pitfalls and pleasures of miniature railroad building for those readers so brave (or foolish) as to contemplate the likes.

Marais and Miranda are internationally known for their African veldt songs. But their repertoire is much wider. And in this book they have included both words and music, with arrangements written especially for guitar accompaniment, of songs from a number of lands. Such African veldt songs as "Henrietta's Wedding" and "Pa Says, Ma Says" predominate, however.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Horses—A Subject Certain To Fascinate Youngsters

THE STORY OF HORSES by Dorothy Shuttlesworth, Garden City Books, 54 pages.

Doubleday and Company's Garden City division seems to have the knack of turning out books which are both entertaining and educational for the young readers. Certainly this one rings the bell in both respects.

The illustrations alone, beautifully done by Matthew Kalmenoff, are enough to insure a very delighted youngster.

There are horses of all kinds, from Shetland ponies to proud Arabians. After enjoying these colored pictures, the youngster will have no trouble in the future identifying horses as to breed.

The text, too, shows an expert's touch.

Miss Shuttleworth is most careful not to write down to her young readers. Yet her commentary is clear and easily understood.

She covers briefly the history of the horse from its prehistoric ancestors to the present. She discusses the features of these fine and handsome animals. She differentiates between the breeds. And she gives a great deal of other information which will fascinate the youngster, and also enlighten him.

Horses have always been a keen interest of just about every American boy and girl. This book will help to satisfy their curiosity and also assist in installing a greater appreciation of our four-footed friends among the juvenile readers fortunate enough to receive and read it.

Strongly recommended.

Kentfield Woman Helping To Plan Show In Oakland

A Marin woman, Mrs. Nellie A. Rucker of Kentfield, is a member of the executive planning committee for the ninth annual Holiday Decorations Show to be held at the Oakland Auditorium next Monday through Thursday.

Theme of the 1960 show will be "Christmas Lights."

More than 600 men and women will instruct and demonstrate in such fields as gift wrapping, cooking, table and door decorations, tree arrangements, making of ornaments, etc. Special stress will be placed on Thanksgiving season decorations.

The show is sponsored by East Bay Garden Clubs and the Oakland park department. There is no admission charge.

STEREO NOTES

A Mahler Cantata: Mournful, Grimm

Editor's Note: Reviews of current recordings—especially the classics and jazz—as done by John Sunier, young stereo specialist and writer residing in Sausalito, will appear frequently in the "arts and entertainment" section of your Marin Magazine in the future.

By JOHN SUNIER

GUSTAV MAHLER: DAS KLAGENDE LIED — Vanguard VSD-2044 — In this Mahler year, not enough effort is being made to bring his music before the record-buying public in new stereo releases. Let us hope that some Mahler works that simply cry for stereophony, such as the Third Symphony, will be seen before the year is out.

However, here is an excellent performance of a lesser-known Mahler cantata, "The Lamenting Song," conducted by the son of Gustav's first cousin, Fritz Mahler. The soloists are Margaret Hoswell, soprano; Lili Chookasian, contralto; and Rudolf Petrak, tenor; with the Hartford Symphony Chorale and Orchestra. Miss Hoswell has appeared in leading roles with the San Francisco Opera.

Mahler used a tale by Grimm to write a ballad text in folk style for the cantata. An older brother treacherously kills a younger, who has won the hand of a queen, and takes the queen as his own wife. Then a shepherd finds a hollow bone and carves it into a flute, which turns out to be the dead man's and magically recounts the story of the tragic killing.

Published and performed at the turn of the century, the work is in two parts, the second almost operatic in conception. The over-all mood of the cantata is mournful and Grimm.

Vanguard's stereo spreads the orchestra out in depth, with the soloists some distance from the microphones but understandable if you are following the libretto.

SHELLY MANN AND HIS MEN AT THE BLACK HAWK, VOL. 2—Contemporary S7578—is the second of four volumes recorded "live" at San Francisco's jazz headquarters during September of 1959.

The rest of the group, in addition to Shelly's drums, consists of Joe Gordon, trumpet; Richie Kamuca, tenor sax; Victor Feldman, piano; and Monty Budwig, bass.

The live continuity is strengthened by typical tuning-up and moving-around sounds between numbers, and by Shelly's announcement at the end of the final number on the stereodisc, "We're just taking a short intermission now." Presumably you have to get all four records unless you want to be left with an oddly unfinished feeling.

The solo playing of both Gordon and Kamuca is very good, although conventional. When Shelly formed this new group, it was with the thought of allowing the players much more free blowing with no limit except their own capacity to improvise. This is shown by the length of the tracks—only two to one side — and Charlie Mariano's "Vamp's Blues" taking up the entire second side for 20 minutes.

Shelly has won more popularity and musician's polls than any other drummer. He enjoys introducing a lot of extended original jazz compositions by other people. As a musical drummer, he shares with Chico Hamilton a distaste for "Fourth-of-July" drum solos, preferring to add texture to the band and give the horns support.

The stereo sound gives the session a real "in-person" feeling, including the distraction of an off-stage right telephone. The Black Hawk audience is surprisingly quiet.

Young Drake Grad Sells Short Story

A 1959 graduate of Drake High has sold a short story, the first she ever submitted for publication, to Seventeen magazine, according to word received by teacher Albert (Cappy) Lavin at Drake.

Jeanette Miller, 18, a sophomore at San Francisco State College, received $300 for a story, "A Brother, a Beach and a Baby," based on an incident which happened at a Marin County beach.

Her mother, Mrs. John W. Miller, of 36 Hawthorne Street, San Anselmo, said the editors of Seventeen urged Jeanette to write additional material for their magazine.

Currently a sophomore at San Francisco State College, where she is majoring in creative writing, Jeanette studied her first year of college at College of Marin. At Drake she was a member of the Jolly Roger newspaper staff, specializing in feature stories. She also wrote for Insight, Drake's literary magazine.

Exact publication date has not yet been announced, her mother said.

Marinite's Photographs Receive Recognition In Eastern Salons

By JOYCE HOLMSTAD

Photographs taken by a Marin school teacher are currently on display at the New York Metropolitan Museum of Modern Art and the Shreveport International Salon of Photography.

The two photographs extended that recognition are "Norwegian Daybreak" and "Vatican Priest," and are the work of Brooks Dutt of 530 Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax.

Dutt is a history teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

He took the pictures while he and his wife were on a two-months tour of Europe this past summer.

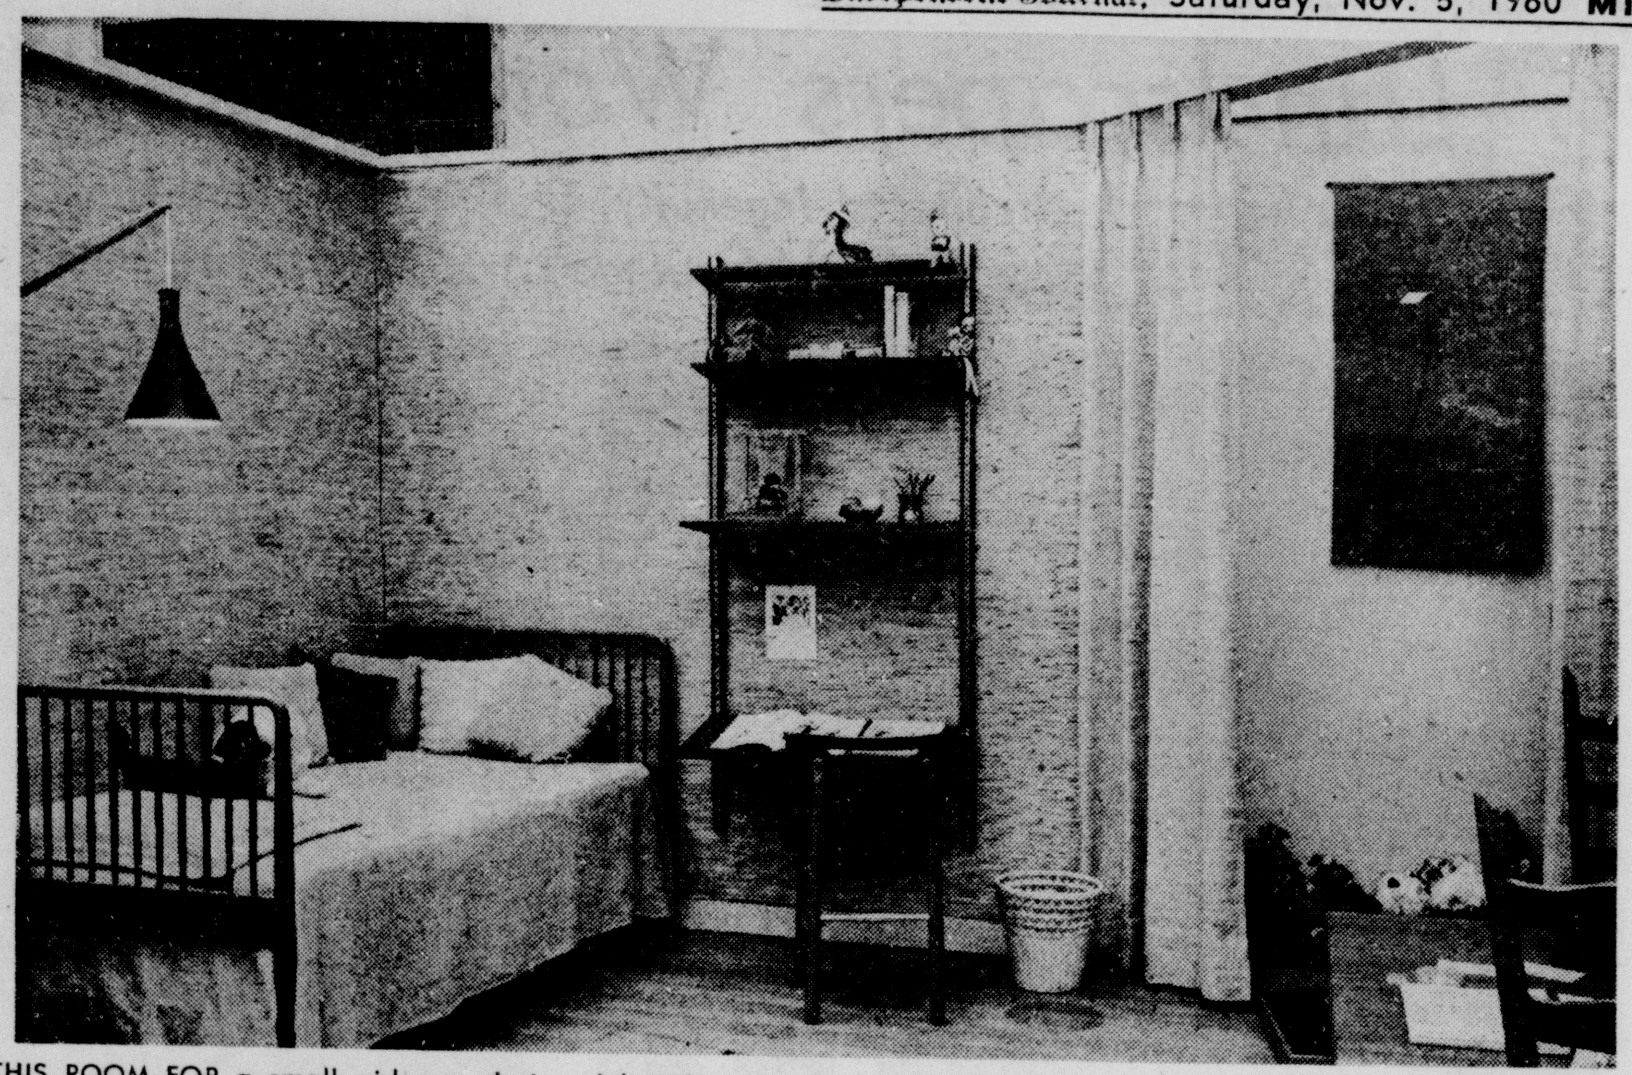
Dutt has been seriously interested in photography for the past seven years. He is a member of the Ross Valley Camera Club and the Photographic Society of America.

Weaver's Skills On Exhibit



THIS ROOM FOR a small girl was designed by Florence Huber of Kentfield and is one of 13 interiors stressing handwoven fabrics included in the current Contemporary Weavers of California exhibition at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco. The room is planned both for the child's playtime and study periods. A bulletin board and hobby storage space are among the features. Wall treatment of Suma Weave, straw woven with linen, serves both to insulate and to soundproof and is easily cleaned. Colors range from brassy yellow to bright orange, pleasing to the average sub-teen-ager. Textures are rough to lend interest to an otherwise simple room.

The county has a strong representation in the Contemporary Handweavers of California exhibition of textiles currently under way at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco.

A portion of the seventh annual exhibition is devoted to 13 interiors put together by decorators and architects especially selected by the participating weavers. The interiors naturally stress the use of handwoven fabrics.

MARIN'S Florence Huber, of Kentfield, is responsible for a little girl's room and patio that has already won much favorable comment. (See photo on this page). She has made clever use of the garden patio so as to give the adjoining child's room a more spacious effect.

Says the Marin designer of her display: "I have endeavored to stress my philosophy that decorating is the creating of backgrounds for people and that the room must function to serve the needs of those using it.

"This room would be used both for quiet study and for a child's playtime. A bulletin board shows to advantage current activities and interests, and there is storage for the hobby of the moment. The wall treatment of Suma Weave which is a straw woven with linen is most practical—pins don't show, it cleans easily, and is both insulation and soundproofing. Colors, which range from a brassy yellow to a bright orange, would suit the average sub-teen-ager. Textures are rather rough, to lend interest to an otherwise very simple room."

ONE OF THE best-known names among Boy Area weavers, Mrs. Kamma Zethraus of Kentfield, did the rug, floor cushion and tapestry for the little girl's room.

Her interest in weaving dates back to 1923 when she became a close friend of Valborg Gravender, an authority in the field who later started a weaving school in San Francisco. And it was there Mrs. Zethraus received her first instruction in weaving.

Mrs. Zethraus organized the Red Cross weaving program for Hamilton Field during World War II, and her skill at the craft has won her a number of the nation's biggest awards in the craft.

A second Marin weaver who has contributed to one of the decorator interiors is Rosalind Ray Watkins of San Anselmo. She is responsible for a rug used in a ski cabin room designed by Campbell and Wong.

Like Mrs. Zethraus, Mrs. Watkins has had training in Sweden as well as in the U.S. She has been an interior designer herself, as well as a teacher of design and weaving. And it was while attending the Institute of Design in Chicago in 1940 that she first became interested in weaving, part of the school's curriculum.

Right now she is concentrating on rug design as an expression of a general interest "in the creative approach to the crafts, but with emphasis upon quality as well as the artistic."

Another section of the exhibition, housed in a separate gallery of the De Young Museum, consists of a display of juried materials. Marinites represented there are Mrs. Myra Falch of Corte Madera and Mrs. Beatrice Bernardi of Sausalito.

And included in a special section representing the coordinating of handwoven and printed fabrics in interior planning is a fabric by Mrs. Hilda L. Dial of Ross.

Marin residents have through Dec. 4 to visit the museum and see the work of their talented fellow Marinites and of other handweavers and designers from throughout the Bay Area.

SOME OF THE other special attractions include the use of a screen for which jute has been interwoven with aluminum wire to provide a weatherproof patio embellishment in rich colors, and a revival of the ancient Egyptian craft of combining embroidery and weaving techniques as seen in the seven-panel screen used in a tea room setting.

All in all, 45 members of the Contemporary Handweavers of California are included in the show.

Those visiting the exhibition are bound to come away with the feeling that the weaver is as much an artist as a craftsman. And with increased appreciation of the great talent of Marin's fine weavers and of the beauty of their products.

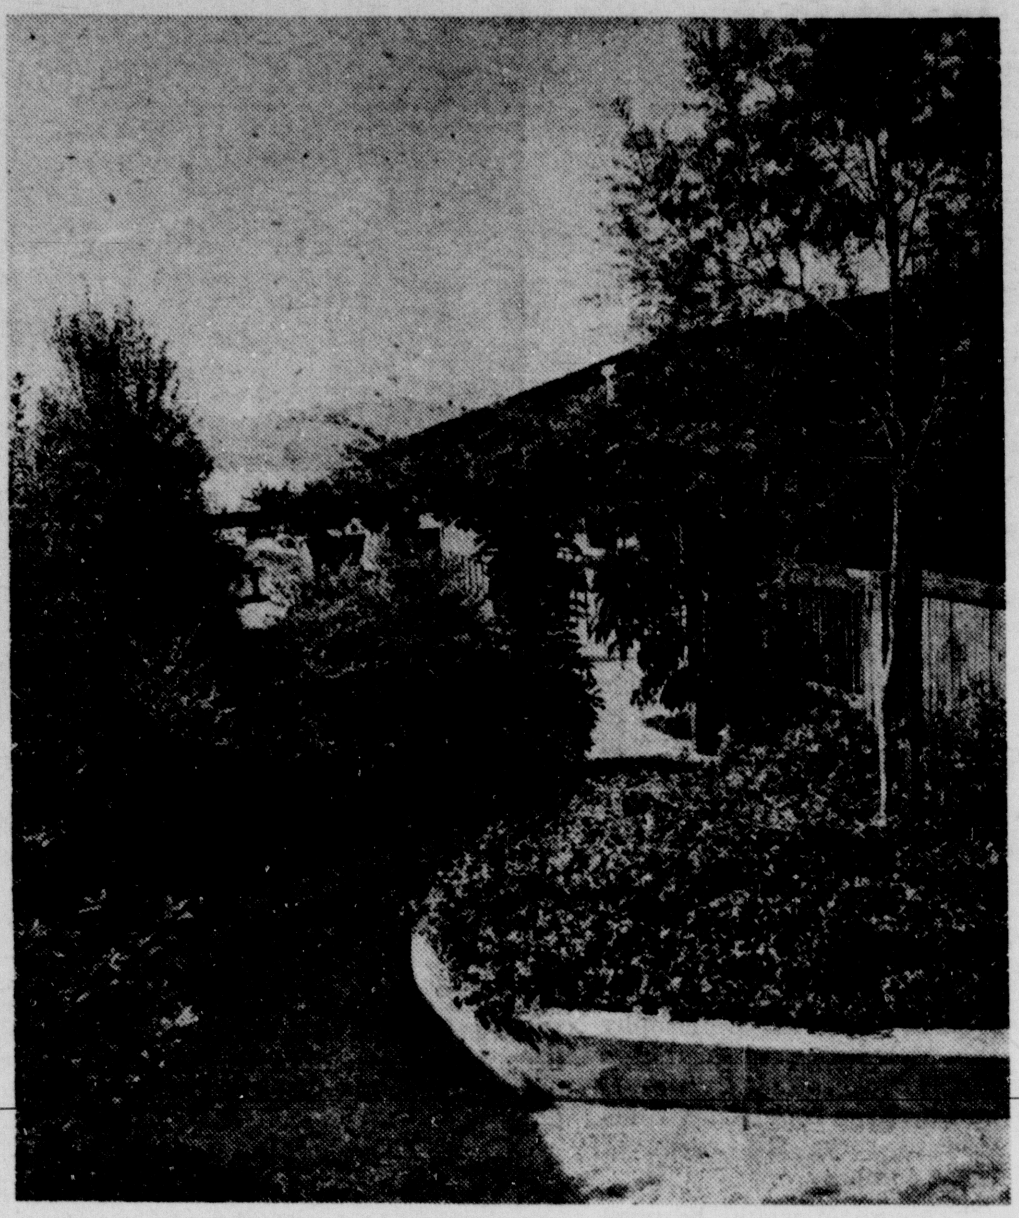
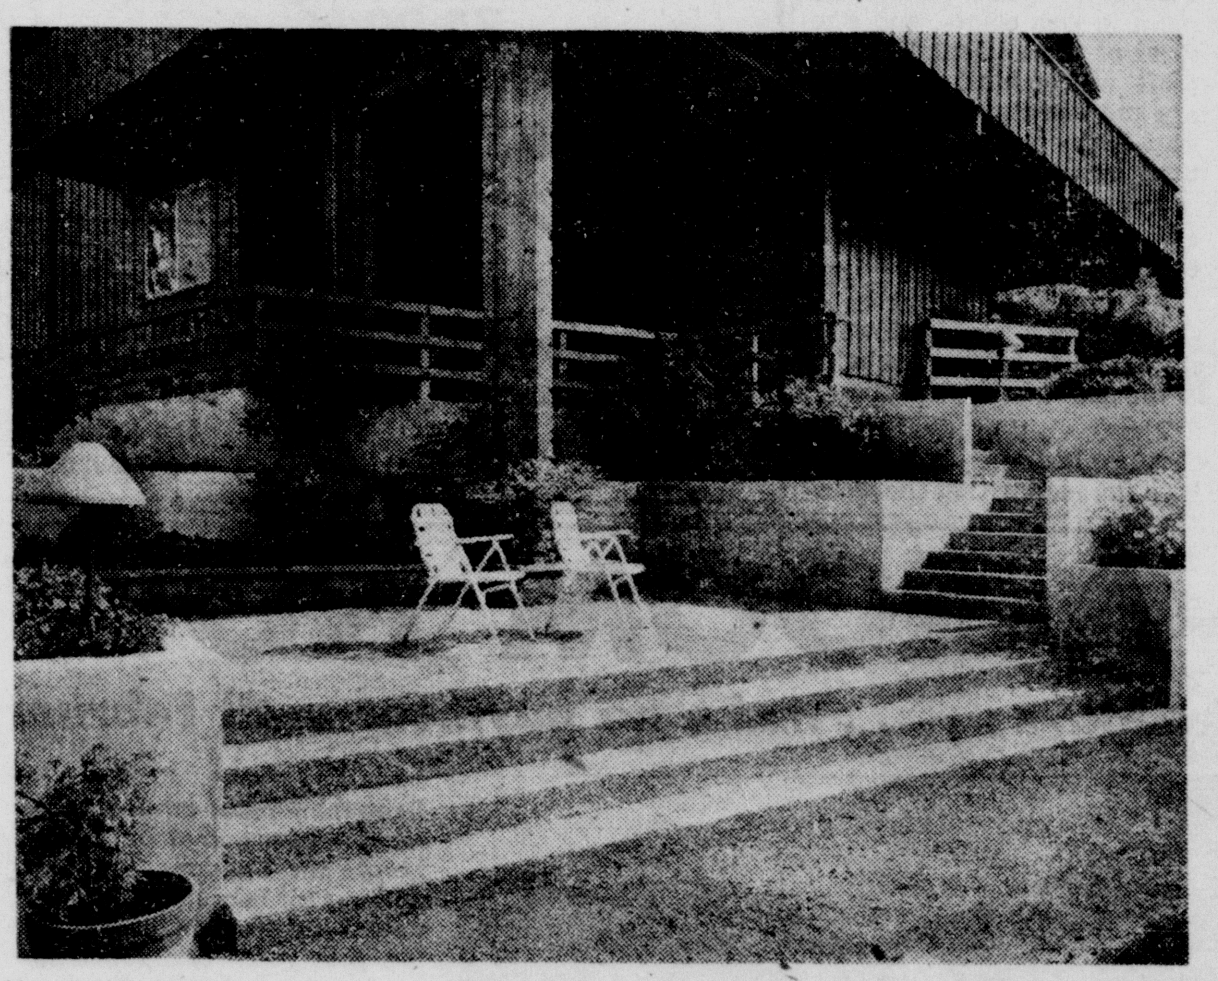
THIS INVITING front entrance way leads to the garden of the V. P. Trembley home at Belvedere. The entrance screen and gate are of bleached redwood. Plantings include creeping strawberry, Mexican mock orange and day lilies.



THE GARDEN PATH at the Trembley home makes an attractive use of exposed aggregate. Ground covers are ajuga and star jasmin. Shrubs which can be seen are heavenly bamboo, foreground, and pittosporum, background. The tree is a mayten.



AN INTERESTING change in texture has been achieved at the Tembley home at 8 Tamalpais Circle, Belvedere, with this concrete retaining wall combined with exposed aggregate concrete steps. Eckbo, Dean and Williams were the landscape architects, and Cagwin and Dorward the landscape contractors.

CONTEMPORARY and rustic materials were combined with good planting by the landscape architects and contractors to create this interesting portion of the Trembley garden. (Photos by Ken Molino)

FOR BACKYARD CHARM, stepped planters of two-by-12 inch redwood may be decorated as shown here with riverwashed oriental rock and driftwood. To give the setting life, fatshedera and melianthus major vines background the spiked flowers, all growing from the planters. This design and construction by Claire and Scott Tilden, San Rafael landscape architects.

Daffodils—Symbols And Spirit Of Spring

If any one plant were to be termed the symbol of spring, it would have to be the Daffodil.

This showy bulb in its myriad forms and colors is a tradition with gardeners around the world for its vernal show. Daffodils fairly shout for joy when spring arrives, and to most of us their mood is contagious.

It's not enough to plant a mere handful of daffodils in the garden. Even the smallest garden can hold them by the dozen and the infinite variety of the different members of the family eliminates any chance of getting an overdose of one thing. Not that you really could. And Daffodils are a good permanent investment, too, since they naturalize readily.

No single nurseryman could stock all of the different varieties of daffodils grown. Most nurserymen have selected what they consider the very best of the named varieties and if you plant these, you'll find that there's good reason for the choice.

King Alfred, the giant trumpet Daffodil, is far and away the people's choice, not only here in California, but almost everywhere else as well. You should use it more freely than the others, but certainly not to the exclusion of lesser lights in the King's court. Don't overlook the likes of Mrs. R. O. Backhouse with its now well-known pink trumpet, or Twink withi ts full double center of yellow flecked with orange. Sunshine is a striking variety, orange-cupped and backed by a halo of white. You'll find plenty more, all worth planting.

And in planting, don't make the mistake of some beginning gardeners who try to spread a few bulbs too thinly. Clump the different daffodils in groups of one variety and stagger the clumps throughout the border. If you do line them up, as along a walk, plant them thickly enough to present a solid front.

Nurserymen strongly recommend working bone meal into the ground beneath each bulb. Be sure that the fertilizer is not in direct contact with the bulb, however. You can overdo a good thing when it comes to that.

Check Now On Available Perennials

If you would give perennials a really good start in life, plant them now and let them winter over in beds where they are to grow. Come spring, they will be well established and ready to push out with a vigor that outstrips any of their kind not planted until after the rains.

You'll notice this difference with most of your perennial favorites and especially with those offered in flats this month by your local nurseryman. So drop in on him before the season advances further and see what's available.

If you are like other gardeners in your likes, the perennial you will be most attracted to is the gorgeous Delphinium. Seedlings set out this fall will produce two crops of blooms next year on spikes that seem ever to be growing taller and more profuse with color.

Primrose seedlings planted now will develop into those lovely little clumps of color that highlight border plantings and edgings. As with Delphinium, the Primrose has grown more bountiful with the passing years. It has been a favorite with California hybridists and their modern strains leave little room for further improvement.

To a man who has only the common parkway strain, the modern hybrid Gazanias come as a pleasant surprise. Mounding clumps to one foot high and big showy flowers of orange to red are the reward of gardeners who grow them.

Perennial Scabiosa, or Pincushion, is often overlooked by gardeners who seek easy color. Their pincushions of bloom will provide a garden sideshow and vase after vase of cut flowers through summer and fall.

Columbines have always been favorites and the new forms today had no rivals in yesterday's garden.

Basket of Gold Alyssum, Dusty Miller, Foxgloves are others we would name — all deserving of your attention and just asking the chance to prove their worth in your garden.

November—It's Month To Plant

November is the month of months for planting all sorts of plants.

It's early for bare-root, deciduous shrubs, but evergreens are ready and waiting to go into the ground. Bulbs, not only the familiar Daffodils and Tulips, but the exotic Lilies should be set out this month.

And bulb covers—selected annuals that will show color while the bulbs are blooming —can be set out now. Pansies and Violas are good choices for this.

BLOOMIN' BEAUTIES

You'll Like The New Lilies

The new garden lilies — those gorgeous hybrids that have come our way in recent years— should be near the top of your planting list these days. They are easy to grow, requiring only the minimum of attention, but they will return a maximum of beautiful blooms for years to come.

The season of their beauty is not long—a few summer weeks at best — but they would be worth waiting for, however brief their appearance. The lovely Fiesta, Bellingham, Mid Century and all the other hybrids have yielded many a new look in the past decade and their face is ever changing as new developments join each segment of the family.

Nurserymen who offer these voluptuous garden favorites recommend that you plant them as soon as possible after getting them home. The bulbs, which are never really dormant, are like fish out of water when they are out of the ground.

Choose any well-drained soil—preferably one on the acid side. A sloping site is ideal since it permits runoff of excess water. In level gardens, if drainage is a problem, the best planting site is in a raised bed. Lilies absolutely abhor wet feet and will not to tolerate soggy soil. A trowel full of sand around the bulb is helpful in this respect.

THE DEGREE of sun tolerance shown by our hybrid Lilies is subject to experiment by the home gardener. Here in Marin a fair degree of sun is in order. In warmer gardens, shade, part shade or filtered shade is a must.

Many of the new lilies grow well over head height, so consider this in planting and keep them to the rear of borders. Have no fear of their being lost by being shunted to the background. With the head of blooms that they produce, there's just no missing them anywhere.

When The Weather Cools, The Christmas Rose Blooms

Most people call them Christmas Roses, which makes "most people" only half or one-third correct. Actually, they are members of the Hellebore family, of which Christmas Rose is only one.

Whatever you call them, you will be doing the right thing by planting them in your garden. For when weather cools and many another plant goes out of bloom, the Hellebores are primed to start their seasonal show.

Of the three most commonly offered by Marin nurserymen, the first to show its blooms is Christmas Rose. Often in bloom by the holiday season, it sets its mass of blooms one to the stem, primarily in white or white with tints of purple.

Lenten Roses make their appearance after the first of the year and differ from their earlier cousins in that flowers are borne several to the stem in a wider range of colors. By no means are these the showy colors of summer annuals, but the gardener will be intrigued by the shades of white to purple, rose and maroon which come his way in a steady succession.

Most intriguing of all, perhaps, is the Corsican Hellebore, a shrubbier member of the family that produces arms of pale green flowers in late winter and early spring. As cut flowers, or on the plant, they will earn their share of comments from those who see them.

Christmas and Lenten Roses are shade lovers and make ideal companions to Camellias. Full grown at 12 to 18 inches high, they will carpet an area of shade and offer their non-clashing, decidedly different blooms as a base from which Camellias can show off.

Corsican Hellebore is more tolerant of heat and stands sun. It shrubs up to three feet high and landscapers like its sharply cut foliage — artichoke-like in appearance—as a year round accent in borders and foundations.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- You can get a lot of mileage from such lesser bulbs as Hyacinth and Muscari. Plant them in drifts or groups for the best effect.
- Gourmets can still plant vegetables for winter harvest. Many are available in flats from your nurseryman.
- Uproot old or unwanted roses to make way for new varieties coming next month. Dig steer manure into the soil where you remove such plants.
- Fall feeding keeps many lawns greener over the winter than gardeners seem to realize. Feed regularly four times a year.

Election Coverage To Dominate The Air Lanes On Tuesday Night

IF YOU ARE among the few disinterested in the outcome of the election, better find yourself a good book or some other amusement for next Tuesday night. There won't be much on television to interest you.

By 6 o'clock all three Bay Area network stations — KRON-TV (Channel 4), KPIX-TV (Channel 5), and KGO-TV (Channel 7)—will have their election coverage under way, and will continue those operations into the late, late movie hours. KPIX has slated the earliest start—4:30 p.m.

Independent KTVU-TV (Channel 2) will join the election return ranks as of 8 p.m.

And so only KQED-TV (Channel 9) will be offering its regular Tuesday evening programming. And even that station has announced plans to interrupt its "Open End" discussion of "The World of Contemporary Art" with election returns from time to time.

NBC-TV, which appeared to score a clearcut victory over rival networks in coverage of the 1960 political conventions both from the standpoint of quality and audience size, is hoping to continue its reign as tops in public affairs programming. That network has announced that it will use more than 1,000 reporters, editors and assistants all armed with 276-page manuals covering statistical and biographical aspects of contests throughout the country. NBC will also put into use for the first time the RCA 501 system, described as "the world's most modern data processing system," in an effort to project the winner of the presidential contest at an early hour.

We have a feeling, however, that NBC's biggest weapon will be, as was the case in its convention coverage, its anchor team of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley who mix a sense of humor with penetrating analysis in their running commentary.

CBS-TV, still smarting from its licking at the conventions, has called two of its ace foreign correspondents, Eric Sevareid and David Schoenbrun, home from Europe to back up standbys Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite and Howard K. Smith. The very astute Sevareid should be an especially helpful addition to the CBS "team."

ABC-TV, which trailed well behind the other two networks at the conventions, also expects to throw a 1,000-man force into the election night fray. John Daly will again handle the ABC anchor post. And the Remington Rand UNIVAC computer will be part of the ABC arsenal, assigned to projecting and predicting.

KTVU-TV will join with KFAX, the all-news radio station, and the staff of the San Francisco News-Call Bulletin in offering a news coverage which will place considerable emphasis upon local Bay Area contests and vote tabulations.

So pick your channel and sit back and listen. If you don't like the coverage you are receiving, switch to another channel. But if your man's behind, changing channels won't put him ahead.

ELECTION NIGHT tip: ABC-TV has selected six key states — California, Illinois, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas (a last-minute replacement for Michigan)—for special coverage in the belief that the result of the presidential contest could well be decided in those six states.

THE SAUSALITO Little Theater's delightful melodrama production of this past summer, "East of the Rockies," Wurlitzer Theater Orchestra and all, has been scheduled for Nov. 25 at 8:30 p. m. on KQED-TV (Channel 9).

It will be a live presentation in the Drama Festival time slot which previously has been reserved for Shakespearean plays. "East of the Rockies" is slated for one hour with pantomimist Marcel and a French film entitled "The White Mane" filling out the remainder of the two-hour time period.

TWO MARINITES will be seen this Sunday night on Herb Caen's "Baghdad-by-the-Bay" discussion show, starting at 11 p.m. on KGO-TV (Channel 7) at 11 p.m.

The subject will be politics, and the four-member panel will be split evenly between Democrats and Republicans. On the Democratic side will be California party leaders Roger Kent of Marin and Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk. The GOP team will consist of Joseph Martin Jr. and Caspar Weinberger.

Marinite William Winter will again assist Caen with the hosting duties.

Weinberger, incidentally, will serve as moderator for the special KQED-TV (Channel 9) show on the state water bond proposal, to be seen Monday from 8 to 10 p.m. It was originally scheduled for last week, but postponed until the eve of the election.

INDEPENDENT KTVU (Channel 2) continues to show signs of new vigor.

On the heels of its new "Play of the Week" series comes the announcement that the station has obtained exclusive rights to the "Great Music from Chicago" programs and is currently shopping for sponsors.

The series will be scheduled in prime evening time in the near future, KTVU promises.

Guest artists will include Dorothy Kirsten, Rosalind Elias, Grant Johanesen, Byron Janis, the Robert Trendler Chorale, and — surprise — Sarah Vaughn and Woody Herman.

MADE WITH

Cultured Wood®

Cultured Wood is produced through an exclusive Kroehler process in which natural wood is reduced to fibers, then re-formed to create this revolutionary new furniture making material.

CULTURED WOOD® used in cabinet tops and fronts is a new basic furniture making material that resists warping and shrinking, thus reducing the possibility of sticking drawers and doors and cracked or checked finishes. The credenza and sideboard have rosewood parquets, hand crafted brass-and-ceramic pulls. Iridescent interior panels of the glass credenza are antique figured tortoise shell. Baluster chairs are of Shaker origin.
All pieces finished in Velvet Walnut.
